Bankruptcy for Cities.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIAMI, Fla., March 31. WITHOUT A roll call, the House of Representatives passed a bill authorizing President Roosevelt to send 250,000 idle men to work in national forests for $1 a day and board. It isn't much, and, as Mr. Green, of the Federation of Labor, said, it may establish a bad precedent in low wages. But one dollar a day and board is better than nothing a day and no board. And good workmen used to be hired in this country for $100 a year.

Some Congressmen tried to defeat President Roosevelt's will, but decided that the time has not come for that yet.

TOMORROW THE Hitler party proposes to start a nation-wide boycott against Jews in Germany, calling the boycott "a reprisal for the atrocity campaign" alleged to have been made by Jews.

If carried out, without interference by the German government, the boycott will be harmful to German Jews in the beginning, infinitely more harmful to German business and prosperity in the end.

Action that would deprive Germany of the Jewish commercial and industrial ability that has done so much to build up German prosperity will probably not last long. The Germans are intelligent.

B. C. FORBES, whose specialty is the dinosaur of high finance, carries at the top of his letter paper this line:

"With all thy getting, get understanding."

The amount of "understanding" that some financial dinosaurs are going to acquire in the next two or three years may amaze even Mr. Forbes.

After twelve million men have been idle for awhile, and 123,000,000 Americans have wallowed through the trough of the depression for a few years, with insolvency in place of prosperity, they will be inclined to ask definite questions, and even take definite measures, and impart definite "understanding" of the people's mood.

A BILL to be introduced by Congressman Wilcox, of Miami, will interest holders of municipal bonds. Mr. Wilcox's bill would allow cities overburdened with debt to go into bankruptcy as individuals do, settle with their creditors on a basis of their ability to pay, and have a clean bill of health, following the bankruptcy.

This will startle those taught to look on municipal bonds as first mortgages on the city. They are nothing of the kind, because nobody would have power to sell a city to meet the mortgage, or would exercise the power if he had it.

SOMEONE TIED heavy pieces of iron to the railroad track ahead of a train on which Yosuke Matsuoka, head of Japan's delegation, was traveling to Boston. The iron placed to wreck the train was wrapped in yellow and red bunting, called by police "Chinese colors."

They suspect Chinese, hostile to Japan, of trying to wreck the train, but there is no proof that Chinese are responsible.

The Chinese are intelligent and know that to wreck a train in this country, if the act should be traced to Chinese activity, might be worse for innocent Chinese here than for anybody in Japan. They know also that any Chinese who feels that his country has been badly treated by Japan can express his resentment respectably, most appropriately, by going back to China to fight against the Japanese.

MR. WYATT, lawyer of the Federal Reserve Bank, says Congress has power to abolish state banks, and put all the banking under the national government. Apart from that, President Roosevelt has convinced you of his own ability to do things, anyhow, and make Congress say "amen."

Andrew Jackson knew how to deal with financial institutions, also how to get the nation into a pretty bad financial muddle, following his attack on the big bank.

IT IS important, as Frederick H. Prince, of Boston, says, not to deprive small communities of services that only the little local banks can render.

No gentleman sent from Washington could possess intimate acquaintance with a community's financial needs, and its citizens' responsibility.

However, banks controlled to prevent their bursting at the rate of thousands a year, with an occasional moratorium, would be desirable. Our American system that breaks down, stalls, and breaks up, like an automobile eighteen years old, isn't much of a credit to the country.

A BREWER expressed his gratitude for President Roosevelt's beer action, by sending excellent beer to the White House. The Roosevelt family will soon decide, "beer or no beer."

The President's wife is a total abstainer, but if Congress, at her husband's request, says 3.2 beer is not intoxicating, then it is NOT intoxicating. To shut the innocent drink out of the White House would seem like contradicting the President.

IT IS PROPOSED that government regulate the quantity and character of stocks sold to the gullible public. The other assorted thievery that has been practiced on the American people is nothing compared to a fraudulent issue of watered stock.

One concern issued more than SIXTY MILLION SHARES of stocks against one unimportant light and power company, selling the stock at a price that,

FOREST JOBS IN 2 WEEKS, AIM OF F.R.

President Signs Bill To Provide Work For 200,000

Developments today in state and nation on unemployment relief:

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT signed and enacted into law the conservation employment program as aides speeded plans for enlisting thousands of jobless in large cities.

GOV. PINCHOT conferred with the President, said Pennsylvania was ready to go ahead with a $1,000,000 conservation program with United States funds, and prepared to ask the R. F. C. for $3,500,000 for April relief.

LABOR SECRETARY Perkins and labor organizations agreed on a broad program for improvement of unemployment conditions, including shorter working hours and higher wages.

SPEAKER RAINEY predicted quick passage of the Senate's $500,000,000 direct federal relief bill.

(Details on Pages 1 and 2.)

WASHINGTON, March 31. — (AP.)—President Roosevelt today made his forest conservation-employment program law by signing the bill, while his aides rushed to make ready for enlisting thousands from the cities' jobless for the work.

He directed the Department of Labor to supervise enrollment of the idle, making plain that he had in mind selection of men who went to the metropolitan centers during boom days now to carry out the task of putting the many watersheds of the nation again in condition to produce timber and guard against floods.

JOBS IN TWO WEEKS

It is the hope of Mr. Roosevelt to get some men to work within two weeks. By midsummer, he believes, over 200,000 men can be wielding axes and pushing spades in the forests.

The President will go ahead with the plan he had in mind to give the "civilian conservation corps" a pay of $30 a month with food and subsistence.

Maj. R. Y. Stuart, United States forester, called a conference of representatives of state forestry departments to plan for state projects.

100 IN EACH CAMP

Plans for the camps would limit the number of men in most cases in each to about 100. Larger numbers would be used in camps where projects requiring considerable labor were concentrated in a small area.

The War Department is prepared to transport men long distances, including from eastern cities to forests in western states, if necessary, but this program is not likely to be adopted if it can be avoided, because of the expense which would be involved.

Harriman Quiz Asked In Senate

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, March 31. — (AP.)—Authority for the Senate Banking Committee to investigate private banking houses, including J. P. Morgan and Company, was asked in a resolution introduced today by Chairman Fletcher.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—A resolution calling upon the Senate Judiciary Committee to investigate the failure of the Department of Justice under Former Attorney General William D. Mitchell to prosecute officials of the Harriman Bank and Trust Company of New York, was offered today by Senator Costigan (Dem.), of Colorado.

The resolution climaxed a Senate demand which has been increasing daily since it was revealed that the department withheld action for several months on criminal evidence implicating George W. Harriman, chairman of the bank's board of directors.

Harriman was arrested after the Roosevelt administration took office. He is under bond on charges of falsifying the bank's records. The bank is in the hands of federal authorities.

The Harriman resolution was the first step toward a broad inquiry into the entire structure of private banking which followed the controversy between Ferdinand Pecora, special investigator for the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, and the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Rebuffed in the efforts of Pecora to obtain information from the great international banking house, the committee is awaiting action by the Senate empowering it to extend its stock market in-

PINCHOT DRAFTS FOREST PLAN

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot, after a conference with President Roosevelt today, said Pennsylvania was ready to go ahead with a $1,000,000 forest conservation program if the federal government furnished the money.

Pinchot came to Washington to ask the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for approximately $3,500,000 to tide the state relief board through April.

The Governor said the state's needy would require approximately $6,700,000 next month and that the relief board only had about half of that amount.

In regard to the forest conservation program, Pinchot said plans had been completed and that only lack of funds hold up the projects.

He was not certain how many men could be employed under such a program.

RUTH FOILED AT SAWING CELL BARS

Doomed Trunk Slayer Nearly Escapes Arizona Pen

FLORENCE Ariz., March 31.—(INS.)—A plot for the daring escape of Winnie Ruth Judd, condemned "double trunk" murderess, from her cell in condemned row in the state prison here, was revealed today at the office of Warden A. G. Walker.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of the "Velvet Tigress'" young brother, Burton McKinnell, for attempting to aid his pretty blonde sister to escape, it was revealed.

SAWS DISCOVERED

Authorities wanted to question McKinnell about the presence of two small saws found in Mrs. Judd's cell.

Mrs. Judd had almost sawed two bars in two before attendants discovered what she had done, it was stated at the warden's office.

Only the plea of the killer's elderly mother, Mrs. H. J. McKinnell, Darlington, Ind., prevented prison officials from putting Mrs. Judd in the dungeon.

In many respects the attempted escape of Mrs. Judd resembled the amazing break from the Los Angeles County Jail of Clara Phillips, hammer slayer of Alberta Meadows.

Mrs. Phillips sawed the bars of her cell as did Mrs. Judd, and escaped by clambering over the roofs of buildings in the vicinity of the present civic center.

Mrs. Judd, had she succeeded in hacking the remaining bars of her cell, could have slipped out onto the prison grounds under the cover of darkness, and, by scaling the side of a small building, would have been able to leap over the prison wall to the roof of another structure on the outside, it was said.

BLEEDING HANDS

At the warden's office it was declared that Mrs. Judd's hands were "raw and bleeding" when she was thwarted in her plot to escape.

The attempt to escape occurred "about three weeks ago," the warden's office disclosed.

It was said at the prison that young McKinnell, formerly a uni-

"Bargains" is the key word in the second annual Sun-Telegraph Classified Jubilee Week which begins Sunday and will continue for seven days.

Houses, apartments, automobiles, rugs, furniture, pianos—in fact everything you need will be listed in the classified ad section of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Pittsburgh will pour these offers to the readers of the Sun-Telegraph through the medium of classified ads.

Not only is the purchaser considered in Classified Jubilee Week, but it will be a time to sell or rent or trade. There will be no increase in the regular classified rates during the jubilee.

Daily broadcasts over Station WCAE will keep the radio audience up to date on the progress of this second annual drive for bargains.

The wide coverage of Jubilee Week is indicated by a few more of the articles to be offered: beauty aids, plumbing supplies, machinery, poultry farm and pet stock. Countless other articles also will be listed.

Wife Asks Divorce From 'Swan' Dancer

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31.—(AP.)—In her petition for divorce from William Alvin Palmer, his dancer wife, Dorothy Aldridge Palmer, asserts he rose in the middle of the night to do the "dance of the dying swan" before a mirror.

She also alleges Palmer, who also is a dancer, belittled her dancing ability.

Council President Made City's Head Without Pomp

It's Mayor John S. Herron now.

The one-time bricklayer stepped from the presidency of Council into the Mayoralty late today, as Council accepted the resignation of Charles H. Kline, who abdicated to escape a six months jail term.

Herron's elevation was automatic, the charter act providing that the President of Council shall act as Mayor for from 10 to 20 days in event of a vacancy. Before the expiration of the period Council will elect a mayor for the unexpired term. Herron's election is regarded as assured.

The shift in the reins of city government occurred before a crowd that jammed the Council chamber.

Kline's last hours in office were spent bidding goodbye to city employes, men and women.

Asked as to his plans for the future, he said:

"I don't expect to leave the city for a rest or a vacation. What I require more than anything else is medical attention. I shall stay here to receive that attention. I am feeling weak and tired today."

Midnight Curfew On Taxes, Autos

Today was the deadline for citizens to comply with three requirements of federal and state governments:

1—File income tax returns.
2—Have automobiles officially inspected.
3—Return on sales tax; first half payment due tomorrow and remainder, if desired, May 15, with 6 per cent interest for interim.

PINCHOT BEER FOES AGREE

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 31.—Representative Clinton A. Sowers and Democratic leaders in the House have come to a tentative compromise on the Sowers bill for the machinery by which the manufacture and sale of beer would be licensed in Pennsylvania.

Sowers finds acceptable the Democratic insistence, voiced by Representative James L. Quinn, of Braddock, that the minority party shall have representation on license boards.

The Democrats want a five-man commission to act for the state, all five to be appointed by the Governor. But the Governor would be compelled to take two of the appointments from a list of names submitted by the Republican State Chairman and two by the Democratic State Chairman.

Sowers would have had manu-

NAZIS WAVER ON JEWISH CAMPAIGN

Assurance of End to Agitation Abroad Spurs Reversal

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, March 31.—(INS.)—After a previous official announcement that the Nazi party boycott against Jews would be called off, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, declared at 8:45 p. m. tonight that a nominal boycott would start tomorrow, but will be effective for only one day.

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service.

BERLIN, March 31.—The anti-Jewish nation-wide boycott which was to be launched tomorrow morning will be called off at 8 o'clock tonight, it is officially announced.

This action, it is understood, will be taken as the result of informal assurances from abroad that anti-German agitation in connection with the boycott plan is subsiding.

The announcement was made at a moment when all plans had been made for a nation-wide drive tomorrow against Jewish enterprises of all kinds and when Nazi volunteers were preparing to go into action; picketing Jewish shops through the nation.

Meanwhile, in Berlin itself dismissal of all Jewish employes was demanded by the Nazi Betriebszellen organization, national workers' and employes' organization.

ULTIMATUM SERVED

In an ultimatum served upon all employers, the Betriebszellen also demanded that all German employes be given two months' salary in advance.

The party boycott which had been slated to start tomorrow had various repercussions.

Karstadt, the largest department store organization in the country, announced it had dismissed all Jews from its board of directors as well as all Jewish employes in its shops.

The union of Nazi railway employes today wired Herr Dorpmutller, president of the Federal Railways, demanding that the railways cease placing orders with Jewish firms.

The Nazis also protested the employment of Jewish railroad offi-

CHICAGO, March 31.—(INS.)—One bandit and a policeman were treated today for bullet wounds received last night when two officers on guard at the home of Acting Mayor Frank J. Corr staged a revolver battle with two holdup men.

Learning that a robbery was in progress across the street from the Mayor's home in the Rowantrees Hotel, the two policemen entered the hotel lobby and the gun fight ensued.

Basketball Stars' Plane Crashes, Five Killed

NEODESHA, Kan., March 31.—(AP.)—A big tri-motored private airplane carrying the championship basketball team of Canada crashed near here today, costing the lives of five of the occupants and seriously injuring the other nine passengers.

The ship, experiencing motor trouble, plunged to the ground on a sodden meadow a twisted mass of wreckage. It was en route from Tulsa, Okla., to Winnipeg, the home city of the team, the Canadian Toilers.

The plane left Tulsa, Okla., at 7 a. m., where the Canadian team had lost two games of an international basketball series to the Tulsa Diamond Oilers, United States amateur champions. The series was to be continued in Winnipeg next month.

The crash came two years to the day after the tragedy near Bazaar, Kan., 100 miles away, which cost the life of Knute Rochne, famous Notre Dame football coach and seven other passengers of a commercial transport plane flying from Kansas City.

Two famous Pittsburgh brother-athletes, Arthur G., and Charles DeWitt Hyatt, Jr., played on the Tulsa Oilers team last night, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

The boys are employed by the Mid-Continent Petroleum Company at Tulsa, their father, Charles DeWitt Hyatt, athletic director at the Pittsburgh Athletic Club, said.

Many Midnight Parties To Ring in New Beer

The big 3.2 beer parade will be on one week from last midnight.

Orders for 400,000 cases are on the books of the three operating breweries here—the Pittsburgh Brewing Company, the Independent Brewing Company and the Fort Pitt Company. Others, fewer in number, are for barreled brew.

Beer parties will be the thing as revelers welcome the new beer. They are so thirsty, many are going direct to the breweries and will be there on the stroke of midnight Thursday.

Special beer parties are planned at the William Penn Hotel's Chatterbox, for 12:01 a. m., with 200 kegs and 200 cases on hand; a special supper at the Roosevelt, a service bar in the Pittsburgher and bottled beer at the Henry.

An official of the Independent Brewing Company said he believed police officers would be necessary to direct traffic at its South Side plant. Everyone apparently wants his beer the minute the law says "go."

A great many cases are slated for home delivery. The willingness of the customers to take care of their own delivery service made it apparent there wouldn't be any need for the old-time brewery horses, even if the breweries had the horses.

There'll be no "rushing the growler" to the brew houses. Orders are being taken in case or keg lots. The lots run from one to 1,000 cases. Others are for quarters, halves and whole barrels.

The word from the brewers was that there will be no shortage. There's plenty of beer, they said, and it will be good beer.

GOVERNMENT, LABOR IN ACCORD ON BIG WORK PROGRAM

SHORT HOURS, HIGHER WAGE AGREED ON

Miss Perkins Confers With William Green At F. R.'s Request

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—Secretary Frances Perkins and more than a score of representatives of organized labor found themselves in accord today on many phases of a broad program for the improvement of labor and unemployment conditions that each brought to a conference.

Each agreed that there should be shorter working hours, higher wages, a public works program, relief for the owners of mortgaged homes, unemployment insurance, and a wide variety of changes in existing conditions.

An outline of the views of the Secretary of Labor and the labor organizations was given by each side as they went into the conference called by Miss Perkins at the request of President Roosevelt.

SEEK LABOR VIEWS

Its purpose is to get in detail the views of Labor on methods to aid employment and relief steps to be taken and reconcile them, if possible, with the administration's viewpoint.

As the meeting began, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, issued a statement outlining his organization's views. Almost simultaneously one came from the Labor Department.

President Roosevelt is now formulating plans for an extensive public works program and for the relief of small home owners.

Miss Perkins' statement advanced the opinion that labor, in the administration of unemployment relief, should be represented on state relief boards and should participate in setting administrative standards concerning the amount of relief allowed.

SCHOOL AID ASKED

The report brought into the meeting by Miss Perkins said about 4,100,000 families and 600,000 single persons were receiving public relief in the sections of the United States in which Federal funds were available. It added that these sections contained about three-fourths of the total population.

Among other things, the Green proposal called for a billion-dollar appropriation for unemployment relief and the launching of a huge program of public works.

Green complained of a "collapse of public schools throughout the country" as one of the "most alarming manifestations of the depression." He said:

"Thousands of schools have already closed for the year; major curtailments have occurred in school work in 30 states. In a number of places schools are being kept open by unpaid teachers or by tuition fees."

He asked that federal credit back the schools "as that credit is now extended to private industry."

CONSTABLE DIES OF GUN WOUND

Constable George Lane, of Crafton, died early today in Mercy Hospital of a gunshot wound inflicted, according to county detectives, by Lane's wife during an argument in their home at 39 South Emily street, Crafton, a week ago today.

Lane absolved his wife, telling county detectives:

"It was all my fault."

quiry into that of private financiers.

Action of the committee followed a report by Pecora, who said the New York banking house had declined to answer seven of a list of 23 questions, and had summarily declined to discuss one question.

This question, he said, referred to the capital structure of the institution. He did not disclose the other seven questions.

STATEMENT BY DAVIS

At the same time John W. Davis, counsel for the House of Morgan, issued a statement from New York intimating the banking firm was eager to co-operate with the Senate committee in its investigation.

The Democratic presidential nominee of 1924 said:

"I have seen statements from Washington with reference to the inquiry by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee into the affairs of J. P. Morgan & Co.

"The impression given that the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. has refused to co-operate in the proceedings of the committee is entirely erroneous.

"Even now the firm is engaged in the preparation, under my direction, of information along the lines suggested by Mr. Pecora several days ago. There is no disposition to decline to answer any pertinent inquiries."

Senator Fletcher (Dem.), of Florida, chairman of the Senate Committee, expressed the belief it would be unnecessary to subpena the records of the Morgan company, but members intimated that Morgan might be called before their body for questioning.

Meanwhile committees of House and Senate speeded action on President Roosevelt's request for legislation clamping Federal regulation on the issuance and sale of stocks and bonds.

PUBLICITY ON STOCKS

Huston Thompson, former member of the Federal Trade Commission, told the House Interstate Commerce Committee how the impending regulation would afford full publicity on all security issues, so the investor could know what he is buying and that it would make possible swift and sure punishment of defrauding promoters and corporation officials.

Chairman Rayburn, of the committee, had asserted previously that the public is tired of "buying a pig in a poke."

Slump in Soft Coal And Construction Offsets Gains

HARRISBURG, March 31.—(AP.)—The Department of Labor and Industry estimates there were 11,992 more jobless in the state last month than in January.

It reported today the February total 1,321,842, and noted the increase in unemployment occurred despite an upward trend in the manufacturing, anthracite mining and quarrying industries.

The department attributed the mounting total to decreases in building construction and retail trade and to less activity in bituminous mining, wholesale trade, transportation and communication and the service industries.

Carbon County continued to lead with the largest percentage of unemployed. The estimated number idle was 9,479, or 43.7 per cent of the working population. Beaver and Schuylkill counties showed more than 40 per cent of the working population unemployed.

The number of unemployed in Lackawanna County decreased 4.2 per cent; 5.3 per cent in Luzerne County and 4.8 per cent in Schuylkill County due to improved anthracite business.

The estimated number of unemployed by counties:

Adams, 3,775; Allegheny, 207,584; Armstrong, 9,471; Beaver, 23,116; Bedford, 3,128; Berks, 32,457; Blair, 16,995; Bradford, 4,224; Bucks, 11,812; Butler, 10,025; Cambria, 22,295; Cameron, 627; Carbon, 9,479; Centre, 5,132; Chester, 15,650; Clarion, 3,450; Clearfield, 9,933; Clinton, 3,584; Columbia, 5,855; Crawford, 6,886; Cumberland, 7,993; Dauphin, 22,139; Delaware, 40,287; Elk, 3,913; Erie, 25,463; Fayette, 22,331; Forest, 706; Franklin, 6,995; Fulton, 523; Greene, 3,998; Huntingdon, 4,488; Indiana, 6,956; Jefferson, 5,350; Juniata, 947; Lackawanna, 40,586; Lancaster, 22,371; Lawrence, 15,245; Lebanon, 9,675; Lehigh, 24,468; Luzerne, 59,629; Lycoming, 11,764; McKean, 7,934; Mercer, 13,554; Mifflin, 4,822; Monroe, 3,475; Montgomery, 36,020; Montour, 1,572; Northampton, 24,342; Northumberland, 16,760; Perry, 1,699; Philadelphia, 115,698; Pike, 873; Potter, 1,393; Schuylkill, 34,444; Snyder, 1,739; Somerset, 8,201; Sullivan, 744; Susquehanna, 3,265; Tioga, 5,810; Union, 1,528; Venango, 8,215; Warren, 5,313; Washington, 26,580; Wayne, 2,262; Westmoreland, 37,574; Wyoming, 1,511; York, 22,142.

LINDY 'PLOTTER' TO CUT GRASS

AKRON, O., March 31.—(INS.)—A visibly frightened, 14-year-old boy today was "sentenced" to mow church lawns, wash the pastor's car and go to church and school regularly after admitting he sent two extortion notes to Mrs. Charles A. Lingbergh, demanding $25,000.

Judge Oscar Hunsicker imposed the punishment as he paroled the boy, Probeno Marcella, into the custody of the Rev. Father William J. Fitzgerald, pastor of the Catholic church at Hudson, O., where the boy lived.

HOUSE TO SPEED BILL FOR AID TO STATES

Rainey Certain That Senate Measure Will Be Passed

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—Confidently predicting its passage by the House, Speaker Rainey said today the $500,000,000 Senate relief bill will be referred to the Ways and Means Committee Monday for consideration. He said:

"It won't come up in the House before Tuesday or Wednesday at the earliest. When it comes over from the Senate Monday, it will be referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

"There is no doubt about its passage."

The measure, allotting $500,000,000 of federal funds for relief grants to the states, was passed by the Senate yesterday. It is the second step in President Roosevelt's three-point relief program—employment in forest conservation, direct relief and public construction.

Asked whether he preferred lending the funds instead of outright gifts to states, Rainey replied:

"It doesn't make much difference whether you loan or give, the states won't pay it back anyway."

He said that since it involves a bond issue, "the bill won't affect efforts to balance the budget."

F. R. ACTS ON FARM BILL

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today took into his own hands the administration farm bill, summoning to a conference the members of the Senate Agricultural Committee after they had failed to agree among themselves on what to do with the bill.

Prior to the decision of the President, the committee had by unanimous vote of the 15 members present, decided to include in its report on the bill a recommendation for the expansion of the currency, on a motion of Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma.

'Economy' Slowing Plans for Parley

LONDON, March 31.—(AP.)—Further progress toward calling a world economic conference as soon as possible was made today in a two-hour conference between Prime Minister MacDonald and Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, with late May as the objective date.

The speed of the negotiations has been reduced somewhat because the American government's economy program has curtailed use of the trans-Atlantic telephone.

Woodring Appointed To War Department

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today nominated Harry H. Woodring, former Governor of Kansas, to be Assistant Secretary of War. The President also named Daniel W. MacCormack, of New York, to be Commissioner General of Immigration in the Labor Department.

IL DUCE'S PACT FOR GERMAN EQUALITY

Mussolini Puts Nation On Same Footing With War Victors

LONDON, March 31.—(INS.)—Equality of rights for Germany is provided in Premier Mussolini's four-power peace plan, it was affirmed today with publication of the semi-official version of the program.

Mussolini's plan, it was revealed, consists of six articles, which may be summarized as follows:

1—Italy, Germany, Britain and France undertake to realize an effective policy of co-operation for maintenance of peace, in accordance with the Kellogg-Briand Pact and other anti-war agreements.

2—The four powers confirm the principle revision of peace treaties in accordance with the clauses of the League Covenant and within the framework of the League of Nations.

3—France, Britain and Italy declare that should the disarmament conference "reach only partial results," the principle of equality of rights for Germany should have effective value. Germany undertakes to realize this equality by stages which will be fixed by successive understandings to be concluded among the four powers, who will undertake similar understandings regarding Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria.

(This article confirmed previous International News Service dispatches stating the nations defeated in the World War would receive equal treatment under the terms of Mussolini's plan.)

4—The four powers undertake to adopt as far as possible a com line of conduct on all questions.

5—This agreement, if necessary, will be submitted for approval to the parliaments of the nations involved within three months and will endure for 10 years. It will be renewed for the same period if not denounced by any one of the contracting parties one year before its expiration.

6—The pact will be registered at the League Secretariat.

AIR CHIEF HITS BIGGER NAVY

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—Cessation of battleship building until "we can overhaul our system of national defense" was recommended to the House Military Committee today by Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the Army Air Corps.

Recalling the Democratic platform pledge for a survey of the nation's armed forces, Foulois said:

"We must take immediate steps to overhaul our entire system of national defense. No more battleships should be built unless the future policy of the United States is to be to invade foreign countries.

"All future sea engagements, in my opinion, normally will be within the cruising range of land-based airships.

"Just as it has been necessary in the past to protect our shores against attacks from the sea, it now becomes necessary to protect our homeland from attacks from the air. The present strength of the Army Air Corps is only about half what it should be for the proper protection of the United States."

LOIS TESTIFIES FOR COLLEEN

LOS ANGELES, March 31.—(AP.)—Lois Wilson, film actress, testified yesterday in behalf of a sister actress, Colleen Moore, in trial of Mrs. Clara B. De Can's $100,000 suit against Miss Moore as the result of a traffic accident.

Mrs. De Can, 63, said she was struck by Miss Moore's motor car as she was crossing a Hollywood street.

Miss Wilson told the jury she was riding in her own car in the direction opposite to that taken by Miss Moore. The witness said she saw Mrs. De Can crossing the street and that the latter appeared to be confused and turned back before being struck.

MAURICE DONE WITH ROMANCE

PARIS, March 31.—(INS.)—Hopes of mutual friends that a reconciliation might be effected between Maurice Chevalier and his divorced wife, Yvonne Vallee, were dashed when the smiling screen star arrived today from the United States. Chevalier said:

"I have no idea of remarrying Yvonne. In fact, I am through with romance."

While Chevalier was on his way, Mlle. Vallee intimated to International News that she might meet her former husband at the pier, declaring she was ready for a reconciliation at any time. She was not on hand when his boat arrived, however.

With such "bargains" you need not be surprised at any depression, any series of bank explosions or private bankruptcies.

SPAIN DECIDES that Spanish women may vote, beginning April 23, in municipal elections. That is a start.

The Latin races oppose "votes for women," perhaps because Latin women play so large a part in their husband's affairs, and have already plenty to do. Where you find a man of Latin race running a business you are apt to find his wife, dressed in plain black, behind the cashier's desk, or otherwise carrying one-half the burden.

TROOPERS OUST JUDGES

BERLIN, March 31.—(AP.)—Nazi Storm Troopers today cleared Berlin law courts of Jewish judges and attorneys.

Among those ousted was Chief Justice Kurt Soelling.

Chancellor Hitler's old battle-cry that "Jews and the stock exchanges started the World War" was revived in a proclamation issued today by the Central Boycott Committee. The proclamation said:

"Judah is stabbing Germany in the back with the same methods it employed to perpetrate the criminal World War. Again Judah is at work calumniating the German people as Huns and barbarians."

Plans have been announced to restrict Jewish attendance in schools of all grades and last night the Prussian Nazi party proposed that the Jewish enrollment be cut to 1 per cent.

Prompt action by the American consulate has resulted in the expulsion of one Nazi Storm Trooper from the party and a sharp reprimand to two others.

AMERICAN ASSAULTED

The action arose from another assault on Julian Fuhs, of New York, who was beaten March 12 by men in Nazi uniforms who demanded money. A Storm Troop leader interfered at that time and gave an alarm to the police.

Uniformed Nazis and civilians entered Fuhs' night club early Wednesday morning. When Fuhs asked to see their membership cards one of the civilians assaulted him while one of the uniformed Nazis threatened him with a pistol and fired shots into the ceiling. The civilian indicated he had a private grudge against the night club owner.

Police took the assailant to a police station. The same day George S. Messersmith, United States consul general, complained to police authorities, who expressed deepest regret.

The pistol-wielding Storm Trooper was held for trial in summary court. The civilian, not a Nazi, also was held.

AUSTRIA BANS SOCIALIST UNIT

VIENNA, March 31.—(AP.)—The Socialist party semi-military defense corps, "Schutzbund," was dissolved by a government decree today.

The decree forbids the organization to continue its activities under any other name. The corps in Vienna alone numbers 60,000 men.

Chancellor Dollfuss, of Austria, has been ruling under dictatorial powers since early this month. Soon after dictatorial powers were conferred upon him restrictions of the right of assemblage were put into force and a number of meetings of the Socialist party were banned.

Senator King Urges Break With Germany

BALTIMORE, March 31.—(AP.)—Severance of diplomatic relations with Germany should the Hitlerites continue their present treatment of the Jews was urged by United States Senator William H. King, of Utah, at a mass meeting here last night in protest against the treatment of the Jews in Germany.

Congressmen to Pay! No April Fool Joke

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(INS.)—This sounds like an April fool hoax, but it isn't.

Nearly 100 members of the House are taking a trip to Philadelphia tomorrow, and they are paying their own expenses. They will visit Independence Square, the United States Mint, Hog Island and other places of historic interest.

CITY CLERK ROBERT CLARK READING KLINE'S RESIGNATION

Smith Lauds Roosevelt For Able Leadership

NEW YORK, March 31.—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith writing in the April issue of the New Outlook declares the "new administration, led by the President, has made a good beginning."

Continuing, he says:

"It has provided prompt and constructive leadership. It has guided public opinion by clear understandable pronouncements, and has restored morale and confidence.

"It has helped with the currency problem, with reorganization of the federal government, with the reduction of veterans' benefits, with the problem of authorizing and taxing beer and with the farm problem.

"It is wise for the new administration to take full advantage of its large majorities in the new Congress and of the popular approval to drive through emergency legislation.

"Many things can be done now which cannot be done later. Public opinion is aroused and will fully support the Executive in these and similar measures.

"I said last month that the Democratic party was at the crossroads. I will say now that it has taken the right turn, and that everyone in the country should support the new administration in the path on which it is now moving—because I am satisfied that it is the path back to economic health and happiness."

F. R. Proclaims May 1 'Child Health Day'

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today issued a proclamation calling upon the nation to set aside May Day for "earnest consideration" of the nation's youth in observing Child Health Day. The proclamation said:

"Whereas, the Congress by joint resolution has authorized and requested the President of the United States of America to proclaim annually that May Day is Child Health Day; and

"Whereas the health and welfare of our children concern not only their parents, but also the nation at large; and

"Whereas, the observance of such a day gives us opportunity to unite in furthering the health and protection of our children;

"Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate May 1 of this year as Child Health Day, and call upon all agencies, public and private, and all individuals having the interest of children at heart, to set aside that day for earnest consideration of the needs of the children in their communities and in their homes and to inaugurate constructive activities to protect and promote the health and physical vigor of the youth of our nation.

BROWN'S WIDOW UNLIKELY TO AID PROBE IN DUAL KILLING

READY TO TELL HER STORY TO GRAND JURY

Family Sees No Link In Tragedy to Death Of Publisher

BEAVER, Pa., March 31.—A grand jury investigating the deaths of Ruth Wilson and Horace Roberts, in Morristown, N. J., in 1929, will get no help from Mrs. Bradway Brown, Beaver's former Ruth McCauley.

Mrs. Brown left here last night to tell the jury, sitting in Mt. Holly, N. J., that her recently-slain husband had never confided in her any knowledge of the Wilson-Roberts tragedy, other than the testimony he gave at the time a Coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder and suicide.

She volutarily left the home of her mother, Mrs. E. S. H. McCauley, where she had sought refuge from the tragedy which has hovered above the three families for four years, to testify at today's inquest.

GIVING NO AID

It was learned, however, that she did not expect to help the jury in its probe of the Wilson-Roberts affair. Nor did she have any evidence which might link it with the murder of Bradway Brown on January 16.

The McCauley family is understood to feel that there was no motive for Bradway Brown's killing. It thinks it possible that Brown was slain by robbers, surprised as they lurked in the shadow of his Palmyra (N. J.) home.

The family scoffs at any connection between either of the three violent deaths—two of them known to be murders—and the suicide of Charles T. Brown, Bradway's father, a year ago.

OVERWORK BLAMED

That suicide was due to overwork and insomnia, Mrs. Brown will say if questioned.

The inquest into the Wilson-Roberts death was reopened when rumors circulated in the Palmyra-Morristown-Riverton district that Brown was killed because he "knew too much" about the deaths of the sweethearts.

A coroner's jury had decided that Roberts killed Miss Wilson in her bedroom, and then shot himself. Roberts' parents refused to accept the verdict and their efforts resulted in a new grand jury inquiry.

versity student at Los Angeles, had visited his sister a short time before the plot was discovered.

Despite the denial of her plea for mercy yesterday by the State Pardon Board, which ordered that Mrs. Judd be hanged April 21, the blonde slayer passed a "peaceful night" in her cell, it was stated at the warden's office.

Her white-haired mother, Mrs. McKinnell, was allowed to pass the night with Mrs. Judd in her cell.

GUARD AGAINST SUICIDE

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 31.—Close guard was kept today over Winnie Ruth Judd, condemned "trunk murderess," lest she carry out suicide threats. Meanwhile her lawyers renewed their battle to save her from the noose in the face of a denial by the Arizona Board of Pardons either to pardon her or commute her sentence.

The action of the pardon board last night swept away one of the last legal barriers to her execution for the slaying in 1931 of her two nurse friends, Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, whose dismembered bodies were shipped in trunks from Phoenix to Los Angeles.

A reprieve was granted from the original date of the execution, Good Friday, April 14, to April 21.

Meanwhile in Los Angeles, Arthur C. Verge, one of her counsel, announced plans for an appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

HEED CHILD'S STORY

The pardon board, in its 2,500-word decision, placed emphasis on the story of a 12-year-old school girl, Phoebe Reed, that Mrs. Judd was in the murder apartment on the afternoon after the tragedy, contrary to her assertions.

The Rev. and Mrs. Harvey K. McKinnell, of Darlington, Ind., today persisted in their hope that their daughter yet would escape the noose. The aged minister, visiting the prison at Florence told his daughter:

"We're not through fighting. Your friends are still with you, and they'll fight harder than ever. I've always thought, Ruth, that you will never hang, and I still believe it."

Mrs. Judd's mother, however, was prostrated by the adverse decision of the pardon board, and according to Defense Attorney H. G. Richardson, was in a serious condition.

VETS, FEDERAL HEADS CONFER

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(INS.)—Representatives of veterans' organizations conferred today with Budget Director Lewis M. Douglas and Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, relative to slashes in veterans' relief.

The veterans claimed the proposal would cut them down between $425,000,000 and $485,000,000. Hines, however, said he thought the best figure available was a cut of $385,000,000, which he had submitted to Congressional committees.

Douglas and Hines have been in touch with the White House relative to the reductions.

GIRL STRIKERS MARCH IN RAIN

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 31.—Two hundred and fifty girls, striking for more wages, marched two miles in a drenching rain from the Berkowitz shirt factory through Uniontown's downtown district today shouting their claims.

They were soaked with rain by the time they reached the main streets. Some of them said their wages have been reduced to 25 cents a day.

CHILD SLAYING SUSPECT HELD

JERSEY CITY, N. J., March 31. (AP.)—Capt. Patrick Brady said last night a man who gave the name of Preziosi Sabino, 34, of Brooklyn, was arrested here yesterday in connection with the brutal slaying of Barbara Wiles, 6-year-old Brooklyn girl.

Brady said Sabino had "both admitted and denied" he slew the Wiles child.

Asked to explain what he meant, Capt. Brady said:

"He has given us both stories. We are checking up on both of them."

Sabino was being questioned at police headquarters here and was to be turned over to New York authorities, possibly today.

ROONEY ON WAY TO PITTSBURGH

BEDFORD, Pa., March 31. — James Rooney, former member of the Legislature from Allegheny County, and ex-football star, was removed today from Timmins Hospital here to Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh.

Rooney's condition is considerably improved.

He was injured in an accident on the Lincoln highway on March 22.

LABOR DEFIED IN RAIL PLAN

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(INS.)—Undeterred by the opposition of organized labor, the Roosevelt administration drove steadily forward today with plans for setting up a semi-dictatorship over the nation's vast railroad system.

The necessary legislation is expected to be ready for transmission to Congress next week.

The plan contemplates the appointment of a federal co-ordinator, with powers comparable to those exercised by the war-time director general of railroads, and the creation of regional committees to be selected by the roads themselves.

DENY AID BAN ON STRIKERS

HARRISBURG, March 31. — William B. Rodgers, executive director of the State Emergency Relief Board, today denied that relief boards would refuse to extend aid to persons who join in a coal strike, scheduled to take place tomorrow in Washington County. Rodgers said that neither the state nor county boards had issued any instructions to deny relief to the strikers.

Rodgers expressed the opinion that the proposed investigation by the Legislature of company towns in the bituminous coal section would prove valuable. Yesterday the House adopted a resolution of Representative Gallagher, Allegheny, calling for a legislative investigation of these towns.

POPE PREPARES FOR HOLY YEAR

VATICAN CITY, March 31.—(AP.)—Vatican prelates and workmen made their final preparations today for the Pope's inauguration of the Holy Year tomorrow and the opening of the holy door of St. Peter's.

This will commemorate the nineteen hundredth anniversary of the passion, death and resurrection of Christ.

Workmen carefully sawed and chisled out the little brick wall filling the holy door. This wall now pivots in the frame ready for the moment when the Pope with a golden hammer will shatter the thin marble black cross in the center of the door and push the barrier in.

The holy door of St. Peter's, which is one of the three main doors, has not been opened since 1925. Usually it is thrown open only every 25 years, but the Pope decreed that the present Holy Year should have the same solemnity as those recurring every quarter-century.

ITALY ARRESTS 5 OFFICIALS

The three are the managing director, Commandatore Eugenio Fontana; the administrator, Umberto Riva, and the supplies manager, a man named Berti.

Baron Alessandro Sardi, the president of the institute, who is in Chicago arranging for the Italian exhibit at the Century of Progress, will be questioned on his return to Italy.

The Luce Institute was put under direct supervision of Premier Mussolini in 1927.

The low that was centered over the central plains yesterday morning moved very slowly. It now is centered over the Central Mississippi Valley, lowest barometer reported (29.66), at Davenport. It produced light to heavy rainfall over all the Mississippi valley states and eastward to the coast except for the South Atlantic states. The heaviest rain reported is 3.38, at Shreveport, La. Other heavy amounts are 2.76 inches at Memphis and 2.04 inches at Paducah. It is somewhat warmer than yesterday over the country east of the Mississippi, while over the plains states temperature changes were rewards colder. Temperatures are slightly below freezing in Western Kansas and Nebraska.

BURGLARS LOOT 4TH CHURCH IN EAST END

Sixth U. P. Building Ransacked; Same Gang Blamed

Thieves added the Sixth United Presbyterian Church, Station street and North Highland avenue, to a string of church robberies in the East End district today. This was the fourth such robbery within a week.

The Rev. A. R. Robinson, of 6100 Bryant street, pastor, discovered the robbery when he entered the building this morning. He reported to city detectives the thieves ransacked desks in his office and scattered the contents about the floor.

The robbers entered the church by jimmying a side door. What they obtained was not known, pending a checkup.

Two churches were entered last Saturday, Sacred Heart Church, Walnut street and Shady avenue, and Shady Avenue Presbyterian Church. The thieves entered through basement windows. The knobs of two safes in Sacred Heart Church were knocked off. No loot was obtained at either church.

The Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, Rippey street and Highland avenue, was entered Tuesday. A pistol belonging to Van J. Abell, business manager of the church, was stolen from a desk drawer. Every locked drawer and cupboard in the church was broken open.

City detectives believe all the churches were entered by the same men.

WILLYS HEIRESS WEDS AGAIN

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 31. (AP.)—Jose de Landa and Virginia Willys de Aguirre, daughter of John North Willys, former Ambassador to Poland, were married here yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Suydam, of Toledo, O.

Friends said the couple probably would remain here for a few days and then would make a trip to Havana, and possibly to the Latin American countries.

Mrs. de Aguirre was given in marriage by her father. This was her second marriage. She was attended by Miss Mollie Collum, of Pittsburgh, as maid of honor.

Landa's best man was Capt. R. Amcotts Wilson, of Palm Beach and London. Landa is the son of the late Don Guillermo de Landa Y Escandon, for many years Governor of the Federal District of Mexico, including Mexico City. He makes his home in Paris, France.

ALIBI OFFERED FOR PREACHER

MUNCIE, Ind., March 31.—(AP.)—An alibi was presented today in behalf of the Rev. G. Lemuel Conway, Methodist minister on trial on the charge of attempting to attack Miss Helen Huffman, 18-year-old Sunday school teacher.

William Ridgeway testified that on the afternoon of December 29 he and several others sat with the accused pastor in a local plumbing shop and discussed plans for a hunting expedition.

Miss Huffman previously had testified that it was on this same afternoon the minister had invited her into his automobile and had taken her into the country, where he attempted to attack her.

State's attorneys sought to shake Ridgeway's testimony. The witness insisted that he remembered the occasion of Conway's visit because of the discussion of the hunting trip and the necessity of obtaining new hunting licenses.

Old College Rules Put Limit on Bathing

CINCINNATI, March 31.—(AP.)—Just to show the boys and girls what an easy time they have now, the University of Cincinnati News dragged out some of the rules of Salem College, at Winston-Salem, N. C., back in 1772. For instance:

"The strictest order is to be observed in the embroidery room.

Injures Boy, Can't Pay, Teacher Goes to Jail

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 31.—(AP.)—Because she failed to make a substantial payment on a bill of $1,100 for medical treatment of a boy struck by her car, Miss Ada Buttermore, 34, a school teacher, is serving a two-year jail sentence.

The court in passing sentence indicated that if Miss Buttermore makes a payment on the bill, clemency will be shown.

She told the court:

"I just can't raise any (money) at all."

The teacher said she has not been employed this term, and that she supports herself and her father.

A jury convicted Miss Buttermore of aggravated assault and battery, and recommended mercy. She was sentenced to two years in jail with promise of a parole if she would agree to pay doctor and hospital bills for Ben Scott, 14.

She was warned by the court Tuesday that she must begin serving the sentence unless she made a payment on the bill before today.

PRIEST BRANDS HOME BOMBING 'DUMB TRICK'

Universal Service.

DETROIT, March 31.—A humble, poverty-pinched priest from a neighboring nation walked into the home of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Michael J. Gallagher and asked for an assignment as curate. He was told, kindly, there was no curacy available. That was 10 years ago this month.

Today, the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin is the radio rector of the world's largest congregation. From his $350,000 tower in Royal Oak, a suburb, Father Coughlin weekly addresses 600,000 members of his Radio League of the Little Flower at a cost to himself of $8,000 for each broadcast. A 26-station hookup carries his talks.

'DUMB TRICK'

Literally hurled into prominence again yesterday, when a crude bomb exploded beneath the bedroom of his six-room, frame cottage, two blocks from his talking tower, Father Coughlin refused to attribute any specific reason for the bombing. He said:

"It was a dumb trick. Its purpose obviously was to intimidate, not to harm."

The radio rector had concluded only a few days before a scathing excoriation of American bankers and other "crapshooters of frenzied finance," mentioning two Detroit notables by name. His radio themes recently have laid oral scourge to "capitalism." But he has denounced Communists and fanatical drys with forensic fury.

POLICE BALKED

Police admittedly were balked in attempting to assign a reason for the bombing. The explosive, mostly flash powder, did only slight damage, confined to the cellar of the home.

Father Coughlin's atttack on a Detroit banker-publisher, had a prompt repercussion that added typographical pyrotechnics to the picturesque priest's free advertising. The publisher's paper screamed in headlines that Father Coughlin had played in the stock market and lost. The published stake was $30,000.

The radio rector admitted that he had bought the stock in 1929 and had lost $7,000. He added:

"It was a $7,000 lesson."

Friends of Father Coughlin express no amagement that he had $30,000 in 1929, six years after he had entered Detroit. His income is derived largely from volunteer contributions by members of the Radio League. He solicits nothing.

Money, prestige and power are no strangers now to the friendless, jobless ex-Bascilican father who came, unknown, out of Canada to Detroit, in 1923.

Father Coughlin was a personally invited guest at the inaugural of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and he announced that one of his recent radio addresses on Detroit's banking situation was made at the suggestion of Secretary of the Treasury Woodin.

Woman Believed Dead 18 Years Visits Sister

PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—(AP.)—For 18 years, Mrs. Terence Mooney believed her sister perished on the SS. Lusitania, a victim of submarine warfare.

She almost fainted from the shock of seeing the sister, Mrs. Mary Thompson, standing in her doorway.

Mrs. Thompson said a letter she wrote saying she had canceled her passage on the ill-fated ship at the last minute must have miscarried. Later, employed as a traveling companion, she lost track of her sister.

NAME 2 DETROIT RECEIVERS

DETROIT, March 31.—(AP.)—Acting upon petitions for dissolution filed by directors, two circuit judges today named temporary receivers for the Detroit Bankers Company and the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., holding companies for Detroit's two inoperative national banks.

William F. Connolly, former circuit judge, was named temporary receiver for the Detroit Bankers Company holding company for the First National Bank—Detroit and affiliated banks, and Alex J. Groesbeck, former governor of Michigan, was named temporary receiver for the Guardian group, holding company for the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, which also holds controlling stock in several other Michigan banks and trust companies.

Meanwhile, officials of the newly organized National Bank of Detroit were watching with amazement the steadily mounting total of deposits in the bank now in the second week of its existence.

The new bank came into being a week ago after Detroit had been without banking facilities for many weeks. Overnight a staff of employes and executives was created.

Mayor Ignores Detroit Fiery Cross

DETROIT, March 31.—(INS.)—"Let them have their fun," was the only comment today of Mayor Frank Murphy following the burning of a fiery cross on the lawn of City Hall last night.

TREASURY AIDS REORGANIZE 265 BANKS

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—The Treasury reported today that 265 national banks with deposits of $350,000,000 have been restored to a 100 per cent banking function through reorganization in the 10-day period ending March 25.

Secretary Woodin, in commenting upon the progress made, said these results since March 15 indicated the extent to where work is actively in process in the restoration of banks which were unable to open on the date originally set, and the constructive response being made by stockholders and depositors.

He said that as additional banks have been reopened they have assumed on a sound basis the performance of the same full functions as the banks opened on the first days set.

These 265 institutions do not include those national banks originally licensed by the Treasury to resume progressive openings after the national bank holiday had been terminated.

TWO OHIO BANKS PASS DIVIDEND

CLEVELAND, March 31.—(AP.)—Two licensed Cleveland banks announced omission of their dividends, due today.

Harris Creech, president of the Cleveland Trust Company, said the action was believed by officers and directors to be the "prudent course to conserve all of the bank's assets until it becomes possible to estimate future developments more clearly."

The Central United, in a statement, said its dividends was omitted despite "substantial earnings for the first quarter of 1933" because of a "desire to conserve earnings and build up reserves during the present period of national economic reconstruction."

Meanwhile, evaluation of assets of the unlicensed Guardian Trust Company continued as Harold H. Burton, its new president, and S. B. Congdon, Cleveland R. F. C. manager, drafted a revised plan for reorganization to present to federal officials in Washington, probably next week.

Risked Life

MAX SAPPLE

EMPLOYE KILLED BY CURRENT

Heroic efforts of a fellow employe failed to save the life of James Kirsopp, 24, of Cedar boulevard extension, Mt. Lebanon, killed by electricity at the fan house of the Pittsburgh Coal Company in Cochran road, Mt. Lebanon, today.

An emergency crew of the Duquesne Light Company labored more than two hours in an effort to revive Kirsopp.

Max Sapple, 49, of 449 Ruud avenue, rushed to Kirsopp's assistance when the latter slipped from a window as he was fixing a shutter. Kirsopp fell against a copper connecting bar charged with 4,400 volts, according to Mt. Lebanon police.

Sapple, who had on rubber boots, was credited with pulling Kirsopp off the copper connection.

22 KNOWN DEAD IN SOUTHERN TORNADOES

Associated Press.

Twenty-two persons were known today to have been killed by tornadoes which dipped down into sections of three states late yesterday, causing unestimated damage to property, injuring dozens and leaving narrow but well-defined paths.

Without warning, the first twister struck Lindale, a small community north of Tyler, Tex., killing two Negroes, demolishing four garages and leveling trees and telephone poles.

A tornado next struck Mabank, Tex., to the west, destroying homes and causing other damage. The sewing machine of one family was found a mile and a half away from the house. Chickens were picked clean. Considerable loss was anticipated from the nearby heavily-timbered areas. A heavy rainfall accompanied the storm.

Shelbyville, San Augustine and Huntington, in extreme East Texas, then felt the tornadoes. At least 14 persons were killed in those communities and many were injured. Six more deaths were reported from Hall Summit, in Northwestern Louisiana, and at Mt. Holly, Ark.

The death toll by communities was: Huntington, 5; Lindale, 2; Shelbyville, 5; San Augustine, 4; Hall Summit, 5, and Mt. Holly, 1.

Doctor at Donora, Ex-Minister, Dies

DONORA, Pa., March 31.—(AP.)—Dr. George C. Traugh, 68, physician and former Methodist minister, died yesterday after a heart attack.

Dr. Traugh for years had been an active philanthropist. With his wife, Mrs. Merte S. Traugh, he founded a trust fund for indigent children.

RALLY TO ASK U. S. AID FOR HOUSING

Delegations from both the Republican and Democratic parties, leading architects, engineers and builders of the Pittsburgh district will meet tomorrow in an effort to obtain Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds for projects in this district. The sessions will be at the William Penn Hotel.

The meeting will be called to order at 1 p. m., with former Mayor William A. Magee presiding.

The purpose is to indicate to legislators from this district the desirability of passing four bills, now in legislative committees. Three of these provide for limited dividend corporations to raze slum districts with federal aid and construct new buildings.

The other is the Harmuth bill, which would put into shape worthy public and private projects entitled to aid from the R. F. C.

Active among the architests arranging the meeting is E. N. Hunting, of Hunting, Davis & Dunnells.

Joseph P. Tufts, secretary of the Pittsburgh Housing Association, is making the reservations.

Pennsylvania, it is pointed out, has thus far received no money from the R. F. C. for construction projects. New York and other states have received millions for useful public improvements.

Sleep Disturbed By Oil Well, Sue

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 31.—The grunt and rattle of an oil well drilling within 81 feet of their bedroom window, alleged the James E. Burkes in District Court, has disturbed their sleep and damaged their health to the extent of $6,000. They claim their lease provided no well would be drilled within 200 feet of their home, but the records had been altered to read 20 instead of 200.

Collegian Flees Naval Courtesy Of Japanese

A squad of sailors leaped to attention. Trumpeters gave a fanfare, the band bursting into a triumphant crash. An escort marched smartly toward him. Swenceski turned and fled.

A few hours earlier, the commander of the Navy yard at Bremerton visited the ship, reception plans slipped up. There was not a fitting welcome.

WOMAN CASHIER DEFIES ROBBER

CLEVELAND, March 31.—Miss Ruth Hall is only 5 feet 2 inches, so a man, brandishing a gun, thought nothing of rudely pushing her aside and scooping money out of a cashier's drawer.

Said she:

"What's the big idea?"

He answered:

"Shut up. This is a stickup."

She retorted:

"Oh, yeah!"

Whereupon she calmly walked over and pushed a burglar alarm button.

GIRL FIGHTS OFF STREET THUG

Miss Margaret Danchik, 16, of 35 Alexis street, Greenfield, today was nursing bruises of the face and head incurred in a fight with a Negro who seized her as she was walking in Beechwood boulevard last night.

The girl was returning to her home from her first day's employment as a maid in a Squirrel Hill home when the Negro seized her, police reported.

Miss Danchik screamed and battled with the thug. Apparently surprised by the girl's gameness the Negro fled.

Pedestrians hurried to the girl's aid and she was taken to Montefiore Hospital. She is expected to leave the hospital today.

OPEN TERMINAL AT CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, March 31.—(AP.)—A temple of transportation was opened here today.

The huge new Cincinnati Union Terminal, built at a cost of $41,000,000 and hailed by many as the most modern in the world, attracted scores of railroad leaders for its dedication. Its maze of 45 miles of tracks and 227 switches have been called "traffic-jam proof."

Covering 287 acres, the terminal has accommodations for 17,000 passengers and the movement of 216 trains daily. Seven railroads will use the 17 structures that comprise the project.

The treminal itself is as impressive as a state capitol. A huge half-dome facade, 126 feet high and with a span of 120 feet, overlooks a landscaped park, set off by an illuminated foutain.

The top of a small mountain was carved off to make a deep "bed" that would eliminate the danger from floods such as long have impeded rail traffic here.

$500,000 Assured Pymatuning Project

SHARON, Pa., March 31.—Action of the State House of Representatives in approving the bill providing $500,000 for completion of the Pymatuning reservoir assures the project being continued. The Senate already has approved a similar measure and Gov. Pinchot is certain to sign, it is said. The money will be used to relocate highways and railroads in the reservoir area, the only work remaining to complete the project.

State to Maintain Milk Standards

HARRISBURG, March 31.—(AP.)—The Health Department yesterday announced it plans a "finish fight" against importation into Pennsylvania of milk not meeting state standards.

As the first skirmish, a hearing is to be held Tuesday on refusal of a permit to the Hoosier Condensed Milk Company, of Bluffton, Indiana.

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature.

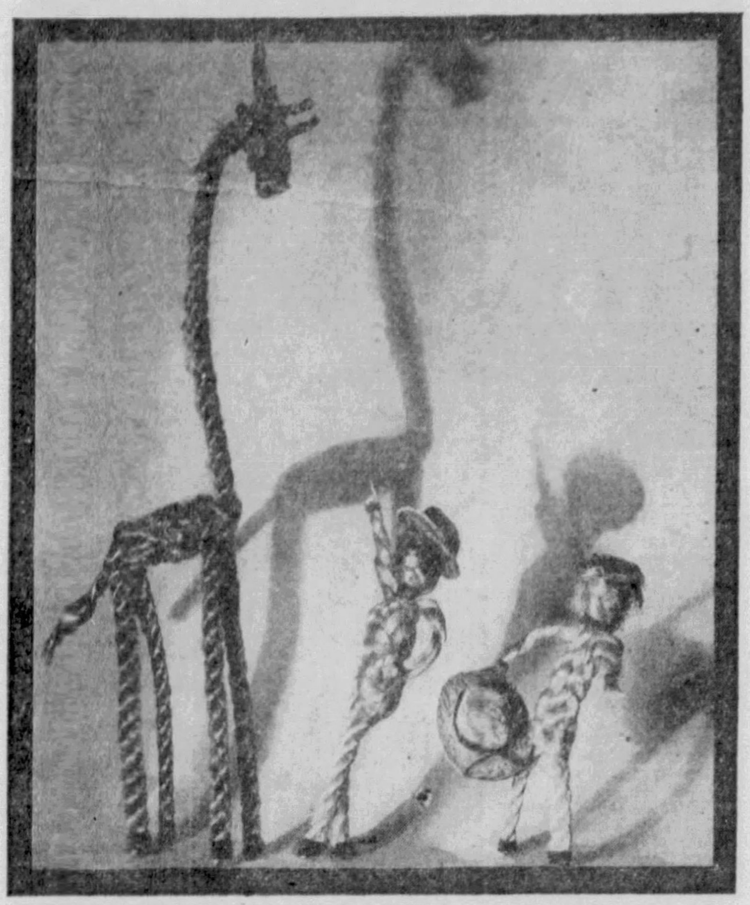
By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

There ain't no such animal!



THAT'S what we said when the buyer came up to the advertising department with the story. "Who d'ya think you're kidding?" we snorted. "Ten years is a long time to write men's copy."

THEN he started. We got comfortable, leaned back, listened. Fed up, that's what. When he finished it was past closing. Hungry, yes. But we reached for the typewriter. Man, WHAT A STORY!

HERE was one of America's finest manufacturers—a firm that had no surplus stock, needed no cash, already working at normal capacity—practically giving clothes away! Why? Because they are keen business men. They know that volume pays the rent, heat and electric light bills.

THEY got volume when they sold us these suits—more volume than had they sold ten ordinary stores—and we got a price so close to cost that there's hardly the cost of a luncheon between them!

ACQUIT YOUTH IN SLAYING OF BROTHER, GIRL

LIMA, O., March 31.—(AP.)—Loren Truesdale, 23, was found not guilty by a jury last night in a second trial on charges of first degree murder in the deaths of his brother, Earl, 20, and Miss Thelma Woods, 17.

The jury returned the verdict after deliberating five and one-half hours.

Miss Woods and Truesdale's brother were beaten to death the night of May 30, 1931. Their bodies were found in a deep quarry pool in an isolated section near Lima.

CHARGES HE WAS 'DOPED'

Truesdale's defense centered on a charge by his attorneys that a confession presented as state's evidence was obtained under duress. Truesdale said he was given "doped" cigarets by his questioners following his arrest last September 1.

He testified he was several miles from Lima in a stalled automobile the night of the crime. A Mansfield reformatory convict told the jury it was he and three other youths, not Truesdale, who killed the couple, but the state claimed the prisoner's "confession" constituted a scheme to get a "holiday" from prison.

LIKENED TO "CAIN"

In closing arguments, Prosecutor E. M. Botkin likened the Truesdale brothers to Cain and Abel, declaring Loren killed Earl because of jealousy.

Truesdale's first trial, at which the state demanded the death penalty, ended in a jury disagreement.

Although he was indicted separately in the slayings, he was tried both times specifically on a charge of murder in the death of his brother.

Whether the prosecution would press for a trial on the indictment in the death of Miss Woods had not been decided.

Industrial Chemists Again Pass Out Jobs

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—Signs of business upturn. All attendance records of the American Chemical Society were broken by a registration of more than 2,300 at the meeting here this week.

Twenty graduate chemists from a nearby university came to talk to the "big shot" industrial chemists. In three days three of them landed jobs. The others have prospects. Six months ago the industrialists wouldn't even have taken time to talk jobs.

ALIEN'S ARREST HELD LEGAL

The arrest of Morgan Davis, 59, an alien, on a warrant of the Department of Labor, was held legal in an opinion given yesterday by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson. A deportation proceeding is pending against him.

The court dismissed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus against W. H. Marshall, director of immigration in the Pittsburgh district, sought by Davis, who charges false arrest.

Davis, who has been in this country 35 years, was arrested February 2 near Waynesburg, on a federal warrant telegraphed in code. At a hearing last week his counsel questioned the legality of a telegraphic warrant sent in code.

The warrant charged Davis was a member of an organization that teaches overthrow of the government by violence, the judge said.

Two Women Fight, Cab Driver Stabbed

When he stepped between two fighting Negro women, Robert Novak, 26, of 826 Locust street, was stabbed in the right leg.

Novak, a cab driver, said he picked the women up in Congress street and drove them to Stevenson street. As they alighted, Novak said, they started an argument. When one of the women lunged at the other, he stepped between them. He did not discover the wound until he started to drive away. Novak was treated at Mercy Hospital.

DEER, BUFFALO FOR SALE HERE

Reporting that there exisited an excess of deer and buffalo in the county parks, Park Director A. M. Marion has been authorized by the County Commissioners to dispose of some of the animals. Marion said the increase had been so rapid the county now owns 39 buffalo and 150 deer.

He said there are 13 buffalo and 50 deer in North Park and 26 buffalo and 100 deer in South Park, and that this number was too great for the available space.

Marion said he had communicated with H. G. Trexler, who operates a buffalo ranch near Allentown, Pa., and with John M. Phillips, local game expert, both of whom said there was little or no chance of selling the animals. The county hopes to sell them to individuals who have private herds.

YOUTH CLEARED AFTER YEAR IN DEATH HOUSE

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Harry Cashin went to visit Rose O'Donnell last night, and if they had something more serious than usual to talk about, New York understood—and approved.

For Harry Cashin is the sober-faced youth of 20 who spent 19 months in the Sing Sing death house awaiting execution for a murder he did not commit, and Rose is the girl who stood by him and swore he could do no wrong.

FREED IN COURT

On February 1, 1931, Detective Christopher W. Scheuing entered an east side speakeasy looking for a murderer. He was shot and killed.

Cashin was identified as the killer by Gladys Clayton, a woman habitue of the speakeasy. The jury returned a verdict of guilty. Judge Morris Koenig imposed the sentence of death.

NEW TRIAL WON

After Cashin was brought to the death house facts were revealed reflecting on the Clayton woman's character, and spontaneous public appeals were made for a new trial, which the Court of Appeals finally ordered.

A search of several months failed to reveal the whereabouts of Gladys Clayton. Cashin got a job and waited. He felt he would go free, but he wanted to be sure. Rose O'Donnell comforted him. The depressing effect of those 19 months in the death house gradually wore off.

And yesterday came — vindication.

SEIZED IN LONG RUM CAR DRIVE

A few hours from his home after driving continuously 25 hours, en route from Charleston, S. C., to Pittsburgh, George Maykranz, 33, ran afoul of state police at Ligonier.

The officers reported finding in the automobile's specially constructed body 35 cases of bonded Canadian whisky. Maykranz was turned over to officers of the special prohibition unit, Department of Justice, and will be arraigned Tuesday before the United States commissioner in Pittsburgh.

In the office of the United States marshal, Maykranz said he purchased the liquor at $23 a case on a beach near Charleston, after it had been landed from a rum boat. He started for Pittsburgh at 7 p. m. Tuesday. By fast and steady driving he neared Ligonier at 8 p. m. Tuesday, to be stopped by a red light on the road. The state policemen appeared and after examining his cargo arrested him.

The liquor had a bootleg value of more than $5,000, it was said.

RESCUERS SUE U. S. WOMAN

NAPLES, Italy, March 31.—(AP.)—Six fishermen who rescued Mrs. June Jewett James, of Chicago, and four companions when their airplane "Windward III" fell into the Gulf of Salerno January 25, have filed suit here for $17,500 for recovering the wrecked plane.

Mrs. James is recuperating from two broken ribs and leg injuries sustained in the accident. She and her daughter, an Italian woman friend, a pilot and a mechanic were in the plane en route to Sicily when a motor failed. They took to a rubber boat and were picked up by the fishermen, who later went back to tow in the wreckage.

The captain of a small steamship who aided in recovering the plane, also has filed suit for $7,500.

Admits Dynamite Truckload Scheme

HAVANA, March 31.—(AP.)—Police said Joaquin Hernandez Rodriguez, whom they arrested yesterday, had confessed he planned an attempt March 1 to blow up police headquarters by leaving in front of it a truck loaded with dynamite, arranged to explode by clockwork.

Hernandez admitted, according to police, that he fitted out the truck on a farm near Havana.

PRETTY ELOPER HELD, BEGS AID

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 31.—(INS.)—Miss Mary Jane Gray, 19-year-old cultured and pretty daughter of James J. Gray, said to be the city clerk of Cleveland, O., and Harry L. Peterson, 30, also of Cleveland, were being held here today following their arrest at a hotel on information received from Cleveland authorities and the girl's family. Police said Miss Gray admitted she was eloping with Peterson, explaining:

"We were planning to get married as soon as we got to California."

Informed that her brother, Willis Gray, was en route here to take her home, the girl pleaded with officers to help her get the wedding knot tied before the brother arrived.

Peterson told officers he was flat broke. The girl had $1.

MANY WINDOWS BUT NO VIEW

There are plenty of windows to admit light and air to the new building of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, now being built on Fifth avenue, Oakland.

Toward the street, the building presents the majestic unbroken dignity of pure Ionian architecture with the tall collanades of huge monolithic limestone pillars guarding walls unmarred by window squares.

But inside, facing toward two large interior courts, are hundreds of windows—nine floors of them. Scientists working in the building will have plenty of light but not a broad view.

Olympic Champion Kills Self With Gun

NEWARK, N. J., March 31.—(AP.)—John L. Eisele, 59, former Olympic athlete and a member of the investment brokerage firm of Eisele, King & Nugent, committed suicide yesterday, police said, by shooting himself through the mouth. The body was found in his mother's home by a brother, Edward. Police said a note written by Eisele said he was "sorry," for what he was about to do.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Natalie Eisele, and two children. He was a graduate of Princeton University. As the 10-mile run champion, he was a member of the Olympic team which went to London in 1908.

DAGENHAM, England, March 31.—(AP.)—The strike at the Ford automobile factory here which was settled Wednesday had a small echo today when a strike for better wages and working conditions was begun among 2,000 men employed by Briggs Bodies, Ltd. The company, a subsidiary of the Ford Company, manufactures automobile bodies.

Large groups of workers brushed past the pickets, however, and operations proceeded in the factory with at least 90 per cent of the men working, the management said.

DRIVES 'BLIND' TO PAY TUITION

ST. PAUL, March 31.—(AP.)—A hangman's hood proves useful to one psychology student in raising funds for schooling—he uses it as a blindfold while driving a car alone through city streets.

Clifford Jurgensen, a sophomore at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., who left school three years ago because of lack of funds, has combined psychology with magic and other sleight of hand endeavors, and has since performed in four states to pay for school expenses. He re-entered Carleton this year.

Judgensen, while blindfolded, recently drove through the Minneapolis loop, stopping for semaphores, and making left hand turns while threading his way through the heavy traffic. He does not disclose the methods he employs in his maneuvers. He has his eyes taped and covered with a thick cloth and over all he wears the black hood.

HOWELL SEAT IN SENATE HELD BRYAN'S AIM

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The delay of Gov. Charles W. Bryan, of Nebraska, in filling the vacancy caused by the recent death of Senator Robert B. Howell has given rise to reports that he may duplicate the feat of Gov. John E. Erickson, of Montana, and come to the Senate himself.

A very definite suspicion has gone abroad in Washington that the Nebraska Governor, a brother of the late William Jennings Bryan and once the nominee of his party for the vice presidency, is awaiting the outcome of the Erickson case before making up his mind.

Following the death of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, originally slated for attorney general in the Roosevelt cabinet, Gov. Erickson resigned and permitted the Lieutenant Governor to appoint him to the Senate. It was the first time in the history of the country that such a thing had been done, so far as a hasty examination of available records shows.

COLLUSION CHARGE

Announcement of the appointment was followed by charges from within the state that collusion existed between the Governor and Lieutenant Governor, whereby both elevated themselves to higher office by previous agreement.

Senator Erickson was permitted to take the oath, but upon receipt of the formal charges the Senate privileges and elections committee, headed by Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, appointed a subcommittee to look into the matter. There the case rests for the moment.

Pending a report by the subcommittee, Gov. Bryan has appeared to be in no hurry about naming a successor to Senator Howell.

BIG MAJORITY

Former Gov. Sproul, of Pennsylvania, had senatorial ambitions and after the death of the late Senator Boise Penrose seriously considered resigning and having himself appointed. He was dissuaded, however, after consulting a number of friends in and out of the Senate, who told him not to do it.

Regardless of Gov. Bryan's ultimate plans concerning himself, being a democrat the Democratic party seems certain of gaining another seat through the appointment as Senator Howell was a Republican. The party's majority in the chamber, already cumbersome and overwhelming, will be swelled to 24. There will be 60 Democrats to 35 Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite.

AMERICA LEADS IN HOMICIDES

NEW YORK, March 31.—(INS.)—Human life has never been so cheap in the United States as it is at the present time, in the opinion of Dr. Frederick B. Hoffman, statistician, who has just completed a survey of homicidal records of the world for 1932.

His report, published in the Spectator, an insurance publication, revealed that the United States led the civilized nations of the world in 1932 for the number of homicides. Based upon reports from 180 cities, Dr. Hoffman found that an average of 10.8 persons in every 100,000 of population met violent deaths last year. This was the same average struck in 1931.

Among the five largest cities of the country Chicago had the highest rate with 12.8 per 100,000 of population. Detroit ranked second with 9.6; Los Angeles third with 8.4; New York fourth, 8, and Philadelphia fifth, 7.8. Boston was far down on the list with 2.5.

Elks at Sheraden To Seat Officers

Officers of Sheraden Lodge, 949, B. P. O. E., will be installed Sunday afternoon in the temple. The officers include J. P. Werneth, reelected exalted ruler; C. R. Scrabis, leading knight; J. L. Skarry, loyal knight; C. W. Elicker, lecturing knight; D. F. Scanlon, secretary; C. D. McCartney, treasurer; W. A. Kury, tiler, and S. McMillen, trustee.

Fraternity Dinner Dance Tomorrow

The fifth annual formal dinner and dance of the Delta Chapter, Lamba Alpha Phi, legal fraternity, of the University of Pittsburgh, will be held in the Nixon restaurant tomorrow night. A feature of the program will be the initiation for four pledges.

Plans for the event were made by Jack M. Stone, assisted by Hyman Borovetz and Benjamin Simon.

Richland School To Give Operetta

Children from the upper grades of Washington School, Richland Township, will present an operetta tonight. It is called "The Ghost of Lollypop Bay," and will be presented in the school auditorium. A cast of 75 is directed by Miss Bernadette Tutwiler. The school orchestra, organized this year, will make its first public appearance.

Mosque Will Honor Patrol Members

Forty-three members of the Arab Patrol of Syria Temple will be tendered a farewell party, dinner and smoker tonight at the Keystone Athletic Club. Each man has served his full term of 10 years. William J. Edmunds and William C. Drake are in charge of the affair.

Huge Sea Lion, Given Freedom, Won't Leave

NELSCOTT, Ore., March 31.—(AP.)—A 1,200-pound sea lion swam on to the beach here recently and was placed in captivity. After keeping him several days, during which several thousand tourists came to see him, he was released to make his way seaward. He swam out a short distance, paused, and then, resolutely making up his mind, turned and came back to the beach. Interested visitors are still passing him the clams.

Griffith Installed As Bond Club Head

Officers elected at a meeting of the Bond Club of Pittsburgh yesterday were installed at a dinner in the Duquesne Club last night. They were:

President, Leo G. Griffith; vice president, Ross Alexander; treasurer, R. M. Crane, and secretary, Charles Adams; new board of governors, M. M. Grubbs, Harry C. Bell and Edson Cherrington. Holdover governors are A. R. Little and James B. Armstrong.

W. VA. ADOPTS WIDE STORE TAX

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 31.—(AP.)—Intended to haul in revenue from big companies of many units, West Virginia's new chain store tax nevertheless compels every merchant to contribute something to the state each year.

Merchants who owns only one store, however, turns over the tiny sum of $2, but the owner of, say 75 stores or more, will pay heavily for the privilege of doing business in the Mountain state.

The all-embracing act, the only revenue measure to get through the regular session of the Legislature, takes in every kind of mercantile establishment, even gasoline filling stations

ARTIST STARTS ROW BY 'FAKE' CHARGES

DETROIT, Mach 31.—(AP.)—Controversy raged anew over affairs of the Detroit Institute of Arts today with the publication of charges by Edgardo Simone, Italian sculptor, that 18 of the most famous canvases and sculptures in the Institute's permanent Italian collection are "wrongly attributed or outright fakes.",

Simone's charges were made in letters addressed to Edsel Ford, president of the Institute, and to Mayor Frank Murphy. Dr. William R. Valentiner, director of the Institute refused to comment on the charges, terming them "too silly to talk about."

The paintings among the Institute collection listed by Simone as misattributions are:

Gian Battista Tiepolo—"Immaculate Conception."

Filippo Lippi—"The Adoration of the Magi."

Among the statuary pieces Simone has charged are not authentic are works by Gianbologna, Susini, Nino Pisano, Nino de Fiesole and Luca Della Robbia.

Dr. Valentiner attributed Simone's statement to personal enmity aroused, he said, because of his refusal to permit a one-man exhibit of sculpture by Simone in the institute.

Simone came to the United States in 1927, after receiving his artistic training at Naples. He has been commissioned to produce busts of Oliver Wendell Holmes, Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court; Gen. John J. Pershing, George W. Wickersham, and others prominent at Washington.

STAGE ROMANCE REVIVED BY SON

LOS ANGELES, March 31. —(AP.)—A blasted romance of the vaudeville stage of 20 years ago has been revived through the romance of a young son.

Hazel Wilson, vaudeville star, then 18 years old, and Lou Jacobs, theatrical man, eloped from San Francisco to Redwood City in November, 1912. They separated because the girl insisted on continuing her career as a member of the Wilson sisters' song and dance team. She went to Europe. He changed his profession. They lost track of each other.

A son, Jimmy, now 18, was born after the separation. While he and Celeste Strack, another student at the University of Southern California, were planning to be married a few weeks ago against his mother's wishes, Jimmy saw his father's name in a magazine. Lou Jacobs is a Hollywood writer. The boy went to see the father and urged him to intercede with the mother for approval of the marriage.

The upshot of the situation was that the younger couple went to Yuma, Ariz., and were married. The boy's parents were brought together—and now they are to be remarried some time within a week.

2 YOUTHS FINED AS PEEPERS

Two youths, accused by police of trying to peep into windows of the nurses' dormitory of South Side Hospital early today, were fined $25 each or 30 days in jail in Morals Court.

Police told Magistrate T. D. Jones complaints had been received of "peepers" climbing the dormitory fire escapes.

The youths, Stanley Kolski, 18, of 49 Barry street, and Joseph Wisniewski, 17, of 2626 Edwards way, admitted ascending a fire escape as far as the first floor.

MINISTER HERE HEADS COLLEGE

INDIANAPOLIS, March 31.—(AP.)—Dr. William Gear Spencer, interim pastor of the First Baptist Church of Pittsburgh, was elected president of Franklin College at a meeting of the board of directors here last night.

Dr. Spencer was president of Hillsdale (Mich.) College for 11 years before going to the Pittsburgh church. At Franklin he succeeds Dr. Homer P. Rainey, who resigned two years ago to become president of Bucknell. Prof. Robert Kent, of the Franklin philosophy department, has been acting president.

He served as professor of classical languages and registrar at Franklin from 1920 to 1922, resigning to accept the Hillsdale presidency.

Education Institute To Meet Next Week

Sessions of the Parent Education Institute in the Hotel Schenley, April 6 and 7, will be free to parents. This announcement was made today by Mrs. Saul Levine, chairman of the Pittsburgh Council. The H. C. Frick Education Commission is partly defraying the expenses.

FIVE CAPTURED IN GUN BATTLE

CARROLTON, O., March 31.—(AP.)—Five men, suspects in a gasoline station holdup, engaged in a running gun fight with Sheriff's deputies, police and an armed posse of nearly 300 persons late yesterday and were captured in a woods near Kensington.

Deputy Sheriff George Hayes, 43, of Columbiana County, was shot in the forehead while engaging in the cross-country battle, and his wound was believed to be serious.

Sheriff John McFadden, of Carroll County, said the five men gave their names as Alfred Johnson, 28; John Cutting, 34; James Dawton, 33; Emmett Coss, 31, and Lewis Nati, 38, all of Alliance, O.

A witness to the holdup, McFadden said, identified those held as the five men who drove up to a filling station here, obtained gasoline and then drew guns, ordering the attendant to "buck up." They made no effort to rob him of cash and immediately fled.

Same Motorcycle Spills 2 Police in Same Spot

Two Mt. Lebanon policemen are today recovering from lacerations and bruises received when the same motorcycle threw them in an identical spot.

Patrolman Norman Vitte skidded on his motorcycle near where Patrolman Scott Hamilton was directing traffic on Washington road last night. After helping Vitte to a doctor, Hamilton mounted the machine. He skidded and fell in the same place on the road.

Not to be subdued by the machine, Hamilton once more mounted it and rode to the police station.

SEES WAR PERIL IN PROTESTS

A warning against further demonstrations protesting the alleged anti-Semitic policy of the Hitler government in Germany was sounded last night by Judge William M. Lewis, of Philadelphia, speaking in the Beth Shalom synagogue. He said:

"A situation exists now in Germany that may develop into another conflagration of war. The protest meetings held were all right, but an interested watchful waiting is the policy the Jews should now assume."

Turtle Creek Group Favors Graded Tax

Turtle Creek taxpayers meeting in the Union High School auditorium, Turtle Creek, last night, indorsed legislation to permit a referendum on a constitutional amendment to permit the Pittsburgh graded tax plan to be applicable throughout the county.

AIDS JAIL CUPID, FACES CHARGE

MT. STERLING, Ky., March 31.—(INS.)—Romance had right-of-way here last night as Mrs. Carmi Neale, 35, held in the murder of her second husband, was married to Farmer John Sebastian, 60, in jail here and their honeymoon was started in a cell.

Jailer J. Kelly Whitt's sympathy for cupid had a stern aftermath, however. The turnkey was summoned to Frenchburg by Circuit Judge Henry R. Prewitt who said he would have the grand jury indict Whitt for contempt of court as result of the jail wedding and honeymoon.

Mrs. Neale was called to trial at Frenchburg Wednesday charged with being an accessory to the fact in the slaying of her former husband, Charles Neale, by "Bad Bill" Waters, 70, mountaineer, last July.

21 STATES SET TO TAP BEER ON APRIL 7

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 31.—More than two-thirds of the total population of the United States will have legalized beer available on April 7 or shortly thereafter, according to a "beer census" conducted today by International News Service.

The seats in this national beer Colosseum will total 87,464,160.

On April 7, at least 21 states and the District of Columbia with a composite population of 62,015,514, will have legal machinery for the sale of the foaming amber.

MILLIONS MUST WAIT

Six more states with a population of 5,648,970 have made beer laws to take effect within a following period.

In addition, New York, New Jersey and North Carolina, contributing almost 20,000,000 of potential beer drinkers, are certain to join the beer parade within a comparatively short time.

The eight states in which there appears no chance of legalized beer for at least a year total only 11,547,750 in population.

The 10 doubtful states, many of which are expected to ultimately be drawn into the beer map, contain a total population of 22,763,136.

There is no sectional solidarity noticeable in either the beer or beerless territory. The "bone dry" southern states of another era have been broken into, as have many mid-western states formerly considered dry. Even Maine—the cradle of prohibition—has gone for legalized beer.

Policeman Quits Job To Direct Beer Traffic

JOSEPH MOCHNALLY

MONESSEN, Pa., March 31.—Legalized beer has paved the way for one man here to step out of his present position into the beer industry.

Joseph Mochnally, Monessen policeman, today had resigned as desk sergeant and will immediately assume his duties as Westmoreland County agent for a Pittsburgh brewing company.

Mochnally is alderman of the Fourth Ward here, manager of the American Legion Post Bugle and Drum Corps and a foreman of the Pittsburgh Steel Company.

As district representative for legal beer Mochnally said deliveries will be made after April 7 to private homes only and by advance orders. A warehouse will be established here.

Asked what prospects there were for re-opening the Monessen plant of the Independent Brewing Company, he stated that it would not be determined whether the brewery would open until after April 7, when officials of the company would ascertain the demand for beer.

Mochnally releases his duties as supervisor of the Monessen soup kitchen, which he has operated for the past several months as a volunteer worker.

PINCHOT RIVALS UNITE ON BEER

REGIONAL BOARD PLAN

In the bill now before the House it is provided that county courts shall issue retail licenses. Democrats insisted on 10 regional boards, with the state's counties divided on a sectional basis, each board to consist of three members.

The compromise on this difference calls for bi-partisan boards in Philadelphia, Allegheny County and the five third-class counties of the state, Westmoreland, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Montgomery and Delaware.

In these counties the County Commissioners would do the appointing, but, on a three-man board, would be compelled to accept one member nominated by the Republican county chairman and a second by the Democratic county chairman.

The salaries of the board members would be $4,000 a year.

If this compromise holds over the week-end, the bill will be amended Monday night and will be up for final passage in the House on Tuesday. Sowers claims to have the necessary votes, and, with the assistance of the Democrats and some members from the anthracite region, probably can put it across.

SENATE FIGHT LOOMS

In the Senate the path of the measure will be stormy, and there is practically no hope of passage by Friday, when beer becomes legal for sale through national legislation.

But even should it pass, the Governor would kill it with a veto, and no one takes seriously the assertion of Sowers that he has the votes to pass the bill over the Governor's veto in both branches. The Governor is even more set against the compromise than the original Sowers proposal.

Democrats in a conference yesterday with the Governor turned thumbs down on the legislation introduced at his behest, and the Philadelphia organization has taken the same unalterable attitude.

There is, in effect, a complete blockade on beer regulatory legislation in the Assembly, and no probability that it will be broken by next Friday.

Sabbath Tippling Still Under Ban At Capital

HARRISBURG, March 31.—(INS.)—Beer drinking in Pennsylvania on Sunday may be a bit sub-rosa.

There still remains in the lawbooks a statute which punishes public tipplers on the Sabbath by tossing them into the stocks.

COUNCIL SCANS SCHEMES FOR BEER TAX

The city's law department will at the request of President of Council John S. Herron make a formal study of the right of the city to license beer dispensers.

Herron, who becomes temporary Mayor this afternoon, is loath to rush city action. He believes, he says, it is extremely doubtful that the state will permit revenue from beer taxes to escape its coffers. He believes the Legislature and Governor will soon come to an agreement.

Then, too, doubt exists at City Hall regarding the city's right to regulate the tax on suds. City Solicitor Charles A. Walschmidt informally holds that the city can't regulate or tax. Herron believes otherwise. From other quarters comes the information that the city could, in the absence of state taxes, make a levy. Other municipalities in the county are considering the suggestion that they tax beer parlors.

It was indicated today that no serious consideration will be given city regulation and taxation of beer for some time. Council is apparently too much interested in the selection of a new Mayor and Councilman.

MEDICAL LIQUOR BILL SIGNED

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today signed the Copeland-Celler medicinal liquor bill removing restrictions on the amount doctors may prescribe.

The legislation puts up to the Treasury and Justice departments the fixing of regulations under which future permits for liquor may be allowed by physicians.

The present restriction, one pint of whisky in 10 days for a patient and one quart of wine in the same period, is abolished.

Woman Burns Home, Snakes Ignore Fire

ATLANTA, Ga., March 31.—Mrs. Eva Babcock's family uncovered a nest of young snakes in the yard. Mrs. Babcock set fire to the grass to drive them out. A fence caught fire and the flames spread to the Babcock home.

While the fire department was in action, the snakes staged a strategic retreat. They're still in the Babcock yard.

BREWERS BACK HEARST VIEWS ON SALOON

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31.—Declaring itself in complete accord with the recent pronouncement of William Randolph Hearst condemning the return of brewery-owned saloons, the California State Brewers' Association today issued a statement defining its future policy.

The statement declares that the brewers "desire to profit by demonstrated mistakes of the past." A strong provision making it an offense punishable by fine and imprisonment for any brewery to be interested directly or indirectly in the ownership or operation, or in the fixtures of any retail sale of beer has been recommended by the brewers for inclusion in state legislation.

The statement, issued by Milton Marks, attorney for the association, was in part:

"My clients intend to take the initiative in putting their own houses in order.

"I have recommended the incorporation in a regulatory statute of a strong provision making it a public offense, punishable by fine and imprisonment, for any brewing company to be interested, directly or indirectly, in the ownership or operation of any place of retail sale or in the furnishings and fixtures thereof. This restriction is completely acceptable to my clients."

MADISON, Wis., March 31.—(Universal.)—Leading Wisconsin legislators today unqualifiedly indorsed the timely advice of William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, in a message to Arthur Brisbane, that only by complete divorcement of the brewery and the tavern can the return of beer be made a success.

There was every indication the admonition of Mr. Hearst will be reflected in the Wisconsin regulatory code soon to be adopted.

FIGHT LOOMING AT HARRISBURG ON BIG ISSUES

HARRISBURG, March 31.—Every major issue before the Legislature today was a storm cloud.

Both House and Senate were in adjournment until next week, when several of the controversial issues are scheduled for showdowns.

Beer Control—There were threats of a row Monday night when the Sowers-Conner beer regulation bill comes up in the House for final passage. Gov. Pinchot has said he will veto it if the Legislature passes the measure. His own bill lies dormant in committee. There seemed every likelihood the sale of beer will be uncontrolled when it becomes legal a week from today.

Prohibition Repeal—Gov. Pinchot's and the drys' plan for electing delegates to a state convention to consider repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment was before the House. The Legislature already has passed a bill providing for election of 34 delegates from the congressional districts and 17 at large. The Pinchot plan is to elect 208 from the Legislative districts.

Sunday Sports—Supporters and opponents of Sunday baseball and football clash finally next week on the Senate-House Conference Committee's report on the Schwartz bill. It provides that each community shall vote next November on whether it will permit baseball and football between 2 and 6 p. m. on Sundays.

Unemployment Relief—Cash was available to provide unemployment relief only for the first two weeks in April, according to Gov. Pinchot. The House passed the Talbot $22,000,000 relief bill providing the money be administered through country poor boards, but it faces almost certain veto by the Governor. The money would be used in the two years beginning June 1, and $2,000,000 will be cut from it when it reaches the Senate next week since that amount already has been approved for expenditure during April and May.

The electorate will vote in November on a proposed $25,000,000 bond issue, all of which could be used for relief.

Banking—Senate and House committee action on proposed banking and building and loan reforms awaited the results of conferences between bankers and building and loan officials with legislators and state officers. Gov. Pinchot threatened a special session of the Legislature without pay unless the banking and building and loan codes are passed.

Economy—The Turner bill providing salary cuts for state employes, eliminating bureaus, deputies and duplicating functions, and substituting elective officers for the Governor-appointed members of the State Executive Board is slated for final action in the House Monday night.

Public Utilities—The McClure omnibus utility bill embodying provisions which would give the Public Service Commission more rigid control over public service companies was slated for final Senate action Monday night. Gov. Pinchot was expected to address the Legislature on utility legislation early next week.

Budget—The general appropriation bill providing a $52,000,000 slash proposed by the Republican organization in government expenditures was cheduled for presentation to the House Monday night. It will provide $144,000,000 for ordinary government expenses during 1933-35. Gov. Pinchot requested $158,000,000, a cut of $38,000,000 from the budget of the present two-year period.

Old Age Pensions—Final House action on the two Sowers bills to allow the voters to decide next November on constitutional amendments permitting state and county payments to old age pensions was slated for Monday night.

SUITOR ADMITS KILLING GIRL

PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—(AP.)—Five hours after a 21-year-old girl was shot and killed and her mother and brother wounded in their home, a man surrendered at a police station last night and authorities said he confessed he did the shooting.

He gave his name as Wilbur S. McLean, 32-year-old oil company employe.

Authorities said the girl, Miss Edna Maier, unemployed stenographer, rejected McLean's suit after she learned he was divorced.

The assailant fired on Miss Maier in the kitchen of her home, firing three bullets into her body. Her mother, Mrs. Blanche Maier, 53, was shot in the hand, and as her brother ran to their aid, he was shot in the mouth.

GUFFEY MEETS WITH FARLEY

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—Joseph Guffey, a Democratic leader of Pennsylvania, conferred yesterday with Postmaster General Farley and Louis M. Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt.

Later, Guffey said he does not expect that any patronage for Pennsylvania will be contributed before 30 or 60 days.

He said he understands the Democratic members of Congress would control the postmaster nominations in their districts and the state committee other patronage. Warren Van Dyke is state chairman.

Asked about reports of dissension over patronage, Guffey said he has heard of this but is not concerned.

Orphan Scatters Roses for Marquette

CHICAGO, March 31.—(AP.)—Hundreds of red roses were tossed into the dirty waters of the Chicago River by 2-year-old Mary Anne Tripp, who lives in an orphanage.

Her act was in commemoration of the trip Father Marquette and his two companions took on the stream. That was 258 years ago.

M'Keesporter Jailed On Forgery Charge

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 31.—George Bogard, 33, of McKeesport, is in jail accused of forgery and false pretense. Police said he forged the name of P. O. Eddy, of Brave, to several small checks, cashed by storekeepers here.

WATERS URGES COMPROMISE

HARRISBURG, March 31.—(INS.)—A direct appeal for Gov. Gifford Pinchot and legislative leaders to compromise on a comprehensive program came today from Charles A. Waters, Auditor General and State Treasurer-elect.

Indirectly, Waters called upon the administration and Republican organization officials to halt their bickering and agree to a coordinated plan of legislation. He said:

"The problem of a balanced budget for the 1933-35 biennium, with reasonable provisions for unemployment relief, is no longer difficult. Grown-up men should solve it in an hour or so."

Oregon's Hatchet Slayer Held Insane

BAKER, Ore., March 31.—(AP.)—Mrs. Rose May, 39, charged with having beaten her husband, Warren May, 45, to death with a hatchet Monday night, was committed to the State Hospital for the Insane at Pendleton today. A sanity committee reported she was not responsible for her actions.

Sharon Begins War On Pets and Petters

SHARON, Pa., March 31.—Upon orders of Mayor J. Fred Thomas, police have declared war on persons who permit dogs to run at large, those who play their radios loudly late at night, and those who stop their cars on city streets to "spoon."

Chicago's Triplets Keep Tenor Busy Presenting Cribs

CHICAGO, March 31.—John Pane-Gasser, the tenor, vowed he'd present cribs to any and all triplets born in Chicago while he is here.

Yesterday he was called upon to make such a presentation for the third time. The triplets of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Mora were the lucky youngsters.

Just to make things still easier for them he sat by the cribs and sang half of the "Sextet from Lucia," which is a feat for one singer.

SCHOOL CLOSING SEEN BY RULE

PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—(AP.)—The view that without legislation to cut expenditures and without a special emergency aid fund many Pennsylvania schools will be forced to close next year was expressed last night by Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of public instruction.

Speaking at the schoolmen's week meeting, he said that "under existing conditions it is reasonable to expect that at least 1,000 districts will need emergency aid next year," unless directors are permitted to reduce expenses by cutting teachers' salaries.

A special aid fund of $30,000,000 would be required to meet such an emergency, Dr. Rule asserted, adding that a larger fund might be necessary if salaries are continued on the present basis.

BUDGET SHIFT URGED ON U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(INS.)—Drastic reorganizations in operation of the federal budget were recommended today by a committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Control of expenditures should be vested in the President, the committee said. The chief executive was urged to formulate and present to Congress a complete fiscal program in which estimates for activities he deems advisable should be segregated from those he recommends should be suspended or eliminated.

Creation of a joint congressional commission was suggested for the purpose of investigating thoroughly all phases of the budget system and recommend legislation to permit fiscal operation which will insure maximum efficiency and economy.

WATER COLORS ON DISPLAY AT THEATER

By PENELOPE REDD

An exhibition of water colors by Esther Phillips was shown today for the first time at the Warner Theater. In these water colors Miss Phillips transports those who see into a new realm of vision where a single tulip may be developed into effulgent beauty.

Miss Redd

She has transformed a white drawing room intensely formal in arrangement into a space animated by the gay light of the sun and the moving gestures of the breezes. Plants, textiles, even the furniture participates in the general sociability engendered by Esther Phillips' instinct for design.

The series of nudes and clothed figures arranged on couches are painted with a nervous precision that sustains linear style. They are unlike any similar subjects we have seen in the neighborhood.

In the portrait of an artist, she presents the same indivisibility of planes that made Pascin immune to imitators. Throughout her exhibition, the color is handled with so unerring a feeling that one is forced to conclude that intuition entered somewhat into the fabrication of these super-simulations of nature invading the urban gloom. Miss Phillips' exhibition will be on view until April 15.

The Pittsburgh Chapter of Hadassah at its donor reception yesterdam afternoon at the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association presented the contralto, Sonia Sharnova, of the Chicago and German Grand Opera companies. It was a fortunate audience for the singer for it appreciated every note in her singing.

Mr. Lissfelt

We remember with pleasure Miss Sharnova's singing of "Brangaene" and "Erda" for its breadth of declamation as well as in its vocal line. Yesterday her voice was best in the big style of the air from "Samson and Dalila."

This is a pure contralto, rich in timbre, but lacking a brilliance which need not be absent from so heavy an organ. That deficiency removes the extreme charm from so subtle songs as Hugo Wolf's "Rat Einer Alten" or the delicate folk melody from the Old French which Arnold Bax has arranged so attractively.

This singer is endowed with skill for the best diction and her stage presence adds much to her success. Earl Mitchell played accompaniments.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

SUBS TO CONVOY OCEAN PLANES

ROME, March 31.—(Universal.)—Two swift submarines will probably play a unique role in Gen. Italo Balbo's forthcoming mass flight of 20 seaplanes to the 1933 Chicago World's Fair this June.

Plans are being made by Italy's Minister of Marine to make the submarines available during the most perilous part of the flight—around Iceland, Greenland and Labrador—so that safety communication may be maintained by radio between submarines and planes.

This is to be done by keeping one submarine to one side of the flight formation and the other submarine to the other side. By radio flashes from both submarines to the commanding plane of the minister of air, constant communication giving exact positions of the planes with relation to the undersea craft will be maintained. The submarines could dash to the rescue of any plane forced down on the ocean.

FIGHTING ROBIN HIT BY CUPID

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 31.—(INS.)—Indications were that Cock Robin, local pugilistic redbreast, may soon abandon his shadow boxing with his reflection in a window of the home of Dr. H. E. Songer and settle down to a life of domestic bliss.

The bird appeared today with another robin, a girl friend.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 31.—(INS.)—A contender for the shadow boxing championship of America has arisen here in the person of Sir Cardinal Grosbeak to dispute the claims of Dangerous Cock Robin, of Kansas City.

Sir Card has been valiantly battling his shadow, reflected in a window of the home of Charles W. Dudley, for three months, and it's a draw to date, but the carmine-hued, fast-flitting fighter has been given an edge over Kid Robin.

EDITOR OUSTED AT PRINCETON

PRINCETON, N. J., March 31.—(Universal.)—The Princeton campus was stirred today when it was learned the student chairman of the Nassau Literary Magazine had been suspended by the undergraduate council for publishing an "obscene" poem.

The action of the council in suspending the chairman, Philip C. Horton, '34, of Providence, R. I., became known when the Daily Princetonian, in an editorial, strongly criticized the undergraduate group.

Faculty members joined students in protesting the suspension, which is to continue until April 17.

The poem, titled "Renascence," appeared in the April issue of the magazine. The council, composed of class officers and members appointed by them, called it "un-Princeton."

Horton refused to comment.

DEATH SUSPECT BLAMES LOVE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., March 31.—(AP.)—Joseph Wisneski, 29, of Shickshinny, on trial charged with murder in the death of Anthony Shedlock, testified yesterday that love for Shedlock's widow prompted him to make a false confession.

On the stand in his own defense, Wisneski swore he involved the Exeter miner's widow in an alleged murder plot because he suspected she betrayed him.

He declared that after his arrest he told police he and Mrs. Shedlock planned to kill her husband. Wisneski, a boarder in the Shedlock home, said he told authorities of killing the miner Thanksgiving Eve as they worked together in a West Wyoming mine tunnel.

Cross-examined, Wisneski said Shedlock was killed by a rock fall.

BROKEN BOTTLE HOLDS EVIDENCE

Two men were captured by prohibition agents after an automobile chase in Ben Avon last night, and a pint of whisky retrieved from a smashed bottle was held as evidence against them, the agents reported.

The prisoners gave their names as Richard Bergman and Charles Roessing. As they leaped from the car, Bergman threw the bottle against the curb, the agents said. They arrested the pair and salvaged a pint of liquor from the bottle, they reported.

Two liquor-laden automobiles were seized in Larimer avenue, and an alleged wildcat brewery in a building in Penn avenue, near Twenty-seventh street, was raided, according to the agents.

Vare Gives State Leaders Warning

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 31.—William S. Vare and his Republican followers in Philadelphia have served notice on State Chairman Edward Martin that there must be a change in the direction of state policy if their co-operation is to be expected.

Mr. Shields

Thinly-veiled hints have been passed that if conditions do not change there is more than an even chance that the next Governor of Pennsylvania will be a Democrat — unless the minority party snarls itself.

Two sources have been utilized to inform the state chairman of the attitude of the Philadelphia Republican circle.

One was a direct statement to Gen. Martin by Harry C. Davis, director of the executive committee of the Philadelphia Republican city committee.

The second was a statement today by Auditor General Charles A. Waters, discussing the fiscal situation in the state, as well as some legislative questions now before the General Assembly. Waters also took occasion for some chiding of Gov. Pinchot.

That occasioned some comment in view of his past quasi-friendly relations with the Governor, but chief interest in the minds of political observers touched Waters' observations on the lack of leadership in the party in the Legislature. He made no mention of Martin by name, but there was little difficulty in reading between the lines.

* * *

Old Age Pension Opposition Cited

Davis used the Martin opposition to old age pension legislation, and his reputed support of Pinchot beer legislation as a means of stating the Vare position.

It is understood the exchange of views was not acrimonious, but that there were plain words, and Martin intimated he would seek some other alliances if forced, and that there might be reprisals against Philadelphia from rural sections if the big eastern city attempted to become too arrogant.

This was a repetition of the remarks of Representative A. J. White Hutton, loyal state organization follower, on the floor of the House when the old age pension issue was fought out Tuesday—with defeat for the state organization and former Senator Joseph R. Grundy.

Waters in a statement today said that "grown up men" could solve the budget controversy in "an hour or two." This was something of a shot at the budget division of the administration, but even more so at organization followers who have been squabbling with Mr. Pinchot, over projected econominies.

Declares For Change In Sunday Laws

The Auditor General also took issue with the state organization on liberal Sunday legislation, declaring for it in the face of an extreme silence from the Republican leaders. He insisted that Philadelphia should be given greater consideration from the Legislature than it has received in highway allocations.

This is also criticism of the state organization in its rural strongholds which has been quite as insistent as Mr. Pinchot that there should be no diversion of highway funds at this time.

To this extent Waters was reading a lesson to the Governor and the state chairman on behalf of Philadelphia. But he then advised slow going on old age pensions, the pet legislation of the Philadelphia boss. This proposal to pension the aged is anathema to former Senator Joseph R. Grundy, with whom Waters is credited with having a friendly connection in the past, and who is not enthusiastic about the present condition of the party.

Waters agreed with the Governor, and threw the state organization into a fever, with a plain implication that a special session of the Legislature appeared unavoidable. From his familiarity with fiscal affairs he drew the observation that in the present economic situation it is almost impossible to legislate for two years ahead on finances.

* * *

Session Preceding Primary Dreaded

The Governor is understood to want this session. Some say because of politics, others because he holds the same views as Waters on the futility of trying to budget for two years. But the organization dreads such a session just before the statewide primary next year, with its potentialities of trouble in a picture which will be sufficiently troubled anyhow. It does not relish such utterances from a man as well informed as Waters.

There can be no doubt whatever about the determination of the Philadelphians to take their own course through the remainder of this session. If that course is later approved by the state organization it will be all right with the easterners. If it isn't, and there is a continuance of the party split already evidenced over educational retrenchment, old age pensions and beer, then the Philadelphians do not intend to worry.

They are shooting high, wide and handsome for a new deal, and if there is considerable confusion while the shuffling goes on they will not be so perturbed because of their ability to hold their own lines at home.

Differences within the party have not within the past five years come so fully into the open, nor has there been such chaos and ill feeling.

GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE

CHAPTER II

I must have read a score of biographies of Hammond, many of them by writers of great brilliance, but in each case laid them down with feeling of exasperation.

Let me describe the Hammond I knew, and not the strange and unreal being, a cross between Napoleon and Adam Smith, whom historians have foisted on the world.

He was a tall man, but his huge frame made him appear shorter than he actually was. His full face was clean shaven and his squarish head almost completely bald. Luxury and ease and lack of exercise had softened the square and powerful jaw. The short thick neck was corrugated in rolls of flesh. He had a decided paunch, enormous hands, blunt square fingers.

This might envisage a singularly unattractive person of somewhat repellent aspect had it not been for his eyes. Deep-set beneath bushy reddish brown eyebrows, blue and good humored, they twinkled on the slightest provocation, and seemed to belie the hardness lurking in the firm thin-lipped mouth.

Hammond was a popular man with a great deal of personal magnetism, breadth of culture and a genial cordiality which surrounded him with an army of friends. He loved giving parties on a grand scale and his hospitality was boundless.

Contempt for Crowd

Superficially he was a good mixer, but in his heart he had an unlimited contempt, not only for his fellow politicians, but also for the crowd. He loved his speechmaking and commanded vast audiences in every State of the Union. To intimates like myself he half admitted that he was a charlatan, "a Cagliostro in Cicero's clothes" as he phrased it, and deliberately used to insert into his speeches borrowed passages of flamboyant oratory and nauseous sentimentality just for the impish pleasure of seeing whether the crowd would swallow it. They always did.

It was odd in many ways that I should have liked "Jud" Hammond. His unashamed vulgarities, his rather ostentatious display of wealth, his great booming laugh and his complete disrespect for social codes and class distinctions ought to have created an antipathy if not a contempt which should have made my working with him an impossibility. These things infuriated me at times, and there were moments when I felt that resignation was the only thing compatible with self-respect. But my annoyances passed, and my admiration for his brilliance and my pleasure in his obvious affection for me drew me more closely toward him.

Hammond was prone to use me as an audience in trying out his speeches, particularly the emotional and sentimental parts. His jesting explanation was that I represented the "lowest common denominator of the mind of the body politic," and if I approved of his purple passages he knew that he would get them by the crowd.

I was not enthusiastic at this definition of my status, and endeavored to invoke the sympathy of Pendie Malloy. But she just laughed and said it was a

OFFICER HELPS SAVE LIVES

It's George Huff's job to see to it that people save their lives.

For several years his duties as special officer with the Pittsburgh Railways Company have included keeping boys off the rear of street cars. It was a big enough assignment in the old days when youngsters did it for fun, but Huff avers:

"It's a lot tougher since the depression, because even the grownups risk their lives by hopping on the rear of the cars."

For boys, Officer Huff has two brands of medicine when he catches them "snitching" rides. If they are small, he takes them to their mothers who usually do the rest; if they are older, he takes them to the police station.

Huff, who spends his spare time organizing safety patrols in schools, says the danger to the "ride snitchers" cannot be over emphasized.

STOLEN WATCH HOLDS BARBER

Glimpsing in the mirror of a barber shop, he told police, the wrist watch stolen from him four months ago, the customer had the barber arrested. He was held for further investigation in Central Police Court today.

John Brody, 29, of 340 South Millvale avenue, ambulance driver at West Penn Hospital, said beside the wrist watch his ring was stolen.

When he walked into the barber shop of Leo Porco, 28, of 220 Thirty-ninth street, and got into the chair, he said, he caught a glimpse of the lost watch on Porco's wrist. He informed city detectives, who made the arrest.

In Police Court today, Brody identified his watch. Porco said he bought it for $5 several months ago from a man who came into his shop.

Woman Questioned In Dual Killing Freed

Mary Marshall, 28, of Oakdale, arrested a week ago for questioning in connection with the torture murders of Frank Koszula, and his wife, Katherine, in their home at Champion Hill two weeks ago, was released by county detectives yesterday.

WIFE WHO SHOT SELF IN FIGHT NEAR DEATH

Estranged Mate Stays At Bedside of Gun Victim

Mrs. Edna E. Hall, 38, lay near death in the South Side Hospital today from a bullet wound which, according to police, was self-inflicted. The shooting occurred in the washroom of her estranged husband's real estate office, 695 Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, following a quarrel yesterday, the police said.

A note written on the washroom wall declared she was "tired of living because someone else had taken her place." The shot was fired as Mt. Lebanon policemen battered in the door.

QUARREL IN OFFICE

Two hours previous, Mrs. Hall, who lives in Dormont, called at the office of her husband, William M. Hall. They quarreled. When the dispute reached a climax Mrs. Hall ran to the washroom and Mt. Lebanon police were called.

Lieut. Ted Carrington reported Hall, his left hand bleeding, told him:

"My wife and I had a little scrap, and she is in the washroom. She bit me."

SMASHES DOOR

Carrington tried to persuade Mrs. Hall to come out, but she refused, saying, the officer reported:

"Don't try to come in. It's too late now."

Hall told police his wife might have a gun, and Carrington smashed in the door. Mrs. Hall fell into his arms.

Chief of Police William J. Kane, of Mt. Lebanon, said she declared before going to the hospital:

"I'm sorry I did it."

The Halls have been estranged six months, police said. They have no children. Hall remained at his wife's bedside until late last night.

POLICE FIRE ON FLEEING BOYS

Three shots were fired by the crew of a radio police car early today during a chase after the boy occupants of an allegedly stolen automobile in the Lawrenceville section.

One of the bullets pierced a tire, causing the fleeing machine to veer to the curb in Forty-fourth street.

Police captured two of its three occupants.

Because of the age of the boys under arrest, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will not publish their names. Both were sent to Juvenile Court. The automobile in which they were riding was reported stolen by John Kerns, of Karns City.

Slayer of Woman Gets 5-Year Sentence

House Shattered by Bomb Explosion

JOHN W. HAYMAN, JR., 29, AND VIOLET, 16, INSPECTING THEIR BOMB-DAMAGED HOME

EXPLOSION LAID TO WARFARE OF UNIONS

Blast Follows Parley On New Mine Pay Scale

The lives of 11 persons, including nine children, were imperiled early today by a dynamite bomb explosion that ripped a 15-foot hole in their home at Coverdale.

The blast was attributed by county detectives to a flareup of the long-time fight involving the United Mine Workers of America and the National Miners' Union for supremacy in the Coverdale field. The explosion was heard in Brookline and Beechview, a distance of more than 10 miles.

MINE BLAST SCARE

Most of the residents of the community, routed from their beds by the terrific blast, rushed to the entrance of Coverdale mine No. 8, of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, fearing an explosion there.

J. W. Hayman, Sr., victim of the bombing, was unable to furnish County Detectives David Carlin and Michael Stabile with clues as to the identity of the bombers, but said he had been threatened.

He is a member of the scale committee of the United Mine Workers of America and supply man for the coal company. The committee held a meeting last night to discuss the new wage scale.

FAMILY ESCAPES

Hayman, his wife, Ida, 51, and nine children, John Hayman, Jr., 29; Doris, 19; Violet, 16; Wilson, 14; June, 12; Regina, 11; Myna, 9; Wilma, 8, and Florence, 4, sleeping in the house at the time, escaped unhurt.

The oldest boy and Wilson slept on the first floor within a few feet of where the bomb was placed. Both were showered with falling plaster. John, Jr., suffered minor scratches to his face by flying glass. He said:

"I heard the report, then I saw a blue flame followed by blue smoke."

Wilson slept through the blast.

The blast did considerable damage to the Hayman home and shattered windows in the Oppenheim business block across the street. Eight families living over the store rooms were routed from their beds.

The damage was estimated by county detectives at $5,000.

Held for Court In School Thefts

Charles Harris, 16, Negro, of 656 Bryn Mawr road, today in Morals Court admitted stealing $6.65, and frat pins and fountain pens, valued at $55, from lockers of practice teachers in Schenley High School. Most of the teachers are Pitt students. Harris was held for court, charged with breaking and entering, by Magistrate T. D. Jones.

Claim 2 Admit Many Robberies, Thefts

Two men, who, police say, admitted 35 holdups of gasoline stations and chain stores, and the theft of 12 automobiles, were held for further investigation in Central Police Court today. The men said they were Ray Mauder, 30, of 306 Mayflower street, and Frank Sperano, 248 Paulson avenue.

BLAST KILLING WOMAN PROBED

The Coroner's office today was investigating the death of Mrs. Catherine Miller, 35, from burns suffered in an explosion. The blast, believed caused by gas, damaged her two-story brick home, 208 Olympia street, Mt. Washington, yesterday.

Her clothing ablaze, Mrs. Miller was taken to South Side Hospital, where she died.

The blast, heard throughout the neighborhood, caused $3,000 damage, according to Battalion Chief Saul Klein.

PIONEER'S HEIR SUES TRUSTEES

Pittsburgh and Aspinwall real estate, purported to be worth millions of dollars, is the core of contention in a revival of the court action over the estate of James Ross, Jr., pioneer Pittsburgher who died in 1851.

Ethel Cribbs, attorney in fact for Agnes Duffy Connell, deceased Ross heir, has brought action in Supreme Court against the Commonwealth Trust Company and the trustees under the deed of Mary C. Dellafield, seeking an accounting.

At the termination in 1872, of a trust set up by Ross, it is averred, Mary C. Dellafield took possession of some of the estate, and it is alleged that she was not entitled to the remainder.

GIRLS CLUBBED, HOLD MAN HERE

Oakland police say they believe that in the arrest of a man Tuesday night carrying a short wooden club, they may have the man wanted in Ohio cities for clubbing women.

The suspect gave his name as Nick Mike, 40, and admitted having recently been in Cleveland, Toledo, Youngstown and Lorain, police said. In these cities a mysterious "clubber" is being sought.

Mike has been held in jail since his arrest at Center avenue and Craig street. He will be arraigned for a hearing tomorrow in Oakland station.

It's All a Dire Plot Against Home Brewers

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

When speaking of beer, don't forget that Volstead was always right the morning after.

New York has tapped its first empty keg and heard a politician singing through the bunghole.

It is a long cry from Manhattan to Albany, but Tammany is laughing all the way.

The malt comet is scheduled to flash across the skies next Friday. But in New York there will be no Big Dipper. It is a victory for the drys, for it proves we will fight with it or without it.

The Governor wants to serve it his way. The Legislature wants to serve it its way. The public doesn't care if they serve it this way or thataway.

We have finally figured the entire situation out. It is not personal liberty. It is an attack on home brew.

Dog Aids Hungry Hitch Hiking Pals

WARSAW, Mo., March 31.—"Feed my dog, feed me," was a slogan which Murry Wykoff and Charles Marshall found brought them meals on their hitch hiking tour of three months. Grocers, butchers, housewives gave scraps to Bozo, an eight-months-old German police pup, and generally offered food to his masters.

All except one woman in Dallas, who, Wykoff and Marshall aver, laughed in their faces when they asked for food and then handed Bozo a plate of fried chicken.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 31.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Glad to see that reforestration and employment bill pass. We got to have a lot more forests and trees, otherwise these cigaret smokers won't have anything to burn up.

Will Rogers

Say, here is something that for the good of the internal revenue collectors ought to be made straight. We all kinder smile, and the papers headline it, any time that somebody gets a refund on their income tax, that's given wide publicity, but here is something that everybody don't know, because they are not allowed to publicize it. They collect in lots more back disputed taxes than they pay out. It's news if you can get anything out of the government, but if the government gets anything out of you, that ain't news, that's just a habit. But Uncle Sam has no more faithful, or fair servants.

ELEVATE ROAD IN NEW PLAN FOR WHARVES

Costs on the new plan for the improvement of Pittsburgh's river fronts will be considerably less than on plans previously offered, according to Chief City Engineer Charles M. Reppert.

With engineers still working on the estimates, the meeting of the special wharf committee appointed by Council scheduled for today has been postponed a week.

The new plan, the principle of which has been approved by the committee, would provide two wide elevated highways from Smithfield street on the Monongahela River around the Point and up the Allegheny River as far as Tenth street.

WOULD HAVE RAMPS

The highways would be developed for one-way traffic and would be equipped with ramps to communicate with the sloping wharf below. A considerable area of the wharf would not be covered by the platform, and all of the sloping wharf would still be available for parking and river commerce.

Reppert had prepared estimates for covering the entire wharf with a platform, and last year figured the costs at about $200 a foot for the larger scheme. The new plan will not only use less material, but will have the advantage now of lower construction costs.

L. W. Monteverde, chairman of the committee, declares the improvement would be of special benefit to the downtown property in the lower end of the Triangle and particularly between the Boulevard of the Allies and the Monongahela River.

BOULEVARD LINK

The possibility of connecting the Boulevard of the Allies with the wide new traffic lanes on Water street, thus relieving traffic congestion on the boulevard, has been pointed out by Monteverde. Federal and state aid should be enlisted on the wharf job, he declares.

Members of City Council have looked with favor on the improvement of the wharves, and it is believed are ready to act. The new plan would not have value as flood protection, but is believed that eventually that phase will be taken care of by reservoirs on the headwaters of the rivers.

SONGBIRD FAKE JAILS MAN

After they had observed him trapping English sparrows on a roof adjoining his room, and later exhibiting in the street birds of brilliant plumage about the size of sparrows, officers followed him home last night in the guise of customers.

"I'll take $11 for that pair," Redman was quoted as telling them when they priced two of his prettiest red birds.

The room was filled with cages of birds of all colors. In one cage the officers found a half dozen sparrows and nearby an improvised dryer, heated by an electric bulb, in which several birds were undergoing a drying process. The policemen then picked up a pair of rubber gloves and several bottles of dyes and bleaching materials.

They arrested Redman for investigation, and quoted him as saying he obtained $1 each for many of the birds, and sometimes higher prices in pairs.

MINERS' LEADER TO BE DEPORTED

A warrant for the deportation of Morgan Davis, secretary of Local No. 154, National Miners' Union, of Newtown Site, Greene County, was received here today by William H. Marshall, director of immigration in the Pittsburgh district.

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson dismissed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus sought by Davis yesterday, who charged false arrest.

Morals Court Work Brings Honor to Benefactress

Years of service silently performed mark today's awards of "Walter Winchell orchids" for good deeds by the district members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association and the Sun-Telegraph, an honor being given daily in observance of National F. T. D. Week.

The Federation of Girls' School Societies and Mrs. Richard H. Wick, of 412 Bailey avenue, Mt. Washington, are addressed with "an orchid to you," an idea originated by the Sun-Telegraph's feature columnist.

The federation, composed of the alumnae of private schools throughout the country, has quietly conducted the Harmarville Convalescent Home for Women for more than 20 years. Mothers and infants whose homes cannot provide proper convalescence care, girls and women who also need care in recovering from illness find proper attention without cost. Cases are recommended by hospitals and physicians. The home consists of the Farmington House and the Dobbs House, with approximately 68-case capacity.

Hiding her good deeds from even the social workers through whom information is received, Mrs. Wick has been a benefactress for more than 10 years to girls and women in Morals Court. Mrs. Wick almost daily has checked cases with social workers. Working for her own satisfaction in helping others and having no connection with welfare groups, Mrs. Wicks' career has aided many a friendless girl or woman to start life anew. Clothing, railroad tickets, employment and guidance have been her gift to those who needed help.

Winners of yesterday's orchids were Mrs. R. C. Burt, of 111 Overbrook drive, Mt. Lebanon, and Miss Cecelia Dunn, 1219 Ormond street, Brookline, the former for aiding distressed "white collar" families and the latter for serving as nurse to Father James R. Cox's needy.

5 SHOPLIFTING SUSPECTS HELD

They were Herbert Klein, 29, of 8 Fernando street; Mrs. Elizabeth Trunzo, her mother, Mrs. Angelina Masterno, and Antonia Marino, 52, of North Braddock, and Albert Jackson, 28, Negro, of Cleveland.

Klein, according to city detectives, was sent to the workhouse three months ago for stealing merchandise from a downtown store. Since that time, they said, he has been terrorizing clerks in the store. Yesterday he was caught running down a back stairway after he took three neckties, detectives said.

FAILS TO HEED OWN WARNING

ST. PAUL, March 31.—(AP.)—For a half hour Prof. Herbert Vogel, of St. Paul Luther College, lectured to his students on the dangers of asphyxiation in the preparation of hydrogen sulphide.

They repaired to the laboratory room, where experiments were conducted, the professor assisting. There he was overcome by the fumes due to a defect in an oven hood.

Revived by his students, he was taken home, where he announced a scheduled examination for today would be called off.

MODEST SUITOR ARRESTED AS 'CAVEMAN'

International News Service.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 31.—Charged with pursuing caveman tactics of his pre-historic forbears, George V. Cooper, wealthy and socially prominent New Rochelle youth, was called upon to explain in court his old-fashioned methods of courtship.

The charges were preferred by Mrs. Louise Grotthoff, 22, and Miss Louise Harper, 23, both comely artists' models of New York.

The girls charged that Cooper, using the name of a New Rochelle artist, had applied to the New York Models' Guild for two models, and they were assigned to the call.

But, instead of being called upon to pose for an artist, they were enticed to the Cooper home, bound and gagged and held captives in an attic for two hours.

Cooper, who is 24, was quoted by authorities as explaining to them:

"I never had a date with a girl in my life. I guess I'm too modest, or something, to go about these things like other fellows.

"I don't smoke, drink or swear, but I do like feminine company."

But, according to the story told by the girls, he didn't act like that. He was real he-man in his approach.

They said he met them at the station with a car and drove them to the Cooper home, on the outskirts of town. There, after separating them, he bound and gagged first one and then the other. He carried them to an attic room and dumped them down on the floor, and then read a magazine for two hours without speaking to them.

At the end of that time he carried them back down to the car, loosed their bonds, took them to the station and paid each her regular model's fee.

PASTOR TAKES PULPIT, WEDS

Installed in his first pulpit last night, the Rev. Norman E. Kohler was on his way to New York today on a honeymoon with the former Miss Elizabeth Hart, of Dormont.

The Rev. Mr. Kohler and Miss Hart were married last night immediately after he was installed as pastor of the Avella Presbyterian Church. The installation sermon was preached and the marriage ceremony performed by the bridegroom's father, the Rev. Norman E. Kohler, Sr., of New Florence.

Miss Hart was engaged in mission work at the Robinson Street Mission, North Side, and was employed as a stenographer at the Mellon National Bank. She is a daughter of Mrs. Esther Hart, of Dormont.

The congregation of the Avella church was present for the installation and wedding. The new pastor will return to his charge next week. He will be graduated in May from the Western Theological Seminary.

BLAME AUTOIST IN GIRL'S DEATH

CHICAGO, March 31.—(INS.)—The manslaughter verdict of a coroner's jury today blamed an unidentified motorist for the death of 17-year-old Violet Ganschow, Palatine schoolgirl who carried in her purse a resolution to "stick to the straight path."

The body was found in a roadside ditch a half-mile from the girl's home. Until the inquest last night police held to the opinion that Miss Ganschow was either beaten or shot to death and then thrown from an automobile.

A chronic truant from school in recent months, Miss Ganschow had compiled a set of resolutions pledging to "keep on the straight path and to go around with decent boys."

Watch for a tip tomorrow if you have any difficulties. It should help you.

Cipher No. 77 was a hard one. Did you solve it? The calender should have been a great help to you. Here's how it was done. Taking the first combination 3QG—3 equaled third, "Q" was Thursday and "G" being July. Now, the third Thursday of July is the 20th day of the month or the 20th letter of the alphabet which is "T." Continue in this manner to obtain the completed message.

Joseph Hoppe Knore, of 104 South 14th street says:

"I have been following your ciphers in the Sun-Telegraph regularly. They sure are a great thing for the unemployed. It sure keeps you going to obtain the completed message. Keep up the good work."

How Old?

He doesn't look a day over fifty. And feels like forty.
At the age of 62.

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" that bring only temporary relief. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headache, biliousness, constipation. But if you want to keep in fine shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better in every way. You will never need to take another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. A gentle, natural stimulant that makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every way. Syrup pepsin isn't expensive.

800 Hear Plea For Peace by Dr. Woolley

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Eight hundred persons heard Dr. Mary Emma Woolley last night following the dinner given in her honor by the Western Pennsylvania Cause and Cure of War Committee at the Hotel Schenley. Six hundred of these attended the dinner, the others coming in later.

They heard this one of America's 12 greatest women say that the children of the world must be taught a new internationalism, that the minds of men must be disarmed and their subsoil cultivated to substitute trust for distrust and faith for suspicion. It will be a crusade that will last as long as life, but it is the only hope for civilization and humanity, Dr. Woolley stated.

Disarm Meeting

Much of her talk had to do with what took place at the disarmament conference during 1932 and what it had accomplished, history that was freshened for the minds of her hearers by her own impressions and observations. Events at Geneva move slowly, she said, one reason being that the delegates, while the majority are convinced of the futility and cost of war, must wait for instructions from home. The fact that the world has been meeting and talking for 14 months on the question of disarmament is "a very cheerful thing," she remarked, adding that it was a serious mistake to think that the delegates were merely on a diplomatic junket.

Dr. Woolley termed the manufacture and sale of arms "an insidious thing, because it touches the pocketbooks and makes men and women forget higher values." The Western nations have the situation of the Far East in their hands, she declared, if they are willing to "wage war without arms" through an embargo of munitions, a boycott of goods and withdrawal of trade, "disagreeable but effective means."

Asks New Slogan

The old slogan of "to the battlefields" must be replaced by "to the conference table," that America, with all her great resources may be ready to take her place with the other nations and decide international crisis with brains and not brute force, she said.

Mrs. A. W. Bowman, chairman of the Cause and Cure Committee, presided. Miss Mary Philput, president of the Pittsburgh Mt. Holyoke Club, made an unusually fine speech, introducing Miss Woolley. Another speaker was James Green, Yale undergraduate, who was a student representative at the Geneva Conference and who by request repeated a part of the speech he had made in Geneva, stating the desire of his generation for life and peace.

Spirituals were sung with exceptional beauty by the Lone Star Trio.

PLANKED DEVILED CHICKEN—1 medium-sized chicken for roasting, 3 tablespoons bacon fat, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons vinegar, browned buttered bread crumbs, pineapple, baked potatoes, olives, cauliflower.

Cut the chicken in pieces for serving. Place under broiler flame until one side has browned (about 15 minutes). Heat bacon fat in baking dish, then put the chicken in, brown side down. Rub top surface of chicken with following: Cream the 2 tablespoons of butter, add salt, pepper and vinegar, then sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Place in oven, leaving the dish uncovered and bake until chicken is tender. This will take about 1 hour and 15 minutes in a moderate oven. When tender remove to a prepared plank. Arrange sauteed pineapple rings around the chicken, 4 halves of baked potato on the half shell, cooked cauliflower in convenient pieces, and place under broiler flame. The cauliflower should be sprinkled with grated cheese and remaining butter. Brown 5 minutes. Just before serving place a stuffed olive in center of each pineapple ring. Serve piping hot. Serves four.

* * *

SOFT GINGERBREAD—1 cup white sugar, ½ cup melted butter, creamed with the sugar, then all 2 eggs well beaten, 1 cup dark cooking molasses, then add alternately, 3 cups flour sifted with, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, 2 teaspoons ginger, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, and 1 cup warm water, in which is dissolved, 1 teaspoon soda. Bake in a dripping pan about 30 minutes in a very moderate oven.

* * *

LACE COOKIES—1 egg, ½ cup of sugar, 2-3 tablespoon melted butter, ¾ cup rolled oats, ¼ cup cocoanut, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Beat egg until light, add sugar gradually and then stir in all remaining ingredients. Drop mixture by teaspoonfuls onto a thoroughly greased pan an inch apart. This recipe makes from 12 to 16 cookies. Spread into circular shape with a knife first dipped into cold water. Bake in a moderate oven about 10 minutes.

* * *

OYSTERS IN RAMEKINS.—4 hard cooked eggs, 2 raw eggs, 2 dozen oysters, ½ cup cream or milk, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, cracker crumbs, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley.

Place butter in skillet, add milk, beaten raw eggs, and when milk is scalded drop in chopped oysters. Season. Add some cracker crumbs. When nearly done, remove and add chopped eggs. This may be served on crackers as a chafing dish recipe or covered with crumbs and browned in oven in individual dishes. Sprinkle top with chopped parsley.

* * *

RHUBARB FLIP.—1 pound rhubarb, 1 quart water, 1½ cups sugar, ½ cup orange juice, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, few grains salt, 2 small bottles soda water.

Cut rhubarb into small pieces, cook with water until soft. Strain through double thickness of cheesecloth. Add sugar to liquid and boil five minutes, add orange and lemon juice and salt. When ready to serve, add soda water. Pour in punch bowls over ice.

* * *

DROP DUMPLINGS—1 pint sweet milk, brought to boiling point, 3 tablespoons flour, Extra flour, with ½ teaspoon baking powder added, 2 eggs, salt to taste.

Moisten the flour with some cold milk, then stir in gradually the hot milk and salt. Put on fire and stir constantly until it boils. Then allow to cool, add the eggs slightly beaten and beat mixture well. Now add enough flour to make the mixture so thick you can scarcely stir it (the baking powder to be added with flour). Now drop from spoon into very gently boiling broth and boil without removing cover for ten minutes. (Try one dumpling first, for if batter is not thick enough, the dumpling will fall apart).

ROSES IN SNOW—½ cup shortening, 1½ cups sugar, 2¼ cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup water (or thin milk), 1 teaspoon flavoring, 4 egg whites.

Cream the shortening and add the sugar gradually. Sift the flour once before measuring, then sift flour, salt and baking powder together and add alternately with the liquid. Add the flavoring. Fold in the egg white beaten stuff, but not dry. Pour into well greased and floured layer cake pans and bake. Spread with fresh coconut icing to represent snow. Lay 2 or 3 red roses on top of the coconut "snow." Bake at 350 de-

Spaghetti and Macaroni Excellent Energy Foods

Health Authority Gives Instructions for Proper Preparation of These Healthful Dishes

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Macaroni and spaghetti are democratic foods. They are eaten in the homes of the rich and poor. They are included in the menus of expensive restaurants and of the lowest-priced eating places. They are foods that appeal to every palate.

Most persons look upon spaghetti and macaroni as Italian foods. While it is true that Italy first appreciated the value of this food, history credits the invention of spaghetti to the Chinese. It was first introduced into Europe by the Germans. But for many centuries Italy was the only European nation eating spaghetti.

There is an interesting story told about Louis XIII, King of France. He first tasted this food in a small inn. Its taste so delighted him that he served the dish on the royal table and introduced it to the nobility.

Formerly, little macaroni was used in this country. Within the past few years it has become more popular. Because of this increased popularity, the domestic manufacture of macaroni has greatly expanded. It is now made in the United States and only a very small amount is imported from Europe.

INTERESTING PROCESS

Domestic macaroni is made from a high grade wheat, especially grown for this purpose in the Middle West. It is made from the gluten of wheat, which is the choicest and most nutritious part of the grain.

The manufacture of macaroni is an interesting process. The dough is fed into a circular kneading machine and whirled around until it has a certain firmness. By hydraulic pressure it is crowded into circular cylinders. Within the cylinders are bronze dies with many holes, each having a pin in the center. The pin divides the dough as it passes through and makes a complete tube. This is cut into certain lengths and stored in rooms kept at the proper temperature.

The macaroni is allowed to dry for several days. Then it is ready for packing and shipping.

NOURISHING FOOD

The popularity of macaroni is well deserved. One pound of the product is believed to contain as much nourishment as four pounds of meat. Its nutritive value is increased when served with milk, cheese, fruits and vegetables.

Macaroni has a pleasing aroma and stimulates the appetite. It lends variety to the diet.

It should be cooked with a large amount of water. The water should be boiling when the macaroni is added. Boil for 20 to 30 minutes until tender. Then drain and season to taste. Salt added to the water improves the flavor of the macaroni.

Macaroni is easily digested when properly prepared. Like any other carbohydrate food, it causes distress when taken in excess.

Macaroni is an energy food. It furnishes the body with fuel and heat. It is an excellent food when strenuous labor or physical exertion is required.

Do not serve macaroni with other starchy foods. Substitute it for other carbohydrates or use it as the chief dish and not merely as an unimportant part of a meal.

It is human nature to give least thought to the things with which we are most familiar. Consequently people don't think about the sugar they use.

NEW EVENING GOWNS DISPLAY GRACEFUL SOFTNESS OF LINE

THERE IS less of the fitted, moulded line about evening clothes than there used to be. There is a new softness about them and more of an appearance that the material has been placed about the figure and softly draped there, rather than the old-fashioned cutting and stitching and binding.

* * *

IT IS A manner of dressmaking which gives more graceful and natural curves to any figure. The fewer the seams, the better the dress—this is a phrase which is becoming an adage.

* * *

THE EVENING dress in today's sketch illustrates this story. There is none of the harshness of tight fitting or too-careful moulding in any line of this dress. It falls softly over the hips and folds into an ample hem. Even the shoulder straps are loosely twisted into form rather than shaped by any sharp cutting and seaming.

* * *

THE DRESS, like its little velvet cape, is bright red. There is a red velvet belt—narrow at the front, wide at the back—that is studded and embroidered in bright-colored glass beads. It is the only touch of contrasting tone in the entire costume.

* * *

THE LITTLE cape, not quite elbow length, is lined with the same velvet and has its collar and big bow of the same material. Its fulness is gathered into the yoke at the back, under the collar, via a few big plaits.

grees for 30 minutes, in two 8-inch layers.

DATE AND PECAN ROLL BISCUITS—1 cup whole wheat flour, 1 cup white flour, ¼ cup brown sugar, ¾ cup milk, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups chopped dates, ½ cup chopped pecans, ½ cup boiling water.

Mix dates, sugar and water, simmer, stirring constantly until blended; cool and add pecans. Sift the flour with salt and baking powder, mix in the softened butter, add milk, mix quickly and lightly. Roll in sheet ¼ inch thick, spread with melted butter, next spread with the date paste. Roll as a jelly roll. Cut in slices 1 inch thick. Place in well-greased pan and bake in hot oven about 12 minutes.

* * *

ARTICHOKE SALAD—6 large artichokes, 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ cups mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons capers.

Remove first 2 layers of leaves from artichokes and cut off stems. Remove spines by clipping tips from leaves with scissors. Wash thoroughly and place in large amount of rapidly boiling water. Lower heat and continue boiling gently 15 to 20 minutes, or until tender. When nearly done add salt. Remove from water and drain, stem-end up. Chill. Remove "choke." Serve on crisp lettuce, using ¼ cup of mayonnaise, sprinkled with capers, to each salad. Serves 6.

* * *

ALL-AMERICAN RED, WHITE AND BLUE CAKE — 1¾ cups sugar, ¾ cup butter or other shortening, 3½ cups sifted cake flour, 3½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 scant teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk or water, 2 teaspoons vanilla, red and blue coloring, 4 egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Sift flour. Add baking powder

Broadways Of the World — All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

ABOARD THE S. S. RESOLUTE, INDIA-BOUND.—With your permission, I will look around me on this boat and choose a few characters in whom you might be interested. It's easy on this particular vessel. Very easy. Look:

Mr. E——. A young man from Wall Street. Just before he left New York he did a very dangerous thing. He got himself married to a very charming girl and left on this cruiser for a trip around the world. Three days after he left port he did a still more dangerous thing. He began to grow a full set of whiskers.

The question of the day and night was: Why did he grow it? The first theory was that he had done it for religious reasons. The party was visiting Jerusalem, and perhaps he had relatives there who were highly religious. It was Mr. E——, himself, who halted that theory when he said that it made no difference to him whether the party touched Jerusalem or not.

Serious men and strong-minded women actually sat down to solve the problem. And I'm not kidding either. One insisted it was a bet. Another held fast to the theory that his face had suddenly developed a horrible blemish. A third advanced the opinion that the bride had made him do it because she was once wildly in love with a Russian. And so on down the line.

Sitting with Mr. E—— on the deck one night I fell like all the rest. I, too, asked him the real reason why he grew the beard. He sighed.

"It's simplicity itself," he returned, "and why the other passengers keep looking for a mystery is more than I can understand. I grew the beard because I thought I'd be more comfortable and because I didn't want to shave. My wife agreed with me and that's all I care about. The passengers who don't like it can go to blazes."

For which sentiments Mr. E— not only deserves a beard—but a large medal as well . . .

The girl from Hungary. In this modern age of sophistication she is a most amazing creature. The first thing she told me when she met me was that she was never permitted to go out alone with a man. That was rather startling because the girl looked quite old enough to take care of herself.

She had long hair and she never used paint and powder of any kind. That would have been perfectly all right, but I didn't like the way she kept dwelling on the fact.

"Ah, my dear man," she cooed, "you did not see the Hungary that we of the nobility love so dearly. What did you see in Budapest? The cafes, I suppose. What a pity! Do you know that I have never been in one of those places?

"No, indeed. If my mamma knew that I was even talking about them, she would be very shocked.

"You notice that I do not use powder and that my hair is long? That is because I am a Hungarian girl of noble birth. Oh, yes. There are a few of us left in lovely Budapest. I am one of the few. Why, do you know that if mamma knew that I was talking to you so informally about powder and such things she would be very angry?

"I suppose it is all very surprising to you. But that is the way we real Hungarians are. Some day I expect to be permitted to dine alone with a man—but the day is not yet here."

I got that for two or three days or until I learned to duck when the young lady appeared. There was no racket about the thing and one of the ship's officers assured me that Miss Hungary came from one of the finest families in all Europe.

Incidentally she and I are among the few passengers who are leaving the boat at Bombay. She remains in India while I expect to tour the country and then hop over to Siam. Our passports are together for the customs officials, and that's how I learned her age.

She is 43 years of age. Now you figure it out . . .

A tall, thin man who always wears glasses. He has spoken to no one except his cabin steward from the day the boat left New York until the present writing—or so the passengers assure me. He walks around and around and around the deck and he occasionally plays a little deck golf when there is no one else in the vicinity.

He has never purchased a drink of any kind—including soda and orangeade—and he keeps as far as possible from any entertainment that might be taking place on board. He never smiles, and he spends much of his time in the ship's comfortable library. I should judge him to be about fifty years of age.

During the early part of the voyage, I am told, he was placed at a table with three women in the dining salon. The man spoke no word to them, and one of the ladies felt that it was her duty as a Christian to make him a little happier, if possible. Along about the fourth day, during the middle of the meal, she smiled at him while the other two women looked on.

"It's been a very pleasant journey so far, hasn't it?" she asked.

He glared at her.

"Shut up," was his reply. "You hens talk too much."

WORRY HINDERS COX RECOVERY

So little has been said about the health of Father Cox since he left the hospital two months ago and so many inquiries have been made about it, he thought it necessary to tell his radio audience yesterday he is getting along as well as could be expected. However, it will be a long time before he will be a well man.

He also told his listeners if he had less worry about his finances and his debts his health would improve more quickly. He made another appeal for Sun-Telegraph subscriptions which was met with immediate and gratifying response.

Next Sunday there will be another movie show benefit for him at the Regal Theater, Wilkinsburg. Food only will be accepted as "tickets." The show will begin at 2 o'clock and run continuously until 11 p. m. A splendid program of talking pictures has been arranged for this affair.

For every subscription that comes in on the blank of this page or is telephoned in with the request Father Cox be given credit for it, brings to his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

INGREDIENTS—Two cups of cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup of butter, 1 cup of sugar, 2-3 cup of milk, ½ teaspoon of vanilla, whites of 3 eggs, stiffly beaten.

METHOD—Sift flour. Measure, then add baking powder and salt and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add flour, alternatly with milk, a small bit at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla, fold in white of egg. Bake in greased nine-inch layer pans in moderate oven, 375 degrees (F.) for 25 to 30 minutes. Put layer together and cover top and side of cake with caramel frosting. Sprinkle chopped nuts on top and sides of cake.

INGREDIENTS FOR FROSTING—Three cups of brown sugar, 1 cup water, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon of vanilla and cream.

METHOD—Boil sugar and water until syrup forms a soft ball in cold water. Bake in oven 238 degrees (F.), add butter and vanilla and remove from fire. When cold, beat until thick and creamy. Thin with cream until of right consistency to spread.

Dave Rubinoff 'Shows Up' Cantor

By AIRCASTER

Rubinoff—and his wyoleen—have just completed a five-year run at a Broadway theater, and Dave himself has had his spring haircut. That annual ceremony distresses him even more than Cantor's jibes o' Sunday nights.

Now Dave and his band are leaving New York for a tour, so I decided to find out for the customers just how Rubinoff reacts to Cantor salvos: whether he desires to answer Cantor, and how the two get along.

Says Dave:

"So you think I'll get mad at Cantor? You think I should try to get even. Hmm! If I would begin to rib this guy, you wouldn't have a column long enough to hold it. Really, I don't mind Cantor, because he only kids his friends—Ida, Jessel and me.

"It isn't true I don't get haircuts! It also isn't true I don't speak English fluently.

"To show up this Cantor take last Sunday's rehearsal. In comes Cantor—Jessel is always along, too. He has a nutty idea and wants three extra minutes, so I throw out 'Echo in the Valley.' Next he wants five more minutes for extra choruses in his campaign song, 'When I'm in Washington.' Out goes my solo. Pretty soon it's all Cantor, and yet he sings 'One Hour With You,' while I've got to play on this fiddle, "Give Me a Moment.' Phooey!

"The next day the fan mail comes in—50 letters saying 'Rubinoff, give Cantor more time'—except one which gives it all away. It says, 'Cantor told me to write and ask you to give him more time.'

"But really, I've got to like Cantor—especially when he's talking about me on the air, because lately it is the only time I get a mention."

* * *

Next Monday at 8 o'clock James Melton sings the new song, "Gypsy Romance," by Secretary of the Treasury Woodin . . . Dorothy Gish makes her aerial debut Sunday at 5:30 when she plays the lead in "The White Cabin," which begins a new series in "Pages of Romance" . . .

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Charles Prichard, counsel for Mayor Kline, gets a laugh every time he thinks of an experience he had while visiting the home of Carl Vilsack. It was about 10 days before the Mayor's trial in Butler and Mr. and Mrs. Prichard with other guests were chatting in front of the Vilsack radio, as if somebody had just turned the dial. The announcer came on with news flashes and Charles caught his name coming over the radio in connection with the trial.

He hushed everybody up and moved closer to the loudspeaker, only to be flabbergasted with a torrent of words concerning his own ability and remarks that his wife and other friends, who were named, would be interested spectators at the trial.

After that the announcer became abusive in his comment and Charlie, whose blood pressure was rapidly mounting, was storming about the slanderous outrage. Just when he was threatening dire consequences to the Globe Trotter, the announcer declared himself as Charles Hagan, artist friend, who was broadcasting from the cellar with one of those microphone attachments.

* * *

Been hearing from the globe trotters who want me to let up on the beer bill and its hazardous course through the Pennsylvania Legislature. One puts it this way:

"If you drink it like you talk it, you soon will be so saturated that you won't be able to say anything."

I'll go slow on it both ways.

* * *

The other day's broadcast concerning a soft-hearted burglar who welcomed arrest and sentence before he got himself hurt evoked this response from Avella about another conscience-stricken member of the guild:

James Torroli, on his way home, was held up as he passed the railroad station and forced to give up his shoes. James walked home in his bare feet. Next morning when he left the house he found his shoes returned and reposing on the front porch. (Name fictitious).

Vatican Fete Broadcast Tomorrow

Tomorrow brings two international broadcasts, one the Pope's special Holy Year message to America, to dialing Pittsburghers.

The actual opening of the doors of the basilica of St. Peter's ushering in the Holy Year decreed by His Holiness to "reconsecrate the entire world to a renewed faith," will take place at 4:30 a. m. Sunday, Pittsburgh time.

However, the Pontiff has prepared a special program, including the sacred chant and a message in Latin, translated from overseas by Father John O'Rourke, of New York, to be short-waved to the United States and rebroadcast over NBC-WCAE and CBS-WJAS at 1:30 tomorrow.

The second of the internationals brings a detailed account of the eighty-fifth meeting between Oxford and Cambridge oarsmen on the Thames to determine England's intercollegiate rowing championship over CBS-WJAS from 10:30 to 11 a. m.

MONARCH ELECTRIC CO.

"WHERE THE CAR STOPS AT 4TH"

OH, NO, WE ARE NOT!

Two-legged creatures? Not so much as we seem. If it weren't for the four-square support of heel, toe, heel, toe, we'd be like a man on stilts. Pretty shaky! The same applies to radio tubes. They, too, need four-square support to protect their vital elements.

IS YOUR RADIO working as you want it? If not, may we make a pretty safe diagnosis? It's the tubes! The delicate vital elements have become unbalanced — because they were not supported firmly enough to withstand jolts, jars, bumps, and the constant vibrations of the dynamic speaker. In the majority of cases, say radio experts, poor reception can be laid to defective tubes.

Following a fundamental principle of balance, Eveready Raytheons have four-pillar support. They are the only tubes on the market with delicate vital elements so firmly supported, because this feature is patented. All other tubes have only two supports.

Provide your radio with surer tone, longer life — with Eveready 4-pillar Tubes! They cost no more. An Eveready dealer will gladly demonstrate these superior tubes to you.

GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE

MEET AT WAR FRONT

I was born in New York. My father, who died when I was young, was a descendant of an old Dutch family. My mother was English. I made a poor academic showing at Harvard.

Commissioned a second lieutenant, I acquired a slight but disabling wound in the Argonne. My leg was never quite fit again for front-line service, but I should have hated to return home. By hook and crook I secured a very subordinate appointment at general headquarters.

It was there I met Major Hammond and later accepted his invitation to be his confidential secretary.

* * *

A fortnight had elapsed since the President's return when one morning Pendie Malloy came into my room bringing with her little Jim Vetter, Hammond's younger sister's child. Hammond was not on friendly terms with Mrs. Vetter, who was away in Europe, but he was devoted to her 3-year-old son.

Little Jim could gain admittance to his Uncle Jud at any time, even when he was wrestling with the preparation of a speech. Work was immediately put aside for a "trezzur game" — wild and hilarious hunt for hidden treasure, which involved a complicated and minute search under desks, chairs and other furniture, even under the carpet, to find the secreted booty.

Pendie, like myself, had been forbidden the Presidential presence, but whereas I had accepted the situation, she had not.

She looked extremely attractive that morning. Excitement had brought an unwonted color to her cheeks, but there was a look of steel in her eyes, and her strong little jaw was taut and rigid with determination. She had keyed herself up, and it was hardly necessary for her to explain why she had brought Jim along or to assert that orders or no orders she and Jim were going to see "Uncle Jud."

NEPHEW FLEES IN TEARS

Five minutes after Pendie and Jim had started up the steps to the President's bedroom, a white-faced and shaken Connelly was shown into my room, carrying a dishevelled and sobbing Jim. Connelly did not appear to know very much of what had happened, but I gathered that Jim had been badly frightened by his uncle's changed appearance and had become hysterical. The boy refused to be comforted and all my attempts to discover what was the matter with him failed in eliciting more than a sobbing:

"That isn't my Uncle Jud!"

Connelly, who had visibly aged during the last fortnight, gazed after the departing child with a curious intentness.

"The same as Husky," he muttered.

My nerves would stand no more. I turned to him and said sharply:

"What the devil do you mean?"

By sheer bullying I extracted a confused and reluctant account of an episode which had taken place some days earlier.

Knowing the President's attachment to his Alsatian, "Husky," Connelly, thinking to give his master pleasure, had brought the dog to his bedroom. At the door Husky turned and tried to bolt, and it was only by main force that Connelly was able to drag him into the President's room.

PENDIE BRAVES WRATH

This story together with Jim's behavior increased my anxiety for Pendie, who apparently had penetrated the defenses by the simple process of sweeping Connelly aside when he answered her knock on the dressing room door.

I sent Connelly back to resume his duties as guardian of the now violated sanctuary.

The clock showed that Pendie had been closeted with the President for over half an hour.

Pendola Malloy was the only child of the union of a Polish-Russian mother, a vigorous and dominating personality, and a rather happy-go-lucky Irishman. She was a bright child, of slightly Slavonic appearance. Her black hair, and healthy but ivory-white skin, together with the china blue of her eyes—those same Irish eyes which had made her hard-working Polack mother succumb to the blandishments of Desmond Malloy—made her singularly beautiful in girlhood.

Her mother had contrived from the meager profits of her boarding house in Detroit, supplemented by the even more slender earnings of her husband, to send the girl to college.

VICTIM OF JEALOUSY

A college friend, daughter of one of the tellers in the main New York office of the United National Banking Corporation, had managed to get Pendie a post as stenographer. Energetic and ambitious, she continued to study finance and banking in her spare time, but it was probably her good looks which after a year's service resulted in her becoming private secretary to George Van Rassaeler, United National's president.

It was he who got Miss Malloy a much better position with his old friend Senator Hammond.

Within a few days Billy Winthrop and I were aware that a new star had arisen in the Hammond firmament, and we accepted Pendie as one of the Hammond circle. Before long we recognized that she was also the ringmaster.

Her appearance, coupled with her natural charm and dignity, paved a way for her complete domination both of Hammond himself and of his staff, but it was not entirely charm and graciousness which compelled our respect. She had a first-class brain, cool and analytical and entirely fearless in criticism.

It was almost entirely her influence that ultimately made him accept the nomination for President.

HIS MISTRESS?

Hammond's opponents, and perhaps many others, believed Pendie to be his mistress, but this was not the case. She took no steps either to refute or to confirm the stories of her relationship with Hammond, and she had no private life apart from him.

When Hammond moved into the White House as President, he turned his Sixteenth street house over to Pendie and me. For him it was nothing more than a generous fatherly gesture, regardless of how Washington gossips misconstrued it.

Hammond had two sisters. The elder had married Henry Larabee, and for the past 10 years had lived in Europe. The younger—Jim's mother cut herself off from society and took a charming old house below Alexandria on the Potomac, and lived there with Jim, her garden, and her occasional visits abroad as her only distractions. It was Miss Malloy who eventually succeeded in establishing a partial truce, which permitted Hammond to see his nephew as often as was possible.

Was Pendie Malloy in love with Hammond?

It is possible she was, but if so, her affections were more maternal than passionate. She realized all his weaknesses. She scorned his flamboyant style of oratory, and sometimes was openly contemptuous in her references to his many vanities.

She had no illusions about him whatever.

Was Hammond in love with Pendie?

Probably he was. But again for a man whose sex life was not exactly monastic, his fondness for her was based on something deeper and more permanent than sex attraction.

* * *

I glanced at the clock. Over an hour had passed. The cigaret tray on my desk overflowed with stubs and ashes. My hands were clammy with anxiety. My nerves seemed rather near the breaking point when I heard Pendie's footfall on the stair.

GIVE YOUR STOMACH ONE HOUR'S HELP

That "lump" you feel an hour or so after eating, is a symptom of slow stomach. This very common condition can be remedied.

Instead of taking soda, or anything else you must take the rest of your life, try some diapepsin. Each tablet saves half an hour's digestion time. If your stomach is one hour slow in emptying, just take two tablets of diapepsin and all that gas, sourness, and distress after meals will be gone.

One box of Pape's Diapepsin will test your stomach and correct your digestion time. Then eat anything you like, and it will digest like crackers and milk! Keep on with diapepsin a few days, until the stomach is doing its work without need of help. When it slows down, take diapepsin again; it's good for the digestive system and can't hurt you.

Pape's Diapepsin may end all your "stomach trouble" and is certainly worth trying!

JOBLESS TRADE LABOR FOR COMFORTS

"Credits" are as good as money for members of the Guyasuta Bartercraft Association, composed of Sharpsburg and Etna unemployed. They intend to exchange their work and skill co-operatively.

The "credits" paid workers will purchase food, clothing, simple furniture, cordwood, and other Bartercraft products at the association's store, 707 Main street, Sharpsburg.

BACKED BY CLUB

According to Edgar E. Brosius, president, the new barter movement is non-political, non-sectarian and non-racial and has worked successfully in Salt Lake City, Denver, Dayton and many other cities.

In the Sharpsburg district, the movement is sponsored by the Sharpsburg-Etna and Aspinwall Rotary Clubs, which have formed a barter committee to work with the association and render any assistance it can.

Under the direction of W. M. May, the association members are already at work cutting wood and soliciting work for members in exchange for goods or cash. Next week the soap making, clothes repairing and making, and furniture making groups will begin work.

The association's capital stock of food, about 1,200 cans, was acquired as the result of a benefit talking picture show at one of the Sharpsburg theaters last Sunday. Another show is scheduled for this Sunday, with canned goods required for admission.

Police Arrest 17 After Man's Hurt

A short time after Percy Blumer, 62, Negro, of 725 Wilkinsburg avenue, was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital suffering a probable fracture of the skull, East End police arrested 17 men at 6288 Broad street on suspicious person charges. Police said Blumer was injured in the place. Charles Ray, 30, held by police as the proprietor, denied there had been trouble.

Collegians Fresh With Chorines, Lupe Charges

LUPE VELEZ

Broadway Too Tough For Student Actor, Film Star Says

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 31.—(Universal.)—"College men are always too fresh with chorus girls," Lupe Velez, movie star, was today quoted as saying in the Yale Daily News.

The comment was made in answer to a question as to what she thought of a college actor's chances of success on the Broadway stage. She said:

"I doubt if he would be willing to face the disappointments which would surely come at first. Every actor, when he starts a stage career, has to take minor parts to gain experience, and a college man who has had leads in amateur plays would have to swallow a lot of pride to stick to the Broadway stage.

"College men are good looking, usually, and might be all right in the end, since they have natural self-assurance that is invaluable for theatrical work. The main trouble with them is the chorus girl."

SEE HOME LOAN BANK SYSTEM SUCCESSFUL

Today's report by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board that reduction in real estate foreclosures "are particularly noticeable in districts where there are a greater number of home financing institutions belonging to the Federal Home Loan Banks system" was applauded by Pittsburgh pioneers of the system.

William E. Best, former president of the National Building and Loan League and one of the five Home Loan Bank board members appointed by President Hoover, pointed to the report as nullifying the proposed creation of a central mortgage system.

Attacking a proposal by Robert S. O'Dell, director of the Los Angeles Home Loan Bank, to "either abolish the system or effect drastic liberalization," Best declared:

"O'Dell's central mortgage system would put the government directly into the mortgage business: would take all mortgage lending organizations such as building and loans out of the business and would set up a gigantic political machine in their place."

Since the opening of the Home Loan Bank system last October, according to an International News Service dispatch from Washington, monthly figures show a reduction of foreclosures in all but one of the five months.

However, the bank board's report pointed out that foreclosures in 1932 were 274.9 per cent higher than in 1926.

Hole Torn in Wall To Save Trapped Boy

CHICAGO, March 31.—(AP.)—Nine-year-old Robert Evans shouldn't have wriggled himself through a narrow passage between two buildings, because he was caught fast, and firemen had to work for an hour getting him out. They finally solved the problem by tearing a hole in the side of one of the structures.

Don't take calomel!

HERE'S NEW HEALTH FOR YOUR LIVER

Now banish bad breath, pimples, constipation; feel like a million!

That tired, frowsy feeling in the morning, that "dark-brown" taste in the mouth—if you would banish them and win back buoyant health, don't expect relief from salts, mineral oil or candy and chewing gum laxatives.

For such remedies only move the bowels. While chances are, you're one of the thousands suffering from sluggish liver, which does not yield sufficient bile — causing pimples, blemishes, headaches, bad breath and a general run-down feeling.

What you need is something which acts thoroughly but harmlessly upon the liver. And in Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets you will find that "something," which stimulates the bile flow.

A successful substitute for calomel, these famous tablets are compounded of pure vegetable ingredients, and have been praised for years by millions.

To get and keep the bile flowing freely—correcting constipation, skin troubles, and win back that "fine-and-dandy" feeling of youth—go to your druggist for Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets today. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Man Beaten, Two Held, on North Side

Two men were held in North Side Police Station today in connection with an attack on George Banos, 39, of 609 Marshall avenue, in front of his home last night. Suffering cuts and bruises, Banos was taken to Allegheny General Hospital.

The suspects gave their names as Peter Kosonovich, 21, of Weirton, W. Va., and Nick Milanovich, 22, of 2526 Sarah street.

Three Boys Examine Revolver, One Shot

John Stull, 17, of 8523 Franks-town road, Penn Township, was in Columbia Hospital today with a bullet wound in the chest accidentally inflicted while he and two companions were examining a revolver at Stull's home last night, according to police.

Changes Planned In Polar Airplane

LOS ANGELES, March 31.—(AP.)—The all-metal low-wing monoplane to be used in the Lincoln Ellsworth trans-Antarctic expedition was brought to Los Angeles yesterday from Teterboro, N. J., by its pilot, Bernt Balchen, who will have several changes made on the craft in preparation for the south polar sky exploration.

Balchen plans to sail for Norway April 12 and leave there for Little America about August 1.

Accused of Refusing To Return Purse

For his alleged refusal to return a purse containing $10.35 which had been dropped by a woman last night, Louis Limberis, 33, of 588 East Ohio street, was to be arraigned in the North Side Police Court today.

Limberis picked up the purse at East Ohio and Federal streets after it had been dropped by Mary Flowers, of 223 Voeghtly street, police said.

Post Starts East, Silent as 'Robot'

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 31.—(AP.)—Wiley Post, co-holder of the globe-girdling flight record, left yesterday for New York City, as silent as his "robot pilot" concerning his plans for another world flight he is expected to make alone.

He was accompanied by Bert Carlson, designer of the "robot," an arrangement of instruments which Post said "can fly better than I can."

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Amazing how the pirates in all fields thrive . . . When I was breaking in my hoofing boots too many years ago—I used to groan for the other fellows—when I saw their best stuff boldly thefted by pale carbon copyists, who managed to get work, anyway . . . The only cure for it, it seems, is to slap the thief down when you encounter him. But even that hasn't stopped the more desperate-for-a-living robbers . . . I've watched talented men and women, in show business particularly, suffer the pangs of having their stuff taken from them by no-goods—and then when the originals followed the echoes into some town—the local critics spanked the originals for "stealing" from the duplicates, who accidentally played the town first . . . The most obnoxious of the current lifters is a restaurateur in Hollywood, who has appropriated the good name of a Broadway host, who hasn't done a thing about it!

The counterfeiters are passing a mess of spurious money in the Broadway spots . . . Mainly Federal Reserve Tens and Twenties—and pretty good copies, at that . . . I go for the ditties that Mack Gordon and partner Revel write . . . Gordon, who prepares the wordage, never writes a lyric in which sweethearts are parted, estranged or bitter . . "Why not write those torchy songs—about being so sorry, dear?" I asked Gordon . . . "I don't like to," he replied. "I like to keep the lovers together" . . . As a result, and because, of course, they are swingy melodies and contagious lyrics, their songs are popular . . . Their newest is "An Orchid to You"—plenty nice, too . . . The Cotton Club, with Duke Ellington back at the baton, is the ace of the Harlem rendezvous . . . The Nicholas Brothers, who dance there, are the most exciting of the juniors in town . . . The tiny one has the most amazing stage presence, poise and style I ever did see . . . What a cute kid! . . . He hoofs better than Bill Robinson, so you can imagine . . . And when he goes to town and canaries a la Calloway—you get the same kick out of him as you would from Cab's crying in the higher tones . . . Plenty of foodle-dee-doo, too.

I thought I'd break another vocal cord from laughing when I came to the following morning, and they told me that S. Jay Kaufman and a few Friars were "shocked" at my speech at Ben's dinner . . . I always suspected that the Lambs and the other theatrical clubs were made of lads who had daily manicures and used oil on their hair—but I felt that the Friars were the gayer guys and the less snooty . . . I still think they are, in spite of the S. Jay Kaufmans among them . . . The Friars were the ones who let me sit among them a few years ago—when the raps were coming in bunches—so Here's to the Friars!—as their lovely song goes . . . Albie Booth, the personable star from Yale, didn't put on airs when he got up to make his talk . . . And they loved him for it . . . Bobby Clark, who can handle smoking car fables better than anyone, had them rocking—as did Jack Benny, the most nimble of the kidders . . . And, because it was a relief to be among men, instead of counterfeits for a change—I delivered a quip or two that I wouldn't relate before a woman . . . In fewer words—I was myself—and for once I wasn't doing "an act" . . . It was a relief, at that . . . But fussy Mr. Kaufman got very indignant, it appears . . . And, with a few others, thought I shouldn't have fed my quivery nerves with some tasty giggle-soup, nor should I have used "such langwidge" . . . Well, all right . . . I'm sorry I offended some of them with my vulgarity . . . But since when haven't I been a vulgar fellow? . . . When I'm among the sissies—I put on my best manners and pay my respects to them, but when I'm among the Friars (which is always star)—I want to have fun . . . Oh phooey! . . . Things to worry about . . . How unimportant it all seems—with so much going on in the world . . . And to quote my favorite poke again—which I almost delivered from the dais that night, but didn't—"Broadway is where they never give you a dinner—until you can afford one!"

The town knows well that I'm no professional patriot—but I got a kick out of seeing the story break in the gazettes on Tuesday . . . When Senator Baxter, the Republican, offered a resolution aimed at the sale in this country of American flags made in other countries . . . The Senator offered as "Exhibit A" a tiny American flag (in a bow with a gold-dipped pin for the lapel) . . . Senator Baxter must have read the same squawk here not many columns ago . . . When we wondered why, with so many unemployed we had to buy our America flag emblems from Japan!!!

Miss West Won't Be Tamed

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 31.—Motion pictures are not going to tame Mae West any more than she can help.

So declared Hollywood's newest sensation, who lounged into Paramount yesterday wearing a big coat of summer ermine (that canary shade of the very early pelt), and carrying a brown bag with golden clasps outlining her initials.

"Five years ago, I don't know how it would have been," says Mae, "but now I think the public is educated up to my stuff. Maybe I won't be able to get away with some of the hot love scenes I used to give them on the stage—no more than I was in 'She Done Him Wrong,' when they kept the men three feet away from me.

"But I'll have a lot of good comedy lines and I guess I'll be able to work in a few of my tricks."

Miss West

She wanted to do "Sex," her banned play, as her second film, but the Hays office wouldn't okay it. Now she'll make a circus story in which she plays a lion tamer. If Paramount can clear the title, it will be called "The Beauty and the Beast."

And, as for Hollywood, Mae thinks it is so swell that she has signed a four-year contract with Paramount.

* * *

"Oh, I tried to get you earlier today. Marlene Dietrich was thrown from her horse!"

"Why didn't you go and pick her up yourself," said Hub, as he folded into an easy chair.

First Hollywood beer party will be given by Buddy Rogers. It starts at 12:01 a. m., April 7, in a cafe opposite a Los Angeles brewery. Buddy has rented the place for the evening and will trundle kegs of the foamy liquid across the street.

For several days, Joan Crawford has ben playing nursemaid to three babies. When her chauffeur's wife took ill, Joan sent her to the hospital, turned the guest-room into a nursery, bought a bunch of toys and moved the children in. The oldest is four and one-half years old, the youngest three months. Joan has a nurse to watch them at night, but cares for them herself in the daytime. Meanwhile, she is having her house repainted, in and out, and is getting Bill Haines to do the furniture over. It was in white leather. Now it will be blue velvet. Apparently, she has decided not to sell the house, as she once considered.

Miss Crawford

Heirs are expected in the Richard Arlen and Bing Crosby homes on about the same day. As both Jobyna and Dixie Lee have the same doctor, they hope there'll be no conflict . . . And for the benefit of the fans who are inquiring, Bing Crosby gets in Sunday afternoon . . . Muriel Kirklane and Bary Norton will be in Columbia's "Cocktail Hour" . . . Remember Gareth Hughes, who did "Sentimental Tommie?" He's back in Hollywood, and perhaps will do some film work.

Bernard Shaw On Screen

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Bubbling over with quips, George Bernard Shaw, playwright and author, is seen and heard in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News as he arrives in San Francisco, on his first visit to the United States. He is seen again at the San Francisco airport ready to fly in a San Francisco Examiner airplane to be the guest of William Randolph Hearst at the latter's ranch in San Simeon. After George Hearst, son of the publisher, enters the plane with Mrs. Shaw, the famous writer pauses long enough to give a humorous farewell.

Vivid pictures are presented of the worst earthquake to visit Japan since 1923. Entire villages are shown completely wrecked by the tremlor and by the fire which followed. The Globe Trotter gives a graphic description of the calamity.

Babe Ruth is seen and heard as he signs his contract to play baseball with the Yankees during the coming season.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald is shown at the disarmament conference in Geneva demanding a sweeping reduction by the nations, of all land, air and naval forces.

Babe Ruth to Appear In Film Specialty

Babe Ruth will be seen in action in one of the numerous specialties in "International House." Rudy Vallee, Cab Calloway and his orchestra, Baby Rose Marie, Col. Stoopnagle and Budd and the Girls in Cellophane furnish other entertainment. The acting cast is headed by Peggy Hopkins Joyce, W. C. Fields, Stuart Erwin, Sari Maritza, Lona Andre, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Joyce Murray, one-time featured player who is included in the chorus of 24 dancing girls, and Sterling Holloway, who replaces "Fuzzy" Knight so that the latter can go into "Sunset Pass."

Slam

Loretta Young is featured with Paul Lukas in "Grand Slam," Davis and Sheridan Square film, beginning today.

Birth of New Nation

Karen Morley appears as confidential secretary to Walter Huston, who is president in "Gabriel Over the White House," Penn photoplay symbolizing the birth of a new nation.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Salem Tutt Whitney, who plays Noah in "The Green Pastures," which will begin a second week in the Nixon next Monday, is a son of a preacher and was a preacher himself—for a period of just one sermon. Then he joined the Tennessee Warblers, as a singer, and he has been in the entertainment line ever since. He has appeared with tent shows, medicine shows and touring concert companies. For five years he headed his own band of troupers, The Famous Troubadours, which played halls and churches of small towns in the South. When it went bust he joined a lecturer, whose subject was "My Trip Around the World." He learned the talk by heart and then left to deliver it himself, though he never has been outside of the U. S. A. The blow-off came one night when his old boss turned up in the audience and began to ask him questions. He also is a crayon portrait artist and writer of sketches and ballads. The solitary sermon mentioned above was delivered in Titusville in the absence of the regular pastor, who promised him the collection. He says it amounted to $1.83, and that the deacons held out on him.

Jeanette MacDonald, who has been a sensation in the music halls of Paris, Brussels and Amsterdam, will either continue her tour after completing "The Queen," to be made in England for United Artists, or sign with M-G-M for a new version of "The Merry Widow."

Another art exhibition will be held in the foyer of the Warner, begininng today. This will be a showing of water colors by Esther Phillips, 5531 Jackson street, who at various times has exhibited in the Carnegie Art Gallery.

Plan of Hays Alarms

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

HOLLYWOOD, March 31.—Will H. Hays will have to explain to the motion picture artists in the film colony what he means by the third clause in his "five finger plan."

This clause states: "For economies in the production of motion picture entertainment made possible by reduced cost of business administration and an increased flow of trained talent to the studios, which would bring the standard of salaries paid to the artistic personnel within the means of the industry to support."

Actors read it and decided it was very potent and meant that it was Mr. Hays' idea to import actors and writers to compete with the recognized Hollywood talent.

Such a move would come at an exceedingly bad time, following the promises made by the producers that there would be no additional cuts after the expiration of eight weeks and the 50 per cent slash in salary.

Without waiting for Mr. Hays to elucidate and explain the exceedingly dangerous clause, Mr. Mayer, speaking for himself and Nicholas Schenck, said:

"We expect to restore salaries as they were prior to March 6, on, and if possible before, the end of eight weeks' period if business conditions permit."

Jack Warner said his company would not import outside talent in an effort to reduce the wage of his artistic personnel. He stated that he would stand with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in restoring salaries as soon as conditions permitted.

"Christopher Strong" is the photoplay opening today in the Warner with Katharine Hepburn, Colin Clive and Billie Burke playing the leading parts. Miss Hepburn plays the part of an aviatrix who falls in love with a married man.

Comedy Film In Fulton

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Ernest Truex, little stage comedian, who has so often proven that good goods do come in small packages, demonstrates in "Whistling in the Dark," that for him at least the screen offers no particular barrier to success for a footlights star. The picture, a mystery comedy drama in the Fulton, is an elaboration of the stage play of the same title in which Truex also starred. He treats the customers to many laughs, in which he is ably abetted by Una Merkle, whose drawl is funny as her manner.

In elaborating the comedy for the screen there has been incorporated a sex angle that was not in the original play, and which adds nothing to it.

The role of Truex is that of a writer of crime stories. Eloping with Miss Merkle his car stalls and he goes to a nearby house to telephone for a taxi. It happens to be the quarters of a gang of racketeers. So they just keep him there—and Miss Merkle, too—his release to be the reward for devising a perfect undetectable murder whereby the racket boss can dispose of an enemy. So all he has to do is to fool the gang and work out his own release, this providing plenty of comedy and some drama.

Edward Arnold makes a perfect racketeer chief and Johnny Hines, former film comedy star, has a good supporting role. So does Nat Pendleton as a dumb member of the criminals.

Competition for Girl Makes Boy More Appreciative

He "takes it for granted that she's his girl"—and for four years now, he's been toasting his shins regularly by Hilda's hearth.

But does he ever suggest investing in a hearth of his own?

Does he ever mention that he should seal his option on Hilda with an old-fashioned wedding ring?

No indeedy!

Dear Elsie:

I guess maybe when you read this letter you'll think I'm crazy, or something. Maybe I am. But here's the problem, anyway. I hope you can help me with it.

It's about Joe. He's my "steady" Boy Friend; and I'll say this much for him—he is steady, and no mistake. He has no bad habits, and he works hard. But—here's the rub.

When I met him we seemed to take to each other, and we began going out together. I had lots of friends and seldom lacked a date, but I liked him better than the other fellows I knew, so I got in the habit of going around with him, although nothing was said. We had no "understanding" or anything, about going steady.

Well, for four years now I've been seeing him on the average of three nights a week, and usually on Sundays, and he has never said a word about being engaged. He just seems to take it for granted that I'm "his girl," and, the way it looks, he thinks he can go on sitting around our flat, or taking me to shows and things, for the rest of his life—without "getting serious."

DOESN'T UNDERSTAND HIM

I know this isn't because he doesn't think a lot of me. He never takes any other girl out. I know it isn't because of financial difficulties. He has a good job, and doesn't spend his money on foolishness.

I just don't get him. He seems to be perfectly satisfied to go on this way—but I am not! I am beginning to wonder where we are supposed to go from here; and I'd like to know what to do to wake him up.

I really love him and admire him, and I don't want to break up with him.

What on earth is the matter with him, anyway? How can he just go on like this, getting nowhere? I have kept going with him because I kept thinking he would ask me to marry him, but I'm beginning to think I'm badly fooled on that. I just can't make him out.

Can you help me? Please, what shall I do? HILDA.

NO COMPETITION

What ails him?

I suspect it's too much comfort—and no competition, Sissy. After all, why should he go in for the responsibility of supporting his own fireside, when he can enjoy yours with no effort—also, no rivals to make him suspect that he may lose his welcome there?

Marriage is, after all, an acquired instinct with men. They aren't going to rush into it when they can sit pretty without any of its responsibilities. Don't blame him, Hilda. Blame your own drifting—your own casual falling in with his ideas. And use your head.

How? That's simple. Hand him a few worries. Be busy, or out, a few times when he calls. Get in the habit of living apart from him, again. Go places. See other people. And if he says anything, make him realize that he isn't the whole show, unless he chooses to make himself so.

Give him a run for his place in your life. So far, you've just handed him that place on a platter. Now, make him work for it.

I'll gamble that'll make him Talk Turkey!

And if he doesn't? Be glad you've found it out—then forget him. And next time, don't drift.

Business Girls' Homes in Best of Taste, Fay King Ascertains

By FAY KING

Most modern women heartily resent being told that woman's place is in her home. But I have yet to meet the woman—even the most modern—whose heart was not there!

The cosiest little nests of homes I have ever been in have been the little one-room and kitchenette homes of bright young business girls I know. At noon when you lunch among the young women whose pretty heads are filled with the important data of their business office, what do you hear? Lamp shades and rugs, sofa cushions and drapes being discussed.

Whether she successfully sells fire engines or builds bridges, eventually woman will always have her eye on tea sets, book-ends and candle sticks. For her home is the perfect frame for her charm!

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

Nettie Tells of Her Suspicions

Nobody spoke for an instant after "Nettie" had given us her startling information concerning the horse and rider she heard upon the mountain side, adding the comment that the "horse was the lightest stepper, just as though he had slippers on."

Harry Underwood broke the perplexed silence first.

"Muffled hoofs, by all that's holy!" he murmured.

"That is the explanation, no doubt," my father said, and Philip Veritzen added a characteristic comment.

"If that were a situation in a play, it would be laughed at as unreal," he said, and I realized again that never did this greatest dramatic producer of his time look at anything of life without appraisement of its dramatic value.

Hugh's voice, incisive even its low murmur, addressed "Nettie" directly.

"You say the horseman was coming down the mountain path toward you. Did he continue down to the point where you left this trail? Is he on his way up here now, or did he turn off?"

"I was just fixing to tell you that," Nettie said with acerbity, and I smiled in the darkness at the discomfited irritation which I guessed Hugh was feeling. But I surmised also, with a little feeling of malicious glee, that all men looked alike to "Nettie." She cared nothing for their dignity or their wishes. When she was ready to tell her story she would speak, and not before. And she would tell it in her own way.

DRAMATIC SUSPENSE

"That horse stepped so light," "Nettie" went on after an interval, "that he was almost on top of me before I knew it. I was afraid the man on him would hear me getting out of the way, but luck was with me. There wasn't much underbrush there, and I didn't make any noise getting off the path. Then, just as soon as he'd gone by, I started down after him, as softlike as I could go.

"I thought somebody ought to track him and see what he was up to," she went on. "I know, from what Mis' Barnes told me, that anybody around these parts tonight that didn't belong to you folks needed looking after; so I kept right after him."

She paused, evidently with an intuitive sense of the dramatic suspense she was creating, and I knew that more hands than mine were itching to shake her complacent self into action. But the Netties of this world have all the cards in their hands, where men are concerned. There is only one effective weapon against them, and that is the one that Harry Underwood describes as "beating a wife up every Saturday night, whether she needs it or not." Otherwise there is nothing to do save humor them, and no one of Nettie's auditors spoke when she paused, but simply waited patiently for her to resume her story.

"He got almost down to this road," she finally went on, "and I thought sure he was going to come right up this trail after you. I didn't know what to do for a second or two, then I thought, as he was going pretty slow, I could cut in front of him and run up here and tell you about him, before he had a chance to get up here."

IMPORTANT NEWS

My respect for "Nettie" rose decidedly. She is not a young woman, and to beat even a slowly traveling horse up the trail meant an effort that no woman of her age should be called upon to make.

"But as it turned out, I didn't have to," she went on, with a slow deliberation of speech that was maddening. Just before he struck this road, there's a fork that leads the other side of a little lake a piece beyond here, and he turned up that way. Then I beat it down here."

"The other side of a little lake." I repeated the words to myself with quickly mounting excitement. That must mean the bit of water that Marion had described in the code letter she sent to her mother. That the same thought had struck the others I knew when Hugh spoke quickly, incisively.

"Thank you so much," he told Nettie. "You have helped us a great deal. Wynne!"

We'll just have to leave Brixton where he is. He'll have to take his chances. You take this lady and her husband back and have her show you where that trail forked. Then send them home, and you find out where that horse with the muffled feet went."

The Beauty Box -:-

Light, feathery bangs are gaining in popularity. They are flattering, make the feminine face more human than when it exposes a wide, naked forehead. Brow fringes are laid in three marcel lines, curled at the end. Or they separate at the side and present a fascinating array of beau catchers. Others assuming Victorian quaintness, extend from ear to ear, doing the windblow act over the temples. There's no rule about length. You suits yerself.

Camphor ice is a pleasant application for chapped lips, though cold cream will serve if there's no other remedy at hand. Lip biting is a deplorable habit, keeps the cutaneous surface shredded. Musn't do. Very bad.

Contract Bridge -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Stealing the Hand

A contract player is apt to wax more enthusiastic about the winning plays he makes, when alert opposition could have defeated him, than he does about his most exact exhibition of correct bidding and precise play.

In the recent eastern championship tournament, held in New York City, Mr. Edward A. Moree played a hand that, through stealing the game from his opponent, probably gave him a greater kick than any other in his experience. The hand unquestionably was overbid by his partner, but the ingenious method in which the overbidding was redeemed by deceptive psychology was well worth while.

East, Dealer.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠ (1)	Pass	2 N T	Pass
3 N T (2)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—The barest kind of an Opening bid, but in events of this kind it is frequently dangerous to pass even on such holdings.

2—Of course, the hand does not contain a Rebid. It not only has only 2½ honor-tricks, but is of the worst possible distribution.

The Opening lead was the club King, which was won with the Ace in Dummy and a heart at once returned. The Queen was played and overtaken by North's King. North, encouraged by his partner's play of the 7 of clubs to the first trick, led another round of clubs and found that the 7 was not an encouragment card when his partner now discarded the 7 of spades. Obeying what he thought was his partner's wish, he shifted to spades, and Mr. Moree played small from the Dummy and won the trick with the Ace. He then led the third round of clubs, North hesitated, but finally decided that he might as well win it to lead his last spade through Dummy's tenace. The King went up, and now Mr. Moree proceeded to cash 3 more club tricks and 3 diamond tricks, which gave him his contract of three notrump. It was a case where the game could not have been won with the cards as held. The only possibility of success lay in giving the opponents a chance to make a mistake, and this they did.

Today's Question

North bid and rebid hearts. On the third round, North bid four diamonds over opponent's three-spade call. With no intervening call, South called four hearts. Holding the following hand, was the call correct?

♠ 9 6 5 3 2 ♡ 9 7 ◇ Q ♣ Q 10 8 5 4

Answer—Yes. North, by his bidding, has shown the heart suit to be much the stronger, and South, holding two hearts and but one diamond, must make the preference bid.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Engagement Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a problem that is bothering me . . . it is a problem of announcing my engagement.

I have a very dear girl friend who wants to have a party at a local tearoom and announce my engagement in that manner. Inasmuch as my parents are both living, I am wondering if it would be more fitting for them to have the party and announce it in that way?

My friend is so anxious to entertain for me that I rather feel she might feel hurt if I mention any other form. G.

All of the fine reactions that you apparently have about this are the right ones. Since your parents are living, it would be so much more courteous to them, so much more thoughtful, if you give them the privilege of having the party to announce their daughter's engagement. If they want to do this . . . and apparently they do . . . it would seem to disregard them and their feelings if you allow an outsider to give this important party.

It would be a very simple matter to explain this to your friend, and of course she will understand. She can just as well carry out her wish to entertain for you as soon as she wishes after your parents' announcement party.

Silver Arrangement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Kindly inform me if the arrangement of flat silver has changed. A dear friend of mine tells me that the latest is to places the piece used first next to the plate. In other words, to work from the plate out.

If I am wrong, please correct me. CONSTANT READER.

You aren't wrong . . . you are thoroughly right about this. It is the definite rule that the silver is placed so that the person eating can start with the silverpiece farthest from the plate and proceed toward the plate.

OTHERS SUFFER FOR BRUINS' TACTICS

IF THE CUBS find themselves training alone on the Pacific Coast next spring, a strong possibility, as recently published here, they will have none but themselves to blame for it.

William Veeck

Since the Giants left California recently they have not attempted to conceal the fact that they share the dissatisfaction of the Pirates with conditions out there, and the Wrigley baseball interests are being held responsible. It is charged that William Veeck and Oscar Reichow, heads of the Cubs and Angels, have failed to cooperate with major league outfits training on the coast and on the contrary have made things very tough for them.

One source of trouble was the action of the Cub officials in sending an entire second team on the field for an exhibition game. The fans who paid to see a big league club resented being bunked, and thereafter refused to patronize the games of other major teams that were using their regular lineups. So the Pirates and Giants had to suffer for the Cubs' sins and a decision to quit the coast in consequence is thought to lack only formal announcement. The White Sox are pretty certain to follow, leaving the Wrigley people to train alone nn 1934 and fight it out with the fans they have antagonized.

THE PIRATES HAVE impressed coast critics even in defeat. Mark Kelly writes of them in William Randolph Hearst's Los Angeles Examiner: "This Pirate club looks to be headed places. Talk about speed. Seven of the regulars can do it in nothing flat.

"The Pirates seem to feel that their only problem is pitching; that, given any kind of good, consistent mound performances, the gonfalon will be in Pittsburgh's bag along about mid-September. In Vaughan, the Bucs have a 21-year-old kid that is destined to burn up the league. He is one left-hand hitter who can murder southpaws.

"THE NEW PITTSBURGH president had a grand idea when he brought Honus Wagner back into the fold," Kelly continues. "The grand old Dutchman will be a big card all over the circuit and more than pay his salary and keep. Pie Traynor, still the best of the third sackers, says that Wagner's presence on the club is a great tonic and a splendid touch.

"Of the Pirates and their pennant aspirations—well, if they only had one or two of the many hurlers the Cards boast, it would be a cinch. Maybe Remy Kremer will do a big comeback, and if he does, half the Gibson worries are ended."

ELMER YOTER, McKees Rocks citizen, who will manage the Wilkes-Barre club in the New York-Pennsylvania League this year, is going to give at least one local boy a chance in organized ball. He has signed Elmer Jackson, hard-hitting outfielder of the Edgewood club, and will give him a thorough trying out. Jackson is a right-hand hitter and thrower, stands 5 feet 10½ inches, weighs 165 pounds and is considered a fine prospect. The Wilkes-Barre club will not start spring practice until April 17, but Manager Yoter will leave here next Wednesday or Thursday to be on the ground early and complete the arrangements. Jackson will leave on April 15. Manager Yoter has several other members of the local semi-pro colony under consideration and may decide to take on one or two more for a looking over.

Jimmy Foxx

IF CONNIE MACK knows anything about baseball futures or batting possibilities, Jimmy Foxx is destined to beat Ruth's record of 60 home runs in a season, an undertaking at which he failed last year by only two.

Mack hasn't a doubt that Foxx will succeed eventually, if not this year then certainly in 1934. Connie asserts that his 25-year-old slugger didn't try for a homer record last season, but wanted to win the individual batting championship and didn't swing naturally through September, choking his bat and trying for singles instead.

FOXX'S SUPPORTERS FIGURE that he ought to be a better hitter this year, and that he will derive dividends from his store of experience. They think he will wait for the ball he wants to hit.

Jimmy has set 61 homers as his goal this year, and he also aims to make 200 hits and drive in 150 runs. The Mackian mauler says it makes no difference to him where he bats in the lineup, or who hits ahead of him or after him. "The fellow ahead or behind doesn't do my swinging," he remarks.

AFTER SEEING ALL the independent basketball teams of the district in action during the season, Johnny Freund picks the Irene Kaufmann Settlement five and the Charleroi Merchants as the best of the lot. "These two teams kept their lineups intact throughout the year and never did any importing for this or that game," he says. "Each had an excellent system of team play and used the pivot play with success. Much credit for the Charleroi team's showing is due to Step Stephanian, Charleroi High School coach and former Grove City star, while the success of I. K. S. may be attributed largely to Zig Kahn, the capable instructor. The Kaufmann quintet lost only to the Celtics, and the up-river boys were a close second in the comparative records."

TWO YEARS AGO today the country at large, particularly the football part of it, was shocked at the news that Knute K. Rockne, famous gridiron coach at Notre Dame and considered the greatest in the game, had been dashed to death in an airplane plunge on a Kansas farm.

The passing of two years has not lessened the loss that football suffered in the tragic ending of Rockne's career. Statements at the time that ranked him as having been the greatest figure in the sport were not exaggerations. Notre Dame has not been able to fill his place, and neither has football. There was only one Rockne.

THE PLAYOFFS IN the National Hockey League for the Stanley Cup have at least served to rout a jinx of long standing for the Toronto Maple Leafs, who are engaging the Boston Bruins in the series between first-place winners.

Dr. H. C. Carlson

When the Maple Leafs defeated the Bruins in the Hub in the second game of the string, it marked the first time in three years that they had won a contest on the Boston ice. And at that they had to play 15 minutes over-time to win a 1-to-0 score.

THE LAST ECHO of the college basketball season will come out of New York on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, when the Coaches' Association holds its annual meeting. There will be a comparison of notes as to how the new rules worked out in 1933, and perhaps some recommendations to the code committee. Before leaving to attend the session, Dr. H. C. Carlson, whose great record at Pitt has established him among the leading coaches of the country, is trying to clean up a lot of work in connection with the Blue and Gold schedule for next year. The hardest part of the job is finding room for even a small percentage of the teams that are seeking games with Pitt. The high standing and wide popularity of the Panthers in basketball is attested by the number of colleges that aspire to places on the schedule. Director Harrison and Coach Carlson have been swamped with requests for games, and find it impossible to accommodate all the applicants. The latest requests that could not be granted because of a lack of dates came from Syracuse University, Catholic University, Butler, Chicago Loyola and Western Teachers.

BREW DRINKING PERMITTED AT FIVE PARKS

Associated Press.

Thirsty baseball fans will find beer on sale in at least five major league baseball parks this season, reports to the Associated Press indicated today.

With the season opening April 12, five days after the new 3.2 beer becomes legal, the two Chicago clubs, White Sox and Cubs, and the three metropolitan New York teams, Giants, Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, have announced it will be available in their parks.

Five other clubs, however, will not permit beer to be sold, for a variety of reasons, while six have made no definite decision. Most of these latter are awaiting the necessary state legislation.

Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Washington and the Pittsburgh Pirates, will not permit beer to be sold in their parks. In connection with this announcement as it affects Cleveland and Cincinnati, it was pointed out that the prospective new state law will provide for consumption of beer only at tables.

The two Boston and two Philadelphia clubs have not reached any decision as yet. Neither have the two St. Louis clubs, although it was said the Browns would permit the sale of beer while the Cardinals would not. They use the same park.

HYATT'S TEAM WINS AGAIN

TULSA, Okla., March 31.—(AP.)—The Tulsa Diamond Oilers made a clean sweep of the two home games of the international series against the Winnipeg Toilers by easily defeating the Canadians here last night, 41 to 19. The Oilers, National A. A. U. champions, won, 32 to 13, over the Canadian amateur champions Wednesday night.

As in the first game, the Oilers found it an easy matter to run rings arund the Canadians and scored almost at will.

Charles (Chuck) Hyatt, Tulsa captain, former Pitt All-America star, went on a scoring spree and netted nine baskets during the 40 minutes of play.

The lineup:

Lang Postpones Schenley Opening

The Schenley Park golf course, scheduled for its formal opening tomorrow, is to remain closed for an indefinite period.

This was decided upon yesterday by Director of Public Works Lang, after he had made an inspection tour of the Schenley layout. The recent rains and snows and damp weather have left the fairways and greens in such condition that to permit play on them at this time would ruin them for the entire summer.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE VORACITY OF THE BLUEBIRD—Sir Malcolm Campbell's superhuman performance in flashing over the sands of Daytona Beach at the rate of 272.108 miles per hour, places the extraordinary voracity of the Bluebird in strong relief. Her greedy cylinders consumed a gallon of gasoline every quarter of a mile, every 3 1-2 seconds. In a 10 1-2 mile dash her engines boiled away twenty-eight gallons of water. The speed of this vehicle tremendously exceeded the speed of human thought. And her tires have a running life of only 3 minutes at record-breaking speed. FACING EAST—The earth's diurnal motion on its axis imparts to all objects on its surface a centrifugal tendency which modifies gravitation (weight). As the earth's curved path is in an eastern direction, an object traveling in the same direction will experience an acceleration of its own centrifugal force minimizing its weight. A person walking east is lighter than one walking in the opposite direction or standing still. A modern modification of the famous injunction would be today: Go West Young Man and Grow Heavier.

TOMORROW: THE EMPRESS' APRIL FOOL DAYS

GIANTS FLASH REAL PUNCH

GALVESTON, Tex., March 31.—(AP.)—Judging from the indications of the spring exhibition games, the New York Giants will pack a wicked punch into the National League campaign this year.

A check up on the performances so far shows that they have walloped 25 home runs in 22 games.

With a strong wind blowing in from center field, they could poke out only one extra base blow against Detroit yesterday but that was a double by Hank Leiber that drove in the winning run, 2-1.

N. L. Briefs

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(AP.)—The Phillies managed to nose out the Baltimore Orioles of the international League, 8 to 7, yesterday in the windup game of their spring training season. Jumbo Jim Elliott was tagged for four runs in the first and Ed Holley replaced him, to be followed by two more hurlers.

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP.)—Manager Donie Bush, of the Cincinnati Reds, announced today that Walter Miller, southpaw pitcher formerly with the Cleveland Indians, will be given a tryout with the Red squad. The Reds engaged in a three-hour practice drill yesterday.

BRADENTON, Fla.—(AP.)—The St. Louis Cardinals broke camp yesterday and started for Dublin, Ga., where they will start their barnstorming tour tomorrow. Pitchers and catchers have been here since March 7 and most of the others since March 12.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(AP.)—Where the Brooklyn Dodgers had trouble all last season trying to find one first baseman they now have two that are good enough to give Manager Max Carey some trouble trying to choose between them. Del Bissonette and Joe Judge both have been hitting well. Bissonette's injured leg, which kept him out all last year, has stood up under a couple of stiff tests.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP.)—The Boston Braves had a day off today on the eve of their departure from Waterfront Park on their trip home. Manager McKechnie says that every man wearing a Braves uniform will stay with the squad until the team reaches Boston. In all probability Gyselman or Wright will be let out for another year of minor league experience after the team reaches home despite the fact they loom up as the most promising brace of youngsters taken South by the Tribesmen in many years.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

By GIB MARSH

When the hour hand makes another circuit over the face of the clock, April will be with us to mark the opening of activities of those sportsmen who favor the pastimes of the outdoors. The trapshooters, fly and bait casters will begin practicing for the scheduled events. Of course, the rifle shooters will journey to their club ranges and indulge in some practice, although the ground will be too damp for a while to permit them to indulge in any shooting from prone positions.

The Fort Pitt Rifle Club, one of the oldest in the state, and its members, who have figured prominently in state and national tournaments during the past 20 years, have drafted a schedule for the season which will prove attractive to those marksmen who specialize in making "close groups" on the targets with well-directed bullets, and also will include events for those sportsmen who favor practice for big game hunting, such as moving targets for bear and deer.

There will be two active trapshooting clubs, the Wilkinsburg Gun Club and the South Hills Sportsmen's Association. Each of these organizations will hold weekly practice shoots during April for the shooters who plan to contest in the summer tournaments of the Western Pennsylvania Trapshooters' League, another old and prominent organization. Whether sportsmen are affiliated with either club makes no difference. They will be welcome to participate in the practices on week-end days.

Out on the fly and bait casting ranges of the Pittsburgh Casting Club, on Carnegie Lake in Highland Park, the anglers will begin practice for the summer tournaments, but the flycasters will indulge in practice for the purpose of being in shape for the opening of the trout season, April 15. It may be a trifle cold on the fingers of those who take part in the heavy bait casting when they are reeling in the lines after making casts; however, the flycasters will not suffer in that manner, for the enameled fly lines are not handled in the same way as the bait-tossing lines.

GOPHERS WIN SHOOT TITLE

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(INS.)—The University of Minnesota has been confirmed by the National Rifle Association as the 1933 national champion collegiate rifle team with the completion of the official scoring of all targets fired at the seven sectional meets held last Saturday to determine the national and sectional titles.

Minnesota's official score was 1,374 out of a possible 1,500 points.

The sectional champions and their scores follow:. Western Conference, University of Minnesota, 1,374; Middle Atlantic States, United States Naval Academy, 1,362; New England States, Massachusetts Tech, 1,339; Missouri Valley, University of Missouri, 1,327; Allegheny, University of West Virginia, 1,322; Eastern States, United States Military Academy, 1,316; Metropolitan, City College of New York, 1,314.

STORTI FROM TULSA

Storti, St. Louis Brown infielder and one of the few good turn-around hitters, got his baseball start on Tulsa sandlots. His first position was second base, although the Browns have been using him at third.

GEHRIG SLAMS FIRST HOMER

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 31.—(AP.)—It's seldom a major league pitcher has to be lifted from an exhibition game, but it has happened now to George Pipgras, of the New York Yankees.

George started for the Yankees against Birmingham yesterday, fully expecting to go seven innings. Instead he had to be relieved in the fourth inning after he had given six hits, walked six men and hit two batsmen.

Lou Gehrig hit his first home run of the year, however, and the Yankees opened their homeward tour by defeating the Barons, 9 to 5. Gehrig's blast came in the first inning with Walker and Sewell on base.

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP.)—For the first time this spring training season, all hands are up, lively and well in the White Sox camp. Mule Haas, the last of the casualties, joined the team in action against San Francisco yesterday, but the White Sox lost the decision, 7 to 2.

NEW ORLEANS—(AP.)—The Cleveland Indians shut out the New Orleans Pelicans in an exhibition game yesterday, 7 to 0, Pitchers Wesley Ferrell and Mel Harder allowing only five hits.

ATLANTA — (AP.) — The Washington Senators took another beating yesterday, this time from the Atlanta club, 4 to 3. Atlanta cinched its game by getting two runs in the ninth off Bill McAfee, the winning rally being started with a triple by Fred Singlon, hero of the game.

FORT MYERS, Fla. — (AP.) — Bob Johnson and Louis Finney, two of Connie Mack's prized rookie outfielders brought up from Portland of the Pacific Coast League, drove in five runs as the Athletics defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7 to 4, yesterday.

GALVESTON, Tex. — (AP.) — Stanley (Buck) Harris, manager of the Detroit Tigers, yesterday received word of the birth of a son in Washington, D. C. His wife was the former Elizabeth Sutherland, of West Virginia. There are two other children in the family, a boy and a girl.

ORLANDO, Fla.—(AP.)—The Boston Red Sox were en route to Norfolk, Va., today smarting under a beating at the hands of Doc Gautreau's Montreal Royals. The Sox owners were en route to New York on another train.

PIRATES LOSE SLUGFEST TO CUBS, 16-10

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, March 31.—April Fool's Day is just around the corner, and it will be just like some wisecracker to tell George Gibson he made a smart move in sending his pitchers to California in advance of the other Buccos in order to insure top conditioning.

Gibson today realized his sharpshooters, on their form to date, would have a hard time getting by in the Piedmont League, yet Gibby has not thrown in the towel, by any means. On top of a 16-to-10 shellacking sustained by his club while playing the Cubs yesterday, Gibby still sees something which is quite hard for others to discern.

Today Gibby plans to shoot Waite Hoyt against the Bruins as the Pirates tackle the champs for the sixth time. So far, the Pittsburghers have lost four of the five contests with the Windy City entry. Guy Bush is slated to take the mound for the Cubs, which hardly figures to cheer the Buccos to any extent.

TEAMS HIT HARD

The Cubs and Pirates belted the jackrabbit Coast League ball for 31 hits of a varied hue. The major league ball is lively enough, goodness knows, but the rocket in use out here is a knockout. It slips past the infielders like a golf ball and it ricochets around the fences in a dizzy manner. Fred Lindstrom almost lost his bridgework on two occasions yesterday. To complete the picture here, the fence should carry dentist advertising.

Larry French has never been able to tame the Cubs effectively. Larry can toss his southpaw mitt onto the slab and the Giants or Cardinals act like tame bears, but the Bruins of Chicago are untamed against any southpaw pitching, and although French loves to challenge them with his characteristic nerve, he is generally carried to the club house in a horizontal position. It's lucky for Larry that you don't get cauliflower ears in baseball.

Eight doubles, five triples and three home runs were included in the carnage felt by the opposing pitchers.

GRIMES ON MOUND

The Pirates nicked Burleigh Grimes for four runs and four hits in the first. Burleigh was sore and proceeded to make a double cousin or a nephew out of French, whom he reached for a single and a triple in two times at bat. Bill Harris finished for Pittsburgh and also was smeared. Bud Tinning relieved Grimes.

The Cubs hopped on French for eight runs and eight hits in the fourth inning.

The batting festival was enjoyed by 1,000 fans who wondered if these really were the big league teams.

Chilly Sauce

Pie Traynor on a rampage makes a playing field unsafe for all combatants. Pie jumped into the Chicago dugout to make a one-handed catch of a foul. Manager Grimm tried to protect Traynor from serious injury by sitting in between Pie and some Pittsburgh steel the guards the bench. Traynor stepped on Grimm, who was out in the melee. Another first baseman warmed up, but the manager played another inning or two before he left.

Suhr's homer in the first made the Pirates look impressive, but when the Bears got the range on the fences they soon discounted Gus's wallop.

A state secret in the Chicago family is to the effect that Grimes is on trial. In other words he has been told to "bear down" or else.

The report on Grimes says that Burleigh must show some of his customary stuff before the team reaches Kansas City or he will be traded. The same ultimatum is said to have been issued Bud Tinning, who is fatter than a wrestler.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

ATLANTA, Ga., March 31.—Folks often inquire where I get the brilliant ideas for my piece in the papers every day. Well, my brain always is waiting to snap at good ideas. For instance, if I hear a jazz band play "You're an Old Smoothie," I think of the guy that sold me those Peruvian bonds. The bonds remind me of 7 per cent, the 7 per cent reminds me of beer, the beer reminds me of the free lunch, the free lunch reminds me of another glass of beer and that reminds me of a third glass on the house and by that time I'm so full of beer I feel drowsy, so I put off writing my article till the next day.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Remember Mike O'Dowd, the fighting Irishman, of St. Paul, who won the middleweight championship from Al McCoy and then went away to the World War as one of our first volunteers and served overseas when he could have been capitalizing his title at home?

Paddy Mullins

He finally lost the crown to Johnny Wilson, the Boston southpaw, who, in turn, dropped it to our own Harry Greb.

Well, Michael was the apple of the eye of that other good Irishman, Paddy Mullins, who, old man that he was, once threatened to punch Jack Dempsey's nose because the Manassa Mauler would not give his Harry Wills a crack at the heavyweight championship.

CHOSEN BY MULLINS

When O'Dowd passed out of the picture, Mullins began a search for another good Irish fighter and he finally found the man he wanted in the person of Tracey Cox, Indianapolis lightweight, managed by Bert Rumer. He had just completed arrangements to take a "piece" of Cox and exploit him when the Grim Reaper came along and took old Paddy away to his final resting place.

Pittsburgh boxing fans recently saw Cox in action for the first time, when he defeated Billy Holt, local Negro welterweight, at the Arena, on the North Side. They were greatly impressed with his work and asked that he be brought back. He's back tonight, against Tony Falco, Philadelphia lightweight, in the 10-round main bout at the Arena. Falco has won over Johnny Datto and Harry Dublinsky and fought two battles with Tony Herrera in local rings, and also is somewhat of a favorite locally.

LOOKS LIKE MIDDLEWEIGHT

Cox is the biggest-looking lightweight you ever saw. Compactly built, he gives the impression of being a middleweight. He boxes well and punches hard with both fists and has compiled an imposing record of knockout victories. He bears a striking resemblance to Howdy Groskloss, the Pirates' reserve second baseman.

Four six-round preliminaries promise a lot of action on the Cox-Falco card. Willie Davies, of Charleroi, former leading flyweight contender, boxes Charley Burns, speedy youngster, of Johnstown, in the semi-final; Eddie Hebner, of Clairton, meets Steve O'Malley, of Bellaire, O., who hasn't been seen around here in a long time; Joey Bazzone, of McKeesport, takes on Max (Kingfish) Elling, of the Hill, and Don Asto, of Uniontown, tangles with Johnny Durso. The first bout goes on at 8:30.

Between Rounds

Tug Phillips, of Fayette City, now under the management of Al Suttle, wants to meet Billy Holt or Jimmy Belmont, following his victory over Freddie Edwards in East Liverpool, Wednesday night, his ninth straight win. Suttle also is handling Johnny Hazel, the lightweight.

The Burns A. C., of New Kensington, will stage an amateur show of eight bouts in the Moose Temple, New Kensington, next Tuesday evening. John Dalebrone, Steve Mazur, Willie Ritchie, Henry Kalenna, Stanley Francis and John Anderson will be featured in the bouts.

Carmen Barth, Cleveland's former amateur middleweight champion, will box Johnny Riske in one of the bouts at Motor Square Garden either one week from next Monday or on the postponed Max Schmeling exhibition card a week later.

According to word from Washington, Pa., George Demas, former W. & J. football star, will make his professional wrestling debut in Baltimore next Friday night.

Four Tournaments For Passers Tonight

Four basketball tournaments for independent teams hold the attention of the fans in the tri-state district. Thirty-six teams swing into action in the annual Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia tournament at East Liverpool, O., tonight, while at Waynesburg play gets under way in the fourth annual independent tournament. Another tournament is under way at Punxsutawney.

Last night at Washington, Pa., the Friendly Five, of Marianna, and Carter's Colts, of Washington, scored victories in the first round of the district tournament. Friendly Five defeated Wherry, 23-20, while the Carters defeated Scio Independents, 22-20.

HORSE SETS RECORD

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 31.—(AP.)—Banderlog, carrying the light blue and brown silks of C. V. Whitney, yesterday smashed the track record for one and one-sixteenth miles as he captured the feature event at Tropical Park for his second successive triumph.

NOTED BOWLER SHOT

Cox 'Ringer' for Pirate Star

TRACEY COX

HOWDY GROSKLOSS

Bearing a close facial and general physical resemblance to Howdy Groskloss, Pirates' reserve second baseman, is Tracey Cox, bulky fighting Irishman, of Indianapolis, who meets Tony Falco, of Philadelphia, in the 10-round main bout at the Arena, on the North Side, tonight. The boxing fans remarked the similarity between the two when they saw Cox for the first time, recently, against Billy Holt in the same ring in which he appears tonight. Like Groskloss in baseball, Cox is a hard hitter in the ring. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

HOOSIER TAKES SWIM TITLE

The Indiana youngster, who rose to national prominence only last July, won the 150-yard backstroke title of the National A. A. U. championships here last night by two yards. In second place was Gordon Chalmers, former Franklin and Marshall College ace who represented the Newark A. C., while John Wicklun, of Brooklyn, was third. Zehr led from start to finish and was clocked in 1:39.5, one and five-tenths seconds behind George Kojac's world record.

Three other titles were decided last night, with two of them going to the Spence family. Walter Spence, national collegiate 100-yard free style titleholder, added the A. A. U.'s crown for the same distance to his collection, although his winning time, 53.6 seconds, failed to approach world record figures.

The third of the Spence clan, Wallace, captured the 300-yard medley title in a sensational finish with Johnny Schmeiler, of the University of Michigan, only inches behind.

Marty Welk After Second Place Tonight

Marty Welk has a chance tonight to take undisputed possession of second place in the annual city championship three-cushion billiard tournament as he takes on Sam Lytton at Tobin's parlors, Smithfield street.

Grant Smith made it a three-way tie, along with Welk and Davisson, for second place last night by defeating William Kish in an upset match, 50 to 48.

PANTHER COACH SUGGESTS NEW SCORE RULE

Dr. H. C. Carlson, famous coach of the Pitt Panthers, has come up with a new one, a proposal to revise the game's scoring system and allow three points for a field goal.

The reform, according to the Braddock physician, will be proposed at the annual meeting of the joint basketball rules committee in New York April 6, 7 and 8. In support of the plan, Dr. Carlson points out that it would curtail the number of games decided by foul shots, which in turn, are governed by the decisions of officials. Carlson said:

"The main thing, it seems to me, is to remove decisions as far as possible from the rather uncertain status of judges' opinions. This might be done by changing the field goal score to three points instead of two.

"The 1932 rule book shows that 55 per cent of games that year were decided by foul throws. Fouls, of course, depend on the judgment of officials. Games often depend 70 per cent on judgment of officials who interpret the rules."

DUKES WIN ANOTHER

The nineteenth annual University of Pittsburgh interscholastic swimming meet, carded for Saturday, April 8, is expected to draw a record entry list. Seven events are on the program, including a 160-yard relay, 40 and 220-yard free style races, a 100-yard breast stroke, 100-yard back stroke, a 180-yard medley relay and fancy diving.

The university championship will be run off in conjunction with the schoolboy events.

While Pitt is holding its nineteenth annual meet, Carnegie Tech will put on its fourth annual interscholastic relay affair. Both events are carded for the same day.

Leafs Lose Star For Ice Playoffs

TORONTO, March 31.—(AP.)—Joe Primeau, center of the Toronto Maple Leafs, of the National Hockey League, today was in a hospital with an infected foot and may be lost to the Leafs in the remaining game or games of their first place playoffs with the Boston Bruins.

Primeau played in last night's game despite the injured foot and was taken to the hospital immediately after conclusion of the fray, which Boston won, 2-1, in an extra period to take a 2-1 lead in their best three-out-of-five series.

The New York Rangers defeated Detroit, 2-0, at New York, and will carry this advantage into the second game of their series, at Detroit, to be decided on total goals.

Second place in the International League playoffs will be at stake tonight when London meets Windsor. Buffalo already has won the title.

UNION SWITCH, CLANSMEN SET FOR BATTLE

By TOM BIRKS

Union Switch and Signal and the Clan Douglas soccer elevens will meet in the feature game of the benefit cup competition tomorrow afternoon at the Westinghouse High School stadium. The teams were bitter rivals in the Central League and should draw a large crowd.

In the same competition, Lawrenceville will travel to Moon Run to clash with the Panhandle League outfit.

Moon Run rather surprised the soccer followers in the Strip district with a brilliant defense in the first game last Saturday, and this time Lawrenceville will have to step out if it is to go into the next round.

The third game of the day finds Beadling traveling to the Bridge Works grounds to meet Ambridge.

On Sunday, Curry meets Sygan in the West Penn Open Cup at Greenlee Field. The clubs have already played two tie games. The referee banished three players in last Sunday's game.

Only one other game is scheduled for Sunday and that will find Springdale clashing with the Shannon Zoneys at South Park.

Fight Manager's Passport Scanned

PARIS, March 31.—(INS.)—Charley Friedman, New York fight manager, was met by two French detectives on his arrival here today and escorted to the American consulate.

There his passport was examined and returned to him. The consulate said it was acting on orders from Washington.

Friedman admitted he knew the reason for the action, but would not reveal what it was.

1932 CHAMPS TO BOX IN SENIOR A. M. A. TOURNEY TONIGHT

DE MORE, SULK, ELY WIN IN FIRST TESTS

By JESS CARVER

The tourney's two defending champions, Charley Crovatta, who makes the beam jiggle at 147 pounds, and Buck Makrum, who sends it a-joggling at better than 190, both of Uniontown, will make their first appearances in defense of the crowns they won a year ago tonight as the annual senior A. M. A. amateur boxing championship tournament pops into the second night of action in the Keystone Club.

C. Crovatta

The 147, 160 and 175-pounders and the heavyweights will mix it in preliminary rounds tonight, and they'll not have to flash very much action to surpass the socking pyrotechnics put on by the boys in the 112, 118, 126 and 135-pound classes last night.

FIVE KNOCKOUTS SCORED

The punchers paraded through a string of 31 bouts last night and were able to register only five knockouts, four of them technical affairs. One bout ended in a foul. The boys either are getting too clever or the customers all were related to the judges, for the spectators last night seldom took exception to the decisions of the officials.

All four of the junior A. M. A. champions who were on display last night advanced to the second round, three of them with victories and one, Harry Krause, 126-pound king, of the Pittsburgh Lyceum, by virtue of a bye.

In the 112-pound class, little Joey Sulk, of the Willow Club, who had to sweat off a pound just before he entered the ring, whipped Johnny Burke, of the Linwood Club, in three rounds. The little junior champion showed plainly the effect of having to take off weight.

Tony DeMore, another Willow Club star, the 118-pound junior king, wasn't hitting as snappily as he can, but he beat Frankie Salak, of the Ukranian A. C., in three rounds. Salak gave him a tough argument all the way.

ELY SHOWS CLASS

William Ely, the only triple-champion in the tourney, the New Salem Negro socker, who holds the junior A. M. A., Pittsburgh Golden Gloves and Monongahela Valley crowns at 135 pounds, was the most impressive of the champions to win. He punched the daylights out of Henry Oldach, of Erie, brother of Matty (Popeye) Oldach, the pro battler.

George Julius, of the Willow Club, local lightweight star, registered a decisive victory over Johnny Alvin, rugged J. L. Thomas Club boxer, when Referee Ernie Sesto put a stop to the action after 1 minute and 14 seconds of the second round, with Alvin on the canvass on one knee, for the second time.

The Willow Club led in advancing entries into the second round, putting six across the line and having only two meet up with defeat. The J. L. Thomas Club landed three in the advance rating, as did the General Electric A. C., of Erie, and the Center A. C., of Wierton, W. Va. The Monongahela Valley A. C., Linwood Club, Y. M. H. A., Pleasant Valley A. C. and the Pittsburgh Lyceum each landed two victories.

CASCATO LOSES

The Lyceum received a tough break in the 118-pound class when Sammy Angott, of the Tucker A. C., of Washington, was awarded the decision over Felix Cascato. This bout was one of the best of the night, packing a dozen rounds of action into the three that it went. Cascato, from this peephole, appeared to have a slight edge.

Victor Yarosz, of Monaca, brother of the famous Teddy, was unimpressive in beating Bill Marsh, of the Emerald A. C., of the North Side, in the 126-pound class. The summary:

118-pound class—Al Gold, Y. M. H. A., defeated Joe Verse, Pittsburgh Lyceum, 3 rounds; Lou Levine, Y. M. H. A., defeated Dan Croce, P. A. C., 3 rounds; Tony DeMore, Willow Club, junior A. M. A. champion, defeated Frank Salak, Ukranian A. C., McKees Rocks, 3 rounds; Phil Tumbiell, Willow Club, defeated Grant Hughes, Alexander A. C., 3 rounds; Hubert Bolen, Center A. C., Wierton, W. Va., defeated Gene Gibbons, Potter A. C., McKeesport, 3 rounds; Johnny Leville, Linwood Club, defeated Seymour Marshall, Duff's A. C., Erie, 3 rounds; Seymour Angott, Tucker A. C., defeated Felix Cascato, Pittsburgh Lyceum, 3 rounds.

ED GUTOWSKI REAL STAR

By JULIUS LEVIN

Ed Gutowski

Chosen as all-scholastic center and tackle in football and all-scholastic guard in basketball, Gutowski turned to baseball and track for his remaining two letters.

Suffering a broken arm during his freshman year, Gutowski was lost to the Bridgers for athletics in his first year at school, but he more than made up for lost ground during his sophomore, junior and senior years.

STARRED AT CENTER

His first two years on the football squad found Gutowski playing a remarkable game at center, his work being of such high order that he was chosen twice on the all-Beaver County eleven and received honorable mention on the all-W. P. I. A. L. selection.

Gutowski's work at tackle during the last football campaign, during which Moe Rubenstein's eleven won undisputed possession of the class A championship of the W. P. I. A. L., saw the Bridgers' captain rise to the heights in brilliance. Hailed as one of the finest punters in the W. P. I. A. L., Gutowski played a prominent role in bringing Ambridge through an undefeated campaign. He averaged 60 yards on all of his punts and occasionally crossed up the opposition by tossing forward passes. He was chosen all-W. P. I. A. L. tackle by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph at the close of the campaign.

PLAYED ALL POSITIONS

In his three years on the Rubenstein basketball quintet, Gutowski performed with brilliance in every position on the team. He starred at guard the first year, switched to center in his second and wound up his career by playing both guard and forward. In each of the three seasons, he led the Section IV scorers in piling up points. He captained 1933 quintet, which won the Section IV toga and advanced to the semi-finals of the W. P. I. A. L. tournament before bowing to Duquesne, which went on to win the title.

Gutowski tried his hand at track in his sophomore year and in his junior year, he was attracted to baseball, winning his letters in both sports. In track competition he excelled in the discus and high jump, while he held down the position at first base in baseball.

GOOD STUDENT

Besides his fine athletic work Gutowski has been a good student. Eighteen years of age, standing six feet two inches in height and weighing around 190 pounds, Cutowski should prove a star in college. While he has not decided where he will go after he receives his diploma in June, the college that gets him will have one of the most promising football prospects to come up from [illegible] Valley in years.

[illegible] Davidson, brilliant triple-threat star of the Mt. Lebanon High School grid eleven and regular forward on the basketball quintet which won the Section IV championship of the W. P. I. A. L. during the last two seasons, has enrolled at Temple University and will make a bid for a berth on the Warner-coached eleven [illegible] halfback. Davidson was placed on the all-W. P. I. A. L. eleven by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph last fall. A good punter, a fine broken field runner and a heady field general, Davidson should prove a star at Temple.

ENGLISH CREWS AWAIT RACE

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, March 31. — (AP.) — The Thames, over a four and a quarter-mile stretch, will belong tomorrow to the narrow shells of Cambridge and Oxford.

Climaxing months of training, the oarsmen will match strokes over the twisting course from Putney Bridge to Mortlake brewery in the eighty-fifth renewal of the gruelling classic.

The Cantabs, riding high on the crest with nine consecutive victories, face the chance of creating a record in the ancient rivalry. Oxford twice has run its string of victories to the same number and twice failed in its efforts to reach the double figure; Cambridge, for the first time in its history, now has the opportunity.

Meeting for the first time in 1929, and staging their first regular annual race on the tideway in 1856, the universities have clashed oars 84 times, Cambridge winning 43 races, Oxford 40. One battle ended in a dead heat. Oxford's victory in 1923 was the only one the Dark Blue has shared since the war.

GALLANT SIR BIG FAVORITE

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, March 31. — (AP.) — Gallant Sir, odds-on favorite in the $25,000 Agua Caliente handicap Sunday, has had his last workout.

The big 4-year-old colt, working with Sundot, a sprinter, and Whizz James, a pace setter, from his own stable, was clocked in 24 seconds for a quarter, 48 3-5 for a half, 1:13 2-5 for six furlongs, 1:38 4-5 for a mile and 1:52 3-5 for nine furlongs, running easily, yesterday.

E. J. Fitzgerald, trainer for Norman W. Church, in whose colors Gallant Sir runs, was highly gratified. The big horse's odds had dropped to 1-to-5 to 1, with no one offering to take place and show bets.

With the passing of Pillow Fight from the picture as a serious contender, Waylayer, from the A. A. Baroni barn, replaced the New Zealand invader as second choice in the future books at 8 to 1.

Allegheny, Fifth Win at Volley Ball

Allegheny and Fifth Avenue scored victories in yesterday's senior high school volley ball competition. Allegheny defeated Oliver, 15-12, 2-15 and 15-11, while Fifth upset Somers, 15-3, 16-14.

In the junior division, Fifth downed Arsenal, 15-6, 15-3; Overbrook tripped Knoxville, 15-7, 15-2; Liberty won from Somers, 15-6, 15-13; Washington Trade defeated Allderdice, 15-10, 15-6; Westinghouse won over Gladstone, 15-13, 15-8, and Herron Hill downed Latimer, 15-5, 15-9.

The swimming championship of the senior high schools of the City League will be determined in the Connelley Trade School pool this afternoon. All of the contestants qualified in the preliminary trials staged earlier in the season.

South to Attend State Finale In Philly

The fact that they are out of the running for the state scholastic basketball championship will not prevent the South High Orioles from attending the finale to be played in Philadelphia tomorrow evening with Altoona, District VI champion, and Lower Merion, District I champion, as the contestants.

The South Side squad will be taken to Philadelphia by members of the South High faculty. South was eliminated in the semi-final by Altoona, 34-29. The Orioles, nevertheless, will be pulling for their vanquishers to triumph over Lower Merion.

GRAPHIC GOLF

LONG HITTING

Hard hitting alone will not lengthen tee shots. Power is, of course, an aid, but it must be allied to correct timing if the ball is to be driven those extra yards every golfer desires. According to Francis Ouimet, distance is greatly dependable upon having the feet, body and arms function in unison. In this way, each member contributes smoothly to the stroke and it becomes that smooth swing one wishes for.

In an expert's play, great physical effort seems removed, although there is plenty of force being supplied. It simply passes unobserved. If the different members do not work properly, such as the pivot being faulty or the footwork slow, the stroke will suffer in consequence.

The ordinary golfer when desiring distance has an uncontrollable desire to speed up his backswing. Under such conditions, there is every chance that the stroke will fail of smoothness and proper timing. He should endeavor to secure correct timing by a split second's delay before hitting.

This gives the slower members of the body a chance to catch up in the stroke. The distance secured by so doing will be a revelation.

Businessmen, Alumni To Honor South Boys

Plans for a testimonial banquet to be given the members of the South High basketball and football teams will be completed at a meeting of the businessmen and alumni in Paul Bleichner's office, 1804 Carson street, tonight at 8 o'clock.

Serving on the committee will be Paul Bleichner, Bill Finkel, Fred Breitweiser, William Hartlep, Rudy Brenlov, John Grau, Gustav Wilde, Ben Friedland, Charles Funk, Dr. William Gregory, Bert Winters, Sigmund Gorsky and George Schwartzel, Jr.

A. M. A. Floor Play Carded Tonight

The second bracket of the semi-finals in the Allegheny Mountain Association basketball tournament will be played tonight on the Kingsley House floor.

ALTOONA STAR ROLLS 688

COLUMBUS, O., March 31.—(INS.)—Philip Werner, a machinist of Altoona, Pa., shot into third place of the singles standings of the American Bowling Congress Big Ten here today by pounding out a powerful score of 688.

His 688 score, added to a total of 658 in the five-man event and 555 in the doubles landed him in sixth place of the all-events big ten with 1901 points.

Notre Dame Honors Memory of Rockne

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 31. — (AP.) — Notre Dame today honored the memory of its immortal viking of football, Knute Rockne, and looked back longingly on a glorious era of athletic achievement that may never return to the campus of the golden dome.

It was two years ago today that the great master of the "Fighting Irish" was killed in an airplane crash in Kansas, and the entire university joined in tribute and prayer. Classes for the day were dismissed, and the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of Notre Dame, planned to sing a requiem high mass.

Lower Merion High Floor Star Injured

MERION, Pa., March 31.—(AP.)—Hopes for a state scholastic basketball championship were dimmed somewhat today at Lower Merion High School by the announcement that Roger Hanger, six-foot forward and acting captain, may not be able to play in the final game against Altoona tomorrow.

Hanger wrenched his ankle in the second quarter of the Scranton Tech game at Allentown Tuesday and refused to leave the contest until its end.

Seeded Tennis Star Bows in Indoor Play

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass., March 31.—Mrs. Robert Morris, of Boston, fourth seeded player, was the victim of an upset in the women's national indoor tennis championship here yesterday when she bowed before Miss Helen Germaine, New York public courts player, 4-6, 6-0, 6-4.

SPORT SHORTS

CHICAGO—(AP.)—Eugene Quinn, one of the ranking tennis players in the Chicago district, and Earl Feiling, captain of Northwestern University's team, were still in the running today for the men's western indoor singles tennis championships. Advancing through the fourth round last night Quinn defeated Theodore Matthews, 6-2 and 6-3, while Tedding disposed of Charles Welker in two sets, 6-3 and 6-2.

ST. LOUIS—(AP.)—Butler University, of Indianapolis, won first place in 11 of 15 events to defeat Washington University, 82 to 49, in a dual track and field meet here yesterday. Washington was able to finish first only the mile relay, the high jump, the javelin and discus events.

CHICAGO—(AP.)—Despite the non-profitable 1933 meeting, the Chicago Business Men's Racing Association will operate the New Orleans Fair Grounds next season, John C. Schank, president of the association, said today.

ALTOONA, Pa.—(AP.)—Frank B. Kremer, former president of the Altoona Speedways, died today after a lingering illness. Kremer had been identified with automobile racing for years and had made the annual Altoona race a national feature.

STOCKS MIRROR UPTURN IN BUSINESS

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP.)—The stock market looked a little stronger today, but was still extremely listless.

Indications of marked progress in throwing off the recent retardative influences on general business appeared in week-end surveys, although such improvement evidently had not gone far enough to restore corporate profits to levels sufficient to generate much stock market enthusiasm.

The market bulged up for a time in the morning under leadership of the sugars and tobaccos, but much of the advance was lost by early afternoon. American Tobacco B and Liggett & Myers B rose 1 to 2 points, and most of the sugars advanced fractions, while Cuban American preferred pushed up more than 4.

The weekly mercantile review of Dun & Bradstreet reported further improvement in both retail and wholesale trade. Reports of improvement from miscellaneous manufacturers are becoming more numerous. Some of the automobile manufacturers reported improved sales in the past week, and a number of miscellaneous manufacturers are stepping up activity, several of them on orders placed in connection with preparations for the beer business. Nevertheless, investors remained cautious, inasmuch as general corporate earnings have fallen to such low levels, and the first effects of the approach of the usual summer lull may be felt within the next several weeks.

The action of the sugars again was in response to the improvement in the raw sugar futures market, reflecting Cuban plans to reduce the export quota for the United States. The outlook for the tobacco companies has been somewhat secluded by cigaret price slashing, but production figures indicate that the reduced prices have stimulated consumption considerably. Professional traders remained rather bearish on the utilities, in view of the strong agitation in many localities for rate reductions.

Indications that most bond interest payments due tomorrow will be made, were reassuring. There had been some uncertainty over some of the railroad payments. Total interest and dividend payments slated for April are estimated at more than $600,000,000. Receivership for the L. K. Liggett & Co., a subsidiary of Drug, Inc., did not come as a shock, in view of the company's warning some time ago to landlords.

BREWING STOCK IS OFFERED

Application will be made soon to list the common stock of the Brackenridge Brewing Company, Inc., on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange.

A public offering of 125,000 shares of the $1 par common stock is being made today.

The company is a Deleware corporation formed to take over the business and assets of Labor Products and Ice Company which succeeded the Anchor Brewing Company founded in 1911, and has an authorized capital of 400,000 shares. There is no funded debt nor preferred stock.

The plant, located at Brackenridge, is the only brewery in the Allegheny Valley industrial section. The company owns an entire city block on which are situated its brewery, fully equipped, and an ice manufacturing plant. The brewery has a capacity of approximately 100,000 barrels per year. The ice plant can produce daily 60 tons of ice in excess of the brewery's requirements. With the exception of a few months the plant has operated continuously since 1911.

BRITAIN SHOWS HUGE DEFICIT

LONDON, March 31.—(AP.)—The financial year of the British government ended tonight with a deficit of £32,279,000. At the current rate of exchange this is equivalent to $111,685,340.

The Treasury report showed a total revenue of £744,791,000 and expenditures, excluding the American debt payment last December of £748,114,000, leaving a deficit of £3,323,000.

This figure includes a provision of £17,500,000 for the sinking fund. The payment to the United States was £28,956,000, making the total deficit £32,279,000.

CAUTION STILL ESSENTIAL TO INVESTORS

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, March 31.—The proposed new federal "blue sky law" is mostly good as far as it goes. If properly understood by the public, it seems likely to bring some benefits.

The chief immediate danger is that the public may get the idea that it would make securities safer to buy, or would make it unnecessary for the investor to use as much judgment and caution as formerly.

We should note in advance that the main proposal is to make it possible for "investors" to find out some additional facts about new security issues when they are first brought out. It is still up to buyers to beware how they interpret the facts which may be presented.

MUST TELL FACTS

Briefly, the bill provides that before new securities can be advertised or sold in interstate commerce, certain information must be registered with the Federal Trade Commission.

This information covers the purpose of the issue, names and addresses of the promoters, directors, trustees and officers of the issuer, and details of all stocks and funded debt outstanding; also a recent balance sheet and income statement.

Most important is the requirement that the cost of properties involved shall be stated, together with all considerations therefor, and all commissions or bonuses paid to promoters.

A copy of any circular or prospectus must be filed, but the bill does not seem to require that all such papers be filed. (This should be made clear).

REVOCATION POSSIBLE

In case "it shall appear" that there has been any violation of the act or any fraudulent or dishonest transactions, or that the affairs of the company are unsound or not conducted on sound principles or in the public interest, then the commission may revoke its registration of any security.

That would merely stop any further or additional interstate dealings in the security.

But any purchaser of securities who suffers loss, which he can prove to be the consequence of the "falsity" of the information, is "given the right to obtain damages" from any of the "signers" of the false statement.

REAL DANGER SEEN

Apparently there is some fear that the public may feel that the government is now going to guarantee new securities, and, despite the provision that it shall be unlawful to represent that the commission has "approved" a security, I think the danger is real.

Unless and until the commission actually revokes the registration of a security, one would apparently be justified in assuming there had been no fraud or violation of law, and that the issuer's affairs are sound and solvent (see section 6).

In some respects, the bill is mild. It does not provide for punitive damages. It does not bring the directors of issuing companies into the picture very prominently.

In fact, the general impression is that it is just a moderate sort of general "blue sky" law, and as we already have in most states. It is hoped that it will merely tend toward uniformity in state regulations.

MORE ACTION NEEDED

Probably the best way to look at it as just one step toward an increasing federal regulation of business. This measure is not going to satisfy those who are critical of our methods of speculation and dealing in securities.

The billions lost since 1929 have not been lost in fraudulent new issues. They have been mostly lost in gambling in old issues ("blue chips").

Much more than the addition of a federal blue-sky law to 43 state blue-sky laws will have to be done if the government is going to protect the speculator from his folly or keep the lamb from being shorn.

LIGGETT FILES BANKRUPT PLEA

NEW YORK, March 31.—Louis K. Liggett Company filed voluntary petition in bankruptcy today. It operates a chain of 450 retail stores in 35 states.

The petition was filed pursuant to a resolution adopted by the board of directors and states that the corporation is unable to pay its debts in full.

Louis K. Liggett stated today:

"The Liggett Company like all retail business suffered serious declines in volume for the past three years due to loss in public income. Its volume of sales is 30 per cent below 1929. The management has done everything in its power to reduce expense and to cope with this progressive loss in volume and consequent loss of earnings."

N. Y. Central Loan Request Approved

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has approved a further loan of $7,000,000 to the New York Central Railroad by the R. F. C., to pay a like amount of 4 per cent improvement bonds of the Boston and Albany Railroad, maturing May 1, 1933.

Curb Market Seat Sells at Decline

The Flapper's Daughter

By BEATRICE BURTON

THRILLING NOVEL OF THE CHILDREN OF DANCING MOTHERS

Sharlie went weak and wabbly at the knees. And under her rouge all the color drained itself from her face. A hunted look sprang into her wide eyes.

"You don't mean that Eddie and I have to get married?" She shook her head as she spoke. "Why—we didn't do anything wrong! The car ran out of gas, and we were stuck right in the middle of some fields. We slept in the car all night—"

"You say it's my fault that this happened," she said to them, her voice sharp with bitterness. "But how could I take care of a girl who lied to me the way Sharlie lied to me? Told me she was going to the movies with Jim Barnum . . . I didn't even know she knew this Wallis boy until Jim told me about him this morning—"

But Edna answered her.

"Most mothers make it their business to find out who their daughters' friends are," she said coldly and clearly. "And this idea of yours that everything will be all right if Sharlie marries this boy is an insane idea, Dodie!—I think she's telling the truth about last night!"

EDNA SHIELDS SHARLIE

She swung around to Grandmother Dunn, who was coming back into the room.

"Dodie wants these kids to get married!" she told her. "Did you ever hear of anything more absurd?—If Sharlie marries this boy her life's ruined! Absolutely ruined!—Why, she's nothing more than a baby! It would be wicked to marry her off like this!"

* * *

The door opened and Maud Hanaberry came in with a cerise silk breakfast coat pulled tight around her body. She looked as if she had slept in her make-up and all the lines of her face were lax with sleep.

"Maud," began Sharlie's mother, "you told me that Carl knows one of the city judges . . . Will you call him up and see if I can get a special marriage license? Sharlie and this—this boy"— She glared at Eddie for a moment and then she burst into tears once more.

Edna took up the story and told it in her own way. She made it sound as respectable as possible.

"These two kids tried to elope last night, Maud," she said, "and now Dodie thinks they ought to get married. Sharley says there was nothing disgraceful about the thing, and I certainly believe her."

EDDIE INDEPENDENT

"You think they ought to get married, Dodie," she said, patting her running mate's heaving shoulders. "But—where will they live after they get married? They may want to come here and you'd just have an extra mouth to feed—"

"Not mine, if that's what you're talking about!" It was Eddie who interrupted her. His head was thrown back and his face was red with humiliation and anger. "If you people think I ought to marry Sharlie, I will. And I can keep her, too!—My dad and I have a hardware store and I make plenty of money. Plenty! I won't be around here asking for a hand-out, let me tell you!"

"Then that settles it!" Maud Hanaberry cried, looking from Dodie to Sharlie's father. "You know, Eldon, it would be a load off Dodie's mind to have Sharlie safely married!—Why, just look at her! She's shaking all over with a nervous chill this minute!"

It was true. Sharlie's mother was trembling violently and the tears poured down her cheeks, making little white marks in the rouge that was on them.

"It would be a load off my mind to have her married!" she admitted, sobbing. "Why, Edna says she's been having this boy up here in the flat when I was out!—Edna says she had liquor on her breath the other night when she came in, and she smokes as much as I do!"

"Marrying her off like this isn't going to stop her drinking and smoking!" Edna burst out. "For heaven's sake, Dodie, handle this thing in a sensible way. Send this boy home and get Sharlie straightened out! Send her to business college—give her something to do!"

PAIR MARRIED

That afternoon Sharlie was married to Eddie Wallis.

She was married at 2 o'clock in the gray, dusty office of a Justice of the Peace while the light fingers of summer rain beat a tattoo on the dirty window panes and the sound of the downtown traffic came into the room like the roar of some distant ocean.

All her life she had dreamed of a wedding day of sunshine and June roses. She had dreamed of herself, all in cloudy white, kneeling on a white satin altar in a church. She had dreamed of coming down an aisle with her eyes on the face of the man she was going to marry—

And then the thought of the home that would be hers came flashing into her mind . . . Once more she saw the dusty red velvet couch with its broken springs. She saw the dusty dresser and the tumbled bed in Eddie's room. She saw the back yard with its empty packing cases and barrels — the yellow cat—

"Mother!" She swung away from Eddie as soon as the matter-of-fact ceremony was over and put her arms around her. "I want to go home with you!"

DODIE OBJECTS

"No," she said firmly. "If I let you go on living at home, Eddie would be there all the time. It's better for you to start your married life the right way . . . And Sharlie, please don't start calling me 'Mother' after calling me 'Dodie' for years! I don't want everybody in the world to know I'm old enough to have a married daughter!"

She laughed, but it was perfectly clear to Sharlie that she meant what she said. She never had let Sharlie call her "Mother."

* * *

The flat never had had much charm for Sharlie.

She always had been glad to get away from it.

But it looked like heaven itself to her that rainy afternoon when she went back to it to get her clothes. The rooms where she had lived all her life were like old friends all at once. Old friends that she was leaving.

"I'll keep thinking of you all here tonight," she said to her mother when the two of them were in her bedroom packing her clothes into two big suitcases, "and I'll be so homesick."

SORRY TO LEAVE

"Oh, no, you won't! Dodie replied, folding Sharlie's limp little house dresses into a bag. You're crazy about Eddie and the two of you will have the time of your life. This is the beginning of your honeymoon, Sharlie!"

But Sharlie was very grave and quiet while she finished packing . . . Her white brush and comb and hand mirror, how would they look laid out on that bare yellow oak dresser that stood in Eddie's room? Her clothes, where would she hang them? In some musty closet where Eddie kept his tobacco-scented garments?

"Dodie," she said, "you know where I'll be living, don't you?—In a few rooms at the back of Mr. Wallis' hardware store. I've been there. It's a terrible looking place!"

Her mother shrugged her shoulders. But her eyes were full of doubt and unhappiness.

"You should have thought of all this," she murmured, "before you went out to meet Eddie last night."

She closed the bags and Sharlie strapped them. There was nothing to do now but to call Eddie and go away with him.

She took one last long look at the room that had been hers for so long.

It was a white plain little room. But it seemed very dear to her at that moment.

"I feel just as if I were going to sleep here tonight, somehow," she said to Dodie.

Not many hours later they were both to remember that she had said that.

1. SHAPING THE "GATHER" 2. BLOWING AND REHEATING 3. MAKING THE MIRRORS

"HAND MADE" PROCESS OF MANUFACTURING WINDOW GLASS AND MIRRORS

1. The molten glass is "gathered" on the bell-shaped end of a blower's pipe. By skillful manipulation the blower is able to accumulate a quantity of material which, when blown, will make cylinders of proper size and fairly uniform thickness.

2. The blower with the aid of a helper swings the molten glass on the end of his blowpipe to and fro in a pit or opening in the floor, spinning the blowpipe around its axis, blowing into the pipe as he swings and whirls, reheating the glass at frequent intervals until a full size cylinder is formed. The cutting and flattening operations are the same as in the "machine made" process.

3. In making glass mirrors the washed glass plate is placed on a uniformly heated table (90 to 100 degrees F.) in a dust-free room. A solution of silver-nitrate is poured carefully over the the glass. A chemical, previously added to the silver-nitrate, precipitates the silver on the glass, leaving the liquid on top to exclude air from the silver, preventing its oxydation. After drying, a preservative coating of shellac is spread over the silver and on top of that a coat of paint, which finishes the "patent-back" mirror.

MOSQUITOES

Three important kinds of mosquitoes are shown in egg, larval, pupal and adult stages, twice natural size. Left is the common house mosquito (Culex); center shows malarial mosquito (Anopheles), carrier of malaria germs; right is the yellow fever mosquito (Aedes), carrier of yellow fever germs. The house fly (Musca domestica): (a) adult female; (b) head of male; (c) eggs; (d) puparium; (e) larva or maggot; (f) last segment of larva to show spiracles. According to Prof. Hodge, the breed of one pair of flies would number 191 quintillion from April to August if all were to live. This would cover the earth 47 feet deep. (Metcalf and Flint: Insects.)

Giant kelps or seaweeds of our Pacific Coast contain about 1½% potash. The U. S. Later research led to additional valuable organic products obtained by fermentation of the kelp with natural yeast, yielding acetic acid, acetone, aldehydes and ketones. The potash from the kelp contains potassium chloride (KCl) 81%, sodium chloride (Na Cl) 3%, sodium sulphate (Na2 S04) 9.2%, sodium carbonate (Na2 CO3) 3½% and water (H20) 2.3%. (Turrentine: Potash.) Beauty Is What Beauty Wears

We're glad to see that mannish fashions for women have vanished with the summer styles.

It looked like our wives were going to establish a 24-hour schedule. Wear our clothes in the daytime and go through 'em at night for odd coins and telephone numbers.

Last winter, the girls wore derby hats with crown fenders, trousers and swallow-tail coats. But the warm weather eliminates all that sartorial foolishness. No woman will wear a vest in the summer.

And how about the beach? Do you think for one badly scrambled minute that any bathing beauty is going to wear spats, a raccoon coat and a high hat?

Not a chance. When they are on the beach the girls want to be girls. They want to be photographed for themselves alone.

And that is all they throw. Nothing but curves.

By the way, the Atlantic City censor hasn't published his annual schedule of ocean dion'ts yet. He's the boy who establishes the tidal mark for bathing frocks. But in another month or two, the first timid bathing girl will make her bashful debut on the burning sands and we will be off on another outdoor whirl of front page pictures and news reels.

Well, it's all in a career. Each year there is a more beautiful crop of prize winners. There will be strutting contests and they will pick out Miss America who will go somewhere for the world tournament and lose the honors to a home girl with ratty hair, slant eyes and a shape like one of Mr. Jake Ruppert's new copper beer vats.

Every nation has its own idea of beauty. In Pongo Jango it's soup plate lips. In Swangulla it's black and green teeth. In the lovely district of Wamptavia it is swollen ear drums and a giraffe neck. Back in merry Kallackio it is protruding shoulder blades and flat feet.

Over in Turralburg they select the prettiest girl of inherited asthma. In Pollamia you can gain distinguished mention for spots in front of your eyes.

And when the writer analyzes himself he realizes that he could qualify in every land and in all languages.

A Building Boom Rally

The Spirit That Will Revive Industry Is Manifesting Itself in Pittsburgh.

The spirit that will put the construction workers to work and revive industry is manifesting itself in Pittsburgh.

A rally is to be held at the William Penn Hotel tomorrow afternoon which may quite conceivably be all that is necessary to pull the trigger and release the energy that will start the boom.

The rally is to take the form of a luncheon meeting. Former Mayor William A. Magee is to preside. The speakers are expected to include executive officers of steel companies and other corporations having to do with building and construction.

Engineers, architects and contractors have promised to attend in force.

The first objective is the enactment of legislation which will permit Pennsylvania to avail itself of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's offer to lend funds for approved public works.

Legislation is also sought authorizing limited dividend housing companies to clear away the slums of our cities and erect in their stead attractive, comfortable, sanitary homes for people of modest means. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has offered to lend money for that purpose, too.

Building, and particularly the building of public works financed by the government, offers the most practical plan for relieving unemployment, increasing the people's purchasing power, and putting the factory wheels into motion.

Let all who can attend the rally and add their strength to the forces that are promoting this encouraging movement.

The Road to Confidence

Modification of the Anti-Trust Laws Will Hasten the Progress Towards Recovery.

The Roosevelt administration's plans for bolstering the purchasing power of farmers and for giving money incomes to the unemployed through public works are aimed at restoring business turnover.

The beneficial results will be greatly augmented if through his prestige the President can also encourage a simultaneous increase in private spending.

Solvent business corporations have available vast unused purchasing power, which can be devoted to job-creating work for making up deferred maintenance and overcoming obsolescence, on the one hand, and for building up inventories, on the other.

Business executives will throw their influence on the side of recovery when they feel that it is safe and profitable to do so.

The federal government can quicken this conversion of businessmen to the side of restored confidence by forthwith modernizing the anti-trust laws.

Business and labor have been victimized by the anarchic character of unbridled competition. The social welfare now requires a higher degree of economic planning and business coordination.

Business was recently encouraged by a decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Appalachian Coal case. The highest court liberalized the Sherman anti-trust law by holding that the co-operative endeavor of independent units in the bituminous coal industry to correct wasteful business practices, through the formation of exclusive regional sales agencies, does not necessarily constitute an unreasonable and illegal restraint of trade.

In suggesting a formula for revision and modernization of the anti-trust laws, Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, has wisely suggested leaving the existing laws on the books, but modifying them by giving the Federal Trade Commission the right to approve any business contract held to be in the public interest.

A Needed Narcotic Law

The State Legislatures Should Enact the Uniform Legislation Recommended by Authorities.

...state in the Union should seize the opportunity to enact ... uniform anti-narcotic act recommended months ago to their state legislatures by the federal government, the commissioners on uniform state laws, the American Bar Association and the American Medical Association.

Great progress has been made by the federal government in eliminating the illicit drug traffic through the strict enforcement of the federal anti-narcotic law.

But the complete suppression of this vicious traffic cannot be achieved until the efforts of the federal government are reinforced by uniform action of the several states.

As our able federal commissioner of narcotics, Mr. Anslinger, has pointed out:

"This model law, sweeping in its scope, provides for the uniform regulation and distribution of narcotic drugs by drug stores; the regulation of prescriptions by dentists, physicians and veterinarians; the control of so-called exempt preparations containing habit-forming drugs, and provides drastic penalties for its violations."

Many provisions of the proposed uniform state narcotic act cannot be enacted into federal law because they involve the exercise of police powers which are reserved to the several states.

These powers must be exercised if all drug peddlers are to be put behind the bars, their poisonous wares confiscated, and their illicit traffic destroyed.

Every Governor throughout the Union should welcome the opportunity to press for the prompt enactment by his Legislature of a uniform narcotic law that federal and state authorities agree is essential to an effective warfare by government everywhere to rid this country of the drug evil.

Many state legislatures are still in session. But only the state of Nevada has yet enacted this urgently needed uniform narcotic act.

Two of a Mind

(Copyright, 1933.)

In his recent book, "Looking Forward," President Roosevelt said of the League of Nations:

"Too often through these years its major function has not been the broad overwhelming purpose of world peace but rather a mere meeting place for the political discussion of strictly European political national difficulties. In these the United States should have no part."

But the League Court is a part of the League's political organization. If the United States does not belong in one, it also belongs out of the other. For they are the same thing.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 31.—Thoughts while strolling: What became of heart-shaped maple sugar? Paavo Nurmi and Earl Carroll look alike. So do the Otis Wieses. The odor of tube roses makes me think of funerals. The click-clack from fencing studios. Col. House's pair of Cairns.

What's this about saving a big international banker for "investigation dessert?" And of keeping Insull away so he won't talk? Harry E. Maule, a Fairmont, Neb., boy, who made good in the city. Suppose carpets are getting their spring larruping back home. Ona Munson's laughing eyes.

I'm always forgetting to look up that word gonion. One-word description of Helen Morgan—twisty. Somehow those guards around J. P. Morgan's town house make me feel self-conscious. Nobody can look so ready to go places as Jules Glaenzer. Or barge along like Willem Van Loon.

Off stage, Katharine Cornell looks as droopy as waffle batter. But behind the footlights, O boy! But no one looks so different off stage as Chic Sale. Just a thin-looking boy. And who would ever imagine Harold Ross as editor of the sophisticated New Yorker? Leo Newman, dean of the ticket brokers.

Patsy Cain, whose scenic warehouses offer the only upbeat in the theatrical collapse. Twice, recently, I've seen strong men struggling to keep back tears along the street. That wrings the heart. Yet, I know an earnest thinker who believes we are near the greatest things that ever happened to the world.

Every writer receives letters from the neophyte as to his reaction to certain literary ideas. Perhaps the most admirable advice on the subject was given by Thomas Masson, then editor of Life, to Christopher Morley. He said: "If you have an idea, look at it steadily until you think you see in it something that no one else has seen; then it'll be your own, and something every editor will want."

So brave and successful was Nellie Revell's fight to regain health and a place in the world, most of us merely accept it as just another recovery. The other night, I was reminded of her gallant struggle by hearing her over the radio—cheerful, well poised and in love with living. I know of no one on the air in several years whose voice and diction were so engaging. And what she said was direct and helpful.

A clerk in an avenue shop tells me, Al Jolson, admiring a certain cane in a window, ordered 10 sent to as many friends. On his way out, he remembered 10 more and wound up with a total purchase of 30. Nothing gives one such a skyey feeling as remembering old friends with gifts now and then. Maybe that accounts for Jolson's buoyancy. I've a notion to order a bucket of red drops to scatter around.

Perhaps ingrained Scot inhibitions arouse my admiration for the reckless buyer. My purchases usually are faltering. I leave a store wishing I had bought more. I remember watching Charlie Norris select 300 ties at a whack, at Charvet's in Paris, for friends.

The King of Spain, when kinging, shopped with the greatest profligacy. He often bought 100 suits at a time, and the same number of shoes from his bootmaker. Noel Coward is, reputedly, the most extravagant buyer of pajamas and house robes. Tom Mix used to buy those cream-colored gallon hats in several gross lots, of all sizes for himself and friends. George Jean Nathan is said to own 75 airplane-shouldered overcoats, and Roxy is a sucker for silk underwear in six-dozen lots.

Among ladies, Mrs. James Donahue is the heaviest buyer of fur coats, and Clara Bell Walsh is the milliners' best friend. Barbara Hutton tops the list of shoe buyers—at least on the Atlantic seaboard.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WOULD YOU LIKE TO LIVE IN THE COUNTRY—IN YOUR VERY-OWN HOME IN HONEST-TO-GOODNESS COUNTRY?

No nerve racking city noises. No stale city smells. Only the peaceful sweetness of dew-spangled dawns and star-spangled nights—

Best of all, no people crowding you for every inch you occupy—

Nothing but the Great, Big, Beautiful Outdoors; mountains, deserts, rivers, prairies; all those lovely Wide Open Spaces you've read about—

WOULD YOU REALLY LIKE TO LIVE IN THEM—LIKE TO LEAVE YOUR CITY HOME AND NEVER COME BACK?

If you would, you'll probably have your chance. This country has come to the point where many hold that it will either have to go agriculture or go bust. There are far-reaching schemes afoot for promoting interest in country life and moving jobless folk out into it. These schemes are fostered by those who despise city slums; think sweat-shops are an unmitigated evil and believe that normal people love the beauty of growing green places.

All of which sounds perfectly dandy, and undoubtedly you agree with them. Haven't you been saying, for years and years, that there was nothing you'd like better than going to the country? Sure you have! And aren't you always sketching out the sort of a Little Place you'd like to have—one of those cute little Old English type of farmhouses, with an adorable rustic barn, a cow and some chickens, and a few acres in maybe peaches? With the Loveliest Flower Garden! Indeed you are.

So then, of course, you're going to be perfectly crazy with delight if some big farming project is put into operation that gives you free transportation and a homestead out in the wilderness.

OR ARE YOU?

It's my hunch that you aren't!

WORSE YET, I'M BETTING THAT IF ONE MILLION UNEMPLOYED CITY PERSONS WERE SENT INTO THE BIG BEAUTIFUL OUTDOORS AND TOLD TO STAY THERE, 999,999 OF THEM WOULD FALL SMACK IN A FIT—AND THE MILLIONTH WOULD START SWIMMING FOR LONDON.

And why do I have these horrid thoughts?

Because I, too, once believed that people meant what they said when they gargled so gleefully about Dear Mother Nature; and, being a born hick myself with an actual residence in the tall timbers, I took them at their word and asked them out for a visit.

So then—what?

So then, they all came, with their trick lounging pajamas, beauty creams, bridge scores, plus sixes, picture puzzles, bath tub gin, ukuleles and almost-collegiate sweaters packed into the rumble seat—and for exactly 24 hours they had a wonderful time. After that, things began to happen on all sides of the western front at once.

Two developed toothaches. Not just ordinary toothaches, but great big abscesses requiring major operations and famous city surgeons immediately. One had heart trouble and was sure that the altitude—about 123 feet—would inevitably prove fatal. Another was sure that her husband was Being Unfaithful. (This fear, of course, is common to all female country visitors). One of the men suddenly remembered an Important Business Deal; and the rest—but why prolong the agony?

Within the space of one day, all my city guests were completely, entirely and absolutely fed up with God's Great Outdoors—and they couldn't get going fast enough back to the dear, demoralized, degraded metropolis.

And if that isn't the common experience of most country dwellers with most city visitors, I'll eat my best new pancake bonnet.

The average city citizen doesn't know a cow from a wall bed, and doesn't want to. When the first moonless night comes along, he thinks the power house must have broken down. And as for waiting four months to gather in his shoestring potato crops from the spreading rhubarb tree—try and make him

So may I timidly suggest that if you back-to-the-soil advocates are going to turn Americans rural, you do it under gas.

All of which brings us back to my first question—WOULD YOU LIKE TO LIVE IN THE COUNTRY?

IF YOU WOULD — UNDER WHAT CONDITIONS? HOW NEAR TO A MOVIE AND A BEAUTY PARLOR? OR THE BACK ROOM OF A DRUG STORE?

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Have you the disagreeable habit in your home of insisting upon reading aloud to others what interests you, even though they are reading something to themselves?

The one who reads aloud usually is trying to support some previous statement he or she has made and takes the opportunity to declare it again.

Some make the claim that they are better able to understand the printed word and it makes a stronger impression upon them when they read it aloud.

A very selfish way to get results, and usually it drives other readers from the room.

This may be an explanation of why so many young folk prefer to read or study in their own rooms, rather than remain with the family circle.

There should be a time for the family visits and after some time spent in reading most of the members of a family are willing to engage in conversation.

But nearly every person wants some undisturbed time to himself.

'Dictatorship' Here and in Germany

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The report from American diplomatic and consular representatives in Germany to Secretary Hull, on the attitude of the existing government there toward the Jews, sets forth that attacks were made upon them, but that the government, much concerned, has ordered the ending of the outrages. No governmental regime is strong enough to welcome a universal protest against its policies.

Meanwhile, Americans, among some industrialists and intellectuals, who have been contemptuous of the processes of democracy and insistent on the need of dictatorship and absolute autocracy here, are having an opportunity to pass upon their governmental ideal.

Hindenburg is now a mere figurehead, apparently weary of the long struggle at his age and glad to be denied responsibility.

With a few complaining of "dictatorial powers" given President Roosevelt to meet a grave emergency of an economic nature, it is interesting to find what a real dictatorship, won by armed men, really means. It means something quite different from anything that anyone proposes to give the American President.

Illustration of Real Dictatorship

One of the plans of Hitler is completely to suppress all political opposition to the government. If we had a real dictatorship in this country it would mean, by the Hitler standard, the suppression of all Republican opposition in Congress, and out, to the administration; the refusal of the public platform to representatives of all parties but that of the President.

Of course, no such thing would be tolerable or possible in this country.

In furtherance of that plan, the Hitler regime proposes to end the freedom of the press and the liberty of speech, thereby outlawing all criticism of any governmental act.

That, of course, would be impossible in this country unless there is an inconceivable change in public sentiment.

To make easy the suppression of all criticism, the dictator ship in Germany proposes to suspend all constitutional guarantees of personal liberty. This means that your home and mine, if in Germany, may be broken into and searched at any time without warrant and even without charges.

That is a real autocracy or dictatorship—something rather remote from anything that has been asked for the President here.

Comparison of Two Countries

Nor is that all the difference. Under the Nazi dictatorship, government is to be armed with a secret censorship under a decree making it possible to read and stop cables, telegrams, letters and to tap telephone wires.

But here is the meaning of a real absolute dictatorship having no possible contact with democracy or liberty—eight concentration camps are formed in Germany for the confinement of thousands of political prisoners. These prisoners are to be put to labor, subjected to forced military drill, and compelled to pray half an hour every morning and every evening.

When an occasional American complains that the President's plan to enlist 250,000 jobless men, who want to enlist in a peace time army for conservation work at a wage equal to that given soldiers in time of war, to meet an emergency, is "fascism," he may well turn to Germany to learn what dictatorship really is.

Lost Confidence Brought the Panic

The extraordinary powers—call them dictatorial if you will—which have been given the President here are granted under the forms of our democracy. Powers as great or greater have been given Presidents in a crisis in other times. They always are exercised by the head of the nation in days of battle.

And today we are engaged in a greater war against a more dangerous enemy than we have ever known before.

The need was forced upon us by the utter lack of courageous leadership and initiative in governmental, business and financial fields. For three years no one qualified for leadership, no one stood out and assumed responsibility, everyone waited for someone else to assume the burdens.

And the result of that was that our drift toward the abyss was gaining in momentum.

And the result of that was that everyone lost confidence in everything. And that brought the panic.

The assumption of extraordinary powers under grants voluntarily given the President under the forms of our democracy has restored confidence and resulted in great achievements.

But no one proposes to suspend constitutional guarantees of personal liberty, to put a padlock on the press, to bar the way to the public platform, to make criticism of governmental activity a crime, to establish concentration camps for the confinement of thousands of political opponents.

We Need Leadership

We have shown that such is the elasticity of our governmental forms that when an emergency demands, the Executive can be armed with unusual powers—and without any compromising of our democratic principles. In other words, that a democracy can wage war under leadership even against a depression.

Without these unusual powers not normally needed nor exercised, American democracy would be discredited and would have to give way to a different governmental concept—a real dictatorship, with liberties and human rights brushed aside, sustained by bayonets.

In the absence of an authoritative and decisive leadership we were headed straight for a dictatorship—either of the communistic or the fascist order. Speaker Rainey was right when he said that unless the necessary power for action is entrusted to the President under existing conditions we shall open the way for some such experiment as is now in process in Germany.

Leadership Armed With Power

Meanwhile it is to be hoped that we shall hear less loose talk to the effect that the granting of necessary powers to the nation's leader, who has the nation's confidence, means the substitution of fascism for democracy. A comparison with what we have here in America today with what they are getting in Germany reveals the absurdity of the claim.

Of course no one seriously makes it.

We doubt if in three-quarters of a century any man in the Presidency has been so thoroughly temperamentally, instinctively devoted to the fundamentals of Jeffersonian democracy as the present incumbent.

What we are trying to do in America just now is to justify and save democracy; and that means a war against economic evils; and that means that we must have leadership armed with power and sustained by the co-operation and confidence of the people.

Isn't It So?
